SEEK OUTSIDE JURY FOR HALL TRIAL

To Make Effort For Foreign Jury In Hall-Mills Case

Early Trial Of Four Accused Will Depend Upon Jury Decision

PROSECUTOR ASKS FOR FOREIGN JURY

Wants Entire Jury Drawn From Outside Somerset County—Defense Opposed

(International News Service)
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 18.—Early trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, and their cousin, Henry de la B. Carpender, for the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, depends on the decision of Chief Justice Gummere regarding a foreign jury.

This was disclosed today by Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, as he formulated plans for a bitter fight before the state supreme court for a jury drawn outside Somerset county. The application will be made Thursday.

Robert H. McCarter of the Hall-Stevens-Carpender defense, will oppose Simpson's application on the ground that no reason exists for the summoning of a foreign jury.

Boys Fair Camp To Open September 27

Penn State College Men To Give Lectures During Course Of Local Fair

A complete program which alternates instruction and recreation periods has been arranged by Farm Agent H. R. McCulloch for the Boys' Camp which will be conducted during the coming New Castle fair. Every boy in the county between the age of 8 and 21 years, whether a member of a Farm Bureau organization or not is eligible to attend the camp which will open on the afternoon of September 27.

It will continue until noon October 1. Approximately 25 boys will be enrolled in the camp which will be located in its regular quarters in the loft of the horse barn near the eastern edge of the fair grounds.

Agricultural experts from Penn State College will be at the camp for the purpose of delivering lectures along their lines while an open livestock judging contest is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

Through the financial co-operation of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce an exhibit of boys' agricultural work will be conducted at the camp and is expected to be a center of great interest.

Reservations for the camp may be made at the Farm Bureau on Croton avenue.

Dorcas Class Picnic.

The Dorcas class of Epworth M. E. Bible school held a very enjoyable corn, weiner and marshmallow roast at the home of Mrs. Richard Wright of King street, Friday evening.

There were 40 present. Music and games formed the pastimes of the evening.

BUILDING EXTENSION TO JOHNSON BRONZE COMPANY PLANT HERE

New Structural Steel Building 150x56 Is Being Erected At Plant

Big Demand For Company Product Results In Large Extension

"Owing to the demand for products, the Johnson Bronze Company is erecting an additional steel building, 150x56, in South Mill street.

The new building is necessary to adequately care for increased production of bronze back babbitt-lined bearings for motors of all kinds.

When the building is ready for occupancy it not only will result in increased products, if business continues good, but also a larger employment roster.

Steelwork Going Up

The new building, of steel material, is being erected immediately north of the main Johnson Bronze plant. It fronts on South Mill street. Steel girders have been placed, the building is under roof and at the present time workmen are working on the ground floor. It is not known exactly when the annex will be ready for occupancy. However, erection of the building is proceeding rapidly.

Today P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze Company, stated that the new building is being erected to take care of increasing production in another department of the company's business.

Demand Is Great

The company has been making bronze-back babbitt lined bearings for motors of all kinds in the machine shop, but the demand for the product has become so great that the officials have deemed it necessary to take this phase of the manufacturing from the machine shop and house it in a separate building which is being built by the Truscon Steel Company.

The Johnson Bronze Company has keen competition, but owing to to the fact that the product has been very close precision work which cannot be manufactured by the average machine shop, the business of the Johnson Bronze has been developed and a strong demand has been made for their products. The erection of the new building is but an evidence of the growth of the plant and the quality of the material manufactured.

HURRICANE HITS FLORIDA COAST

(International News Service)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 18. All communication with the lower east coast of Florida below Ft. Pierce was cut off today by the hurricane which roared in from the Bahamas and tore a swath of destruction believed to have centered near the Palm Beaches.

The full force of the storm struck the southern Atlantic coast shortly before three o'clock this morning and soon after communication facilities had been destroyed.

Harry M. Long To Head Legion

Nominated For Place As Legion Commander At Meeting Last Night

OTHER OFFICERS ARE NOMINATED

Harry M. Long, at present Senior Vice Commander of the Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343, American Legion will be the next post commander of the organization, his nomination for the office being the only one offered at the meeting of the post Friday evening, September 17.

The nomination of Mr. Long follows out the custom of the local post of the Legion of elevating the senior vice commander to the highest office. In this manner, the men who are elected post commander have had an experience in the lower offices which fits them for the duties of the commandership.

Other Nominations

For the office of Senior Vice Commander, Ivor V. Davies, at present Junior Vice Commander, was nominated. For the Junior Vice Commandership two names were placed in nomination, the two being Pat. J. Dempsey, at present adjutant, and Attorney Orville Brown. For Post Finance Officer there was only one nomination, the usual one, Edward E. Marshall who holds the distinction of being the only officer now serving who was one of the original officers of the post. It is now a matter of form to nominate no one but Mr. Marshall for this important office.

For Post Historian, Thomas McCombs was nominated and for Post Chaplin, A. A. Raab and Earl Toler. For Trustee, their retiring commander, Attorney W. Walter Braham was nominated. For sergeant-at-arms, De Graff Robinson, Earl Sowers and Wilbur Hughes were nominated. The election will be held at the next post meeting.

The nominee for post commander, Harry M. Long, who will be unopposed, will assume his new duties with a wealth of experience back of him. He has served on various committees, has conducted a membership drive, and has served as junior and senior vice commander. In all of his work he has been efficient and faithful and his elevation to the commandership comes as a well merited recognition of service.

Can Collection In Two Wards

Monthly collection of tin cans of the residents of the city will get underway again in the Sixth and Seventh wards next week, it was announced by Howard Phillips, superintendent of garbage collection, today. The residents of those districts are asked to have the cans ready when the garbage men make the regular collection and place them in a convenient place and container at the side of the garbage cans.

Piazzi Not Guilty But Assessed Costs

Not guilty but pay the costs was the verdict in the case of Anthony Piazzi on trial yesterday afternoon before Judge Hildebrand on a liquor charge.

George Ohlin of Bessemer, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor is on trial before Judge Hildebrand today.

Modern Solomon Contrives Test For Love Of Juvenile Newly-Weds

Mable Ousley Humphrey and her husband, Clifton Humphrey.

By Central Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—Young love is romantic and all that, but the local juvenile court holds that it is full of danger when its "victims" actually attempt to make their dreams come true in precipitate marriage.

Judge E. E. Porterfield, when faced with the case of a 17-year-old husband and his 15-year-old bride, decided that time would be the best possible test to which to put this young love. So the bride, Mabel Ousley Humphrey, is to go into a "home" for a year while her husband "digs in" in business. During the year they are not to see each other.

The newlyweds, each holding the other's hand, made a desperate plea to the court to permit them to continue their marriage uninterrupted. But Mabel was made a ward of the juvenile court and was sent to the Interdenominational Home for Girls for one year.

The sentence carried the contingency the length of the time spent at the home would be dependent upon her behavior and the earning power of her 17-year-old husband.

Unable to restrain a sob when sentence was pronounced, the girl clasped her husband's arm and began to cry convulsively.

"Won't I be allowed to call on her?" he asked with a catch in his voice.

"No," the judge answered.

"I'll make her the right kind of a husband." Clinton pleaded eagerly, "if you'll only give me a chance."

With no attempt at concealing his affection, he turned to Mabel, whispered a few words to her and patted her hand. She was wearing a diamond engagement ring and platinum wedding band on the third finger.

But the judge was not to be moved. If this was love—well it would prove itself.

Carnegie Steel Safety Men Have Great Time At Boy Scout Camp

"Golf" Tournament Is One Big Feature Of Day—Winners Named

Meeting Of Safety Organization Held In Connection With Outing

(By BART RICHARDS)

This lad Joe Kirkwood, who did tricks out at the New Castle Field club Friday afternoon, doesn't shoot a bad stick, but not even Joe ever pulled the trick shots that were seen on the golf course at the Boy Scout camp at the same time Kirkwood was at the field club.

The safety committee of the Carnegie Steel company was out on the 18-hole course Doc Zerner laid out, and old St. Andrew, patron saint of golf, must have done a couple of nose dives and a tail spin or two if he hovered over the course and saw some of the weird shots that resulted.

Fairway is All Rough.

In all the world there probably isn't another golf course like the one at the Boy Scout camp. Certainly there couldn't be two such courses. It resembles Piping Rock, or Grassy Sprain or Baltusrol, in that it has 18 holes. The resemblance is further enhanced by the fact that the cups are round and the flags are on sticks. After that there is a slight difference.

The fairways aren't, that's all,

Mexican Bandits Pay Penalty For Rosenthal Slaying

Report Six Bandits Implicated In Rosenthal Murder Have Paid Penalty

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—Six bandits have paid with their lives for the kidnaping and killing of Jacob Rosenthal, American business man of Woodmere, N. Y., according to a government statement today.

Unofficial statements declared that as many as fourteen bandits had either been executed or killed during fighting between the bandits and troops.

Three bandits, who had been held as suspects, were taken to the scene of the kidnaping to act as guards. Twenty other bandits swooped down from the hills and attempted to effect their release. In the fighting that ensued the three bandits attempted to escape and were killed.

Mexico Prepares To Quell Revolt Of Yaqui Indians

Fifteen Thousand Federal Troops Are Being Mobilized For Task

NO WORD ON FATE OF GEN. OBREGON

Troops Are Pursuing Remnant Of Bandit Gang After Numerous Brushes

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—Fifteen thousand federal troops were being mobilized today to undertake the extermination against the Yaqui Indians, reported in violent revolt.

The original war department estimate was that 5,000 men would be sufficient for the campaign, but this number is now considered too small, the government being desirous of swift and decisive results.

In former campaigns against the Yaquis, where smaller bodies of men were dispatched the Indians usually succeeded in entrenching themselves thoroughly, thus insuring a long-drawn-out compaign without decisive outcome.

No Word of Obregon

The whereabouts of General Obregon and his fate are still obscure. One report has it that the statements earlier in the week that General Obregon had been besieged and then relieved were erroneous, apparently no direct word having been received from General Obregon since it was reported that General Manzo's troops had relieved him.

According to one version now in circulation, General Manzo's troops failed to actually relieve General Obregon, but merely joined with the troops defending him and were last reported still giving battle to the Yaquis.

Among those who are reported to have been killed in brushes between the bandits and the federal troops are the former General Bonifacio Hinojosa of Zapata's forces, a former mayor of the village of Huitzila, near where the kidnapping of Rosenthal occurred, and Miguel Garcia, a warden in the jail of Huirzilac. These men are said to have been left as dead as the bandits fled. Examination of their bodies would seem to indicate remarkable marksmanship on the part of federal troops, for they were all shot through the right eye.

Troops are still pursuing the remnants of the bandit gang.

Will Make Effort To Have Prisoners Admitted To Bail

It is understood that action to have Clifford Johnson, Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Minnie Clements, held for murder in connection with the death of Joseph Richael released on bail and on lessened charges, will be inaugurated in the near future by counsel for the persons being held.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN HELD FOR COURT TRIAL FOR DEATH OF FARMER

Preliminary Hearing In East Brook Case Held On Friday Evening

CORONER'S JURY RENDERS VERDICT

Hearing And Inquest Are Held At Same Time—Richeal's Sons Testify

Clifford Johnson, Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Minnie Clements, occupants of the automobile in the lane between the Carrick and Richeal farms in Hickory township last Tuesday night, when Joseph Richeal came to his death, apparently as a result of a blow struck on the head during an alleged argument with the occupants of the car, were held following the hearing and inquest last night by Alderman Walter T. Hamilton for the December term of court on charges of murder. They were held without bail.

The Coroner's jury summoned by County Coroner J. P. Caldwell at the same time rendered a verdict, implicating Clifford Johnson, driver and owner of the car, alone.

The verdict of the jury was "We find that Joseph Richael came to his death on the evening of September 14, 1926 in Hickory township, as the result of a hemorrhage produced by a blow on the head, presumeably delivered by Clifford Johnson."

Some New Developments

Testimony produced at the hearing and inquest, which were held at the office of Alderman Walter T. Hamilton, brought out one or two new features, namely, that it was possibly the flashlight in the hands of Joseph Richael that broke the window of the Johnson machine and was the direct cause of the alleged assault by Johnson on Mr. Richeal and his son William. Also that intimations concerning the woman in the car had a bearing on the argument. These things were brought out on cross-examination.

Previous to the start of the hearing, hundreds of persons attempted to get into the office of Alderman Hamilton, although there was hardly more than room for those people directly concerned and interested in the case.

Police Clear Crowds

The crowd became so insistent that it be permitted to attempt to get into the place, that police officers were required to clear the sidewalks in front of the Citizen's National Bank building in order that regular traffic might be permitted on the sidewalks.

Those testifying were William and David Richeal, sons of the dead man, Dr. Loyal W. Wilson and Dr. William Cleland, Sheriff H. M. Reynolds, William Carrick, Guy L. and Kenneth Lockhart.

Attorney James A. Chambers assisted District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, as counsel for the Richeal family, in looking after the interests of the commonwealth. Attorneys S. P. Emery, Clyde Gibson and John Powers were present in the interest of the three defendants.

At the close of taking testimony, Attorney Powers asked for the discharge of Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Clements. Attorney Chambers argued that all three be held. Attorney Gibson also spoke in behalf of the discharge of Blackford and Mrs. Clements. The arguments of Attorney Chambers were upheld and the three defendants were held by Alderman Hamilton.

First Witness

William Richeal, younger son of the dead man, was the first witness called. He told of the family having supper about six o'clock Eastern Standard time. The milking had then been done, he said. His father went to the barn to get the buckets in which the milk for the pigs was to be placed. He was engaged in separating the milk.

When his father failed to return as soon as expected, he had gone out to find the reason for the delay. His father had told him of seeing a light down the lane and said they would go down and find out who they were and where they went. His brother David, had brought a flashlight, as they went to the lane. The father had said they might be stealing corn and that it would be

New Phase Looms In Case Against Aimee McPherson

Mother Of Former Evangelist Arrested; Six Others To Be Arrested Soon

MOTHER IS GIVEN BAIL OF $2,500

Charges Are Also Made Against Mrs. McPherson —False Evidence Is Charged

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—With her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, already under arrest and warrants issued for six others, including the famous woman evangelist, the case against Aimee McPherson was entering a new phase today.

Only the fact that she was confined to her bed suffering from an abscessed nose prevented the arrest of the evangelist yesterday on charges of criminal conspiracy and preparing false evidence.

Shortly after her arrest Mrs. Kennedy was arraigned and was allowed liberty after posting a bond of $2,500. Her preliminary hearing was set for September 27.

"Begoggled Woman"

Mrs. McPherson, according to the complaint upon which the warrant for her arrest was based, was the "begoggled woman" who spent nine days in the Carmel cottage, which presumably had been rented by Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple.

The complaint states that Mrs. McPherson, "from the 19th day of May until the 29th of May, 1926, resided and remained concealed at Carmel, from which place she departed with Ormiston, with the full knowledge and consent of Mrs. Kennedy."

The complaint also declares that Mrs. McPherson, her mother and five others, including Ormiston, are charged with violation of section 134 of the penal code, preparing false evidence.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN FROM SHANNON GARAGE

Clyde Shannon, 222 East Wallace avenue, reported to the police this morning that his 1925 model seven passenger Buick had been stolen from his garage sometime after 10 o'clock last night. It bore Pennsylvania license 50-474 when taken.

Arthur Mometer

First down and ten to go with ninety yards to the goal, and eleven men with but one idea, working with might and soul, first down with their goal at stake, and ahead an open field, will the backfield fail in its effort to gain, will the other eleven yield? A forward pass or a wide end run or a crash through the hole at guard, and on they go towards the other goal, fighting for every yard. Now this is football, but often it seems that life is much the same, its a battle to win every yard you get, a fighting, entrancing game. You'll have first downs and you'll muff the ball, and the field will be wet or dry, but it doesn't matter whatever the score, if you'll never forget to try. For trying wins in the game of life, or in crashing a football line, it's the heart that counts, not the score you make, the weather is seventy-nine.

Strong Address By Miss Walker

President Of Lawrence County W. C. T. U. Discusses Conditions

In a forceful and interesting address made by Miss Margaret S. Walker, president of Lawrence County Women's Christian Temperance Union at the 42nd annual convention of the County W. C. T. U. in the Central Presbyterian church of this city, Friday, she concluded her talk with the following:

President Coolidge says, "The law represents the voice of the people. Beyond it, and supporting it, is divine sanction. Enforcement of law and obedience to law by the very nature of our institutions are not matters of choice in the republic, but the expression of a moral argument of and in accordance with the truth. William Penn, founder of our Commonwealth said; Governments like clocks go from the motion men give them; and as governments are made and moved by men, so by them they are ruined too. Therefore governments rather depend on men than men upon governments.

"Do we not rest in assurance upon our government and especially upon our constitution? When worried do we see the lawlessness—when our sence of justice is outraged as it has been in our own County many times in the last few years—we still depend upon our democratic form of government and our constitution and think some way somehow we are going to escape God's judgements.

Hon. James H. Beck, former solicitor General of the United States in a recent address said; We are living in very critical days. Society is confronted with the grave question whether the increase in the potential of mechanical power has been accompanied by a corresponding increase in the potential of Spiritual power. Can an age which is oblivious of yesterday and indifferent tomorrow—which builds more garages than schoolhouses—more moving picture houses than churches escape the indictment which the sacred chronicler preferred against the cultured Athens of 200 years ago?

"An eminent Hindoo scholar after visiting our country said; 'This vaunted civilization has raised selfishness to a religious creed-mammon to the throne of God, adulteration to a science, falsehood to a fine art. It has sapped the foundation of home life—its vulgar haste and love of sensation are invading even the realm of religion. Its boasted scientific inventions have done more harm than good to humanity's best and permanent interests. They have only the surface of life which its votaries love and know'.

"It is a dark picture when we see how eminent thinkers regard us. There is only one hope for us as a nation. If my people which is are called by name, shall humble them selves and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land''

Town Talk

Styles change, especially among the ladies, and sometimes you see the old styles on display either from preference or from a desire to create something new from the old. On East street there was seen a woman pass along with a watch and chain pinned on the waist of her dress, just like they did it a few years ago. Maybe the wrist watch is going out of style.

T. W. Eckert, of 926 Morton St., brought to the News office on Friday afternoon, two large tomatoes that weighed abut one pound and three-quarters apiece or a little over three pounds combined.

The tomatoes were of the lucious red variety and Mr. Eckert says that they contain very few seeds, being of the almost seedless variety. The owner didn't remember the name of the tomatoes, but he did remember that when he purchased the plants they were little bits of things and looked ready to pass out any minute but they survived to grow record tomatoes.

Something in the way of a sunflower of unusual size is to be found, at the place of Sincie E. Lotterberry at 1121½ Moravia street a communication to the News this morning states. The flower is eight feet, seven inches high and five inches around the stalk. There are twenty two flowers and buds on it.

CARNEGIE SAFETY MEN HAVE GREAT TIME AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

they're just rough. Rough from the first tee to the last hole, and what a rough. Grass as long as a day in jail and as tough as a summer hotel proprietor. Only iron clubs are used to play the course, but to the irons should be added a pick and shovel. The course is 3,295 feet long, not yards m'friend, feet, and every shot calls for a short swing and a prayer.

Any time you hear a golfer mention a sporty course, refer him to the Carnegie course at the Boy Scout camp at Kennedy's Mills and the argument is closed.

Oh Yes, the Tournament.

By this time you may have gathered the impression that there was a tournament out there Friday. There was, a bang-up tournament with 48 golfers battling old Colonel Bogey. The general safety committee winner was W. H. Tipton of the Mingo-Bellaire works, who turned in a snappy gross 73, with a handicap of 7, making his net score 66. He also had the low gross of the day and won the prize for that. He gets his name inscribed on the Carnegie safety cup, along with John A. Oartel, who won that honor last year. For a year Mr. Tipton has the cup to use as he pleases, although these days there's nothing to put in a loving cup.

A. R. Mathieson of the Ohio works, Youngstown, won the runner-up prize, his gross being 76, handicap 7, net 69. Bart Richards won the guest's prize, his gross being 80, handicap 18, net 62. Russ Melvin was really the medalist of the day, however, with a gross 88, handicap 30, net 58.

Not all of the players stayed in two figures. Some of them turned in scores that resembled their telephone numbers, or their weight. Not that this is an attempt at belittlin', but a cool 170 or thereabouts isn't what one would call championship golf.

They All Had a Good Time.

But good or bad as the score might be, every player had a real time, and their scores seemed to make no difference to the appetites they had for the chicken dinner served at 6 o'clock. Those chickens must have been perfect little ladies and gentlemen for they were as tender as a sunburned back. Just fell right off the bones and needed but little mastication. With the chicken were such knick knacks as yellow bantam corn, snowy mashed potatoes, pickles, olives, ad infinitum, and then, oh blissful memory, lemon pie that reached clear around to your ears when you ran a lip over it.

The members of the general safety committee arrived in New Castle Friday morning and with the members of the local safety committee attended the fall show of the New Castle Garden club in the Carnegie auditorium. Then to the scout camp where a buffet lunch was served at noon. One of these old time lunches, with yellow cheese, bologna, pickles and—delicious cider.

Some Speeches.

Nobody wanted any set speeches but there were a few extemporaneous addresses when J. Clarence Miller presented the golf prizes. George A. Rigby, general chairman of the day spoke, as did John C. Taggart, assistant general chairman; J. Clarence Miller and Dr. H. E. Zerner, who were responsible for the arrangements; John A. Oartel, chairman of the general safety committee, and A. W. Chilton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the general safety council present were John A. Oartel of the central office, Pittsburgh, general chairman; M. Lenhart, Duquesne works; J. W. Benner, Homestead; J. R. McVey, Clairton; J. K. De Weese, Clairton; R. H. Hunter, Edgar Thomson works, Braddock; W. H. Tipton, Mingo-Bellaire works; M. L. Champion, Clairton; Harry Shields, Homestead; Phil Fenton, Duquesne; A. R. French, central office; W. W. Hill, Duquesne; Walter Greenwood, Homestead; James Hughes, Duquesne.

The following members of the Carnegie safety committee of the New Castle works were present: George A. Rigby, general superintendent; John C. Taggart, assistant general superintendent; J. Clarence Miller, Dr. H. E. Zerner, S. S. McCleary, J. M. McMillin, J. K. Heess, J. A. Allen, R. H. Updegraff, R. B. Davenport, E. J. Blanning, C. D. Mills, C. L. Hughes, D. B. Woolcock, G. R. Bauder, R. H. Thompson, Jesse Preston, W. C. Justice.

Guests were Fred L. Rentz, president of the Chamber of Commerce; A. W. Chilton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and the writer.

The weather was perfect and the Carnegie men made the most of what is now looked forward to as a big day every year.

You may be interested to take a look at the scores. Here they are:

TO MAKE EFFORT FOR FOREIGN JURY IN HALL-MILLS CASE

luxurious mansion in New Brunswick. Her brothers and cousin, remanded to jail after the four defendants pleaded not guilty to the murder indictments before Supreme Court Justice Parker, placed their hope of liberty in a speedy trial and a favorable verdict.

Mrs. Hall gazed unflinchingly at Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman", the state's star witness, when she entered the courtroom. Mrs. Gibson returned the stare. The white-haired widow was nervous as she took her seat with her kinsmen.

As she arose to answer to the indictments, however, she answered in an even, low voice:

"Not guilty!"

Henry Stevens was calm during the hearing, but Willie and Carpender appeared nervous.

Faith in Innocence.

Mrs. Paul E. Bonner, a sister of the murdered minister, was the first to congratulate Mrs. Hall when Justice Parker permitted the rector's widow to remain at liberty in $40,000. She rushed up to Mrs. Hall and kissed her.

"The indictment of Mrs. Hall has not shaken our faith in her innocence," said Mrs. Bonner. "My sister and I always have had complete and full confidence in her innocence."

Special Prosecutor Simpson, agreement to permit Mrs. Hall to remain on bail, told the court that information held by the prosecution, not presented to the grand jury, placed the widow in a different light than her brothers and cousin.

Mrs. Hall ate supper with her kinsmen in the jail.

Fruit Men To Hold Meeting Wednesday

Association To Gather At S. R. Huey Orchard For Regular Session

Members of the Lawrence County Fruit Growers' association will hold their regular weekly meeting next Wednesday at the orchard of S. R. Huey on the New Wilmington road just north of New Castle.

Following an inspection of Mr. Huey's orchard the association will hold its regular business meeting which was postponed this week due to inclement weather.

Lanigan And Covert Visit Old Home Town

Ralph Lanigan and Frank Covert, New Castle men, who are known the length and breadth of the United States in theatrical circles as the dancing team of "Lanigan and Covert" are in New Castle this week looking up old friends and visiting with their many acquaintances of a quarter of a century ago before they took the road to seek fame on the glamorous side of the footlights.

Lanigan was introduced to a News reporter by City Detective John Moore. Moore and Lanigan were buddies twenty years ago in the tin mill and swam together as kids in the old "Blackie". Covert, too, worked in the mills as a youngster. The pair got their start on the stage by appearing in local amateur theatricals. Twenty-two years ago they formed the partnership which they still maintain and it has remained intact for over a score of years, a thing considered quite unusual in vaudeville circles.

They have played in vaudeville houses all over the United States and are now considered a standard sketch on the "Number Two spots" of the big time theatre bills.

"The old town looks the same in a lot of ways but there have been a lot of improvements since the last time I was home a couple of years ago", Lanigan told the reporter. He went on to say that the change which impressed him most was the altered appearance of the old "Opera House", now the Capitol Theatre. He remembers it as the place where all the traveling shows appeared and were the lure of the stage was first imbued in him and Covert by watching the agile footed steppers of such sterling attractions as "Haverly's Minstrels" hammer the boards with the old time breaks of the buck and wing. It was hard to copy the steps from their distant roosts in the gallery but practice made perfect and soon they too were able to swing their feet to the regular "um ta-ta ta" of the sand box.

After spending a few days in New Castle Lanigan and Covert will proceed to New York where they are booked to open the coming season.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN HELD FOR COURT TRIAL FOR DEATH OF FARMER

When they arrived at the point where the car was, his father had asked those in the car if they knew they were on private property. They said they were not and were on the road to Lakewood. His father told them the correct way, then flashed the light in the car. This seemed to make those in the car angry. He thought the glass of the car was broken as the driver got out, he said.

Driver Knocks Him Down

The driver had then gotten out, came back and knocked him down on the bank at the side of the lane and then went on and "boxed with" his father, striking him. The car then went down the lane a considerable distance and turned, while they followed their father toward the head of the lane. As the car passed, the point at the head of the lane, someone in the car remarked as they saw Mr. Richeal lying on the ground, his head in the arms of his son David "Ha, the old man" and something else that he did not hear distinctly, the boy testified. He had then gone to the Carrick home for help while David stayed with his father. The neighbors came, it was determined that his father was dead and his body was carried into the home and placed on a lounge. One of the men went into town to the Sheriff's office and the doctor called.

Johnson, the driver, he said struck him and then attacked his father. He had something in his hand about six or eight inches long. He heard some one say "Ouch" as Johnson struck at his father. He thought it was his father's voice. While the car went down the lane and turned, his father walked toward the head of the lane, possibly more than a hundred feet before he staggered backward and was caught by David. He did not speak to the boys after the argument with Johnson. Johnson, the driver, did the talking, he said, the other man and woman not saying anything. (At this point, he pointed out Johnson as the man, he referred to as the driver.) He said he had seen him with a sweater on the night of the argument.

Cross Examination

Attorney Clyde Gibson then went into cross-examination of the witness. Under his questioning, William Richeal told of the location of the lane and his home with reference to the East Brook road and of a telephone pole some two hundred feet down the lane from the East Brook Station road. The car, he said had been just below this pole. He said the car was a Chevrolet coupe and that they had seen the lights and went down for that reason.

He had seen Johnson come out of the Carrick cornfield at the left of the road as you go into the Carrick home but that as far as he could see, he was carrying nothing. His father had the flashlight. He had the pencil and paper for taking the license number. His father was talking to the occupants of the car from the right hand side. Blackford was on the right hand side. The glass in the door of the car was down at the time.

He was not sure that the engine had been started and then shut off before Johnson got out. Johnson got out, he said before the glass was broken. His father was standing at the right side of the car, he was a little to the rear of the car and his brother David on the other side of the father from William. He at first said his father was not very angry, but finally did say that his father was sort of excited and angry and might have spoken a little roughly.

Some one in the car, he said, on questioning that his father ought not to talk that way in front of a lady and that his father had remarked the woman in the car was no lady.

He said that the people in the car insisted that it was the way to Lakewood and that he had said it was not the way to Lakewood. He then repeated his remarks relative to his father walking to the head of the lane and the incidents that followed. He also stated on cross-examination that when he first saw Johnson in the County jail, he was not positive that he was the driver of the car, but was sure after he put on his hat and coat.

He also admitted that when the sheriff came out the first time, that he had said that he saw no one hit his father or was not sure that he had but on the second visit of the sheriff had told of Johnson striking his father and having some object in his hand. He also stated that Johnson hit him with his bare fists, although he saw the object in his right hand. He had seen his father hit as he fell. He said he had heard no one say, "get a rock".

His father was still carrying the flashlight lighted as he walked to the head of the lane after the assault, he also stated.

Tell of Postmortem

Dr. L. W. Wilson told of assisting Dr. William Cleland in making a post mortem examination of Mr. Richeal at 7:30 o'clock the following morning at the Campbell morgue. They found a wound about an inch and a half above the right eye, also five smaller spots at the side of the eye. The scalp was crushed both inside and out. Death was due, he said, to a hemorrhage of the brain resulting from a severe blow. The membrane inside the skull and the right side of the brain was full of blood. The heart and other parts of the body were normal.

Dr. William Cleland testified as to being called to the Richeal home, where he had seen the dead body of Joseph Richeal. His examination had been such as to determine an injury above the right eye also the presence of what appeared to be dirt at the side of the eye. His testimony was similar to that of Dr. Wilson concerning the post mortem.

David Richeal, older son of the deceased was then called and told of the incidents concerning the discovery of the car in the lane and of going out to the car. He was sure Johnson was the driver of the car and assailant of his father but was not so sure that he could identify Blackford and the woman. He thought the window of the car was broken by the flashlight. Just how, he was not sure. He was not sure that Johnson had anything in his hand when he attacked his father.

The fight between his father and Johnson lasted but a short time. The car was not started up before Johnson got out. Some fellow in the car had said something as it passed out the lane past his father's prostrate body.

On cross-examination by Attorney Gibson David said that he assumed that the flashlight in his father's hand had broken the glass in the automobile. Johnson apparently had nothing in his hands when he struck his father. His father had almost gone down when struck, but remained on his feet. (At this point Attorney Chambers objected to the severe method of questioning of the witness.) His father had never spoken after being struck and while he was walking up the lane with the lighted flashlight. His father was angry while talking at the car, but apparently not so when he walked up the lane. He was staggering some as he walked up the lane and this became more pronounced just before he fell, he stated.

William Carrick, joint owner of the lane where Mr. Richeal met his death, testified as to being called by telephone by his wife while at Lockhart's place and told of what happened to Mr. Richeal and going to the lane with Kenneth and Guy Lockhart and Mr. Bartsch in his truck. He explained the location of the body and David holding his father's head. Also of William Richeal stopping him as he turned turned into the lane. One look had been sufficient to satisfy him that Mr. Richeal was dead. He said he saw a black mark on the head of Mr. Richeal. He, Kenneth Lockhart and David Richeal had carried Mr. Richeal's body into the Richeal home.

Kenneth Lockhart told of going to the place where Mr. Richeal dropped back into the arms of his son, David. He had noticed the bruise above the eye. It was larger and darker than the others. David was holding his father in a sitting position on the ground. He helped carry him to the house. He felt for heart beats there and knew he was dead.

G. L. Lockhart testified of going with his son, Carrick, and Mr. Bartsch to the lane and exclaiming, "He's dead" as he saw Richeal on the ground at the head of the lane. He also told of going into New Castle and reporting the case. He also testified as to the mark on the head of the dead man.

Sheriff H. M. Reynolds testified to arresting Johnson and Blackford in the Johnson car on East Washington street in front of the Sotus store about 10:30 p. m., Daylight Saving time, and Mrs. Clements about 12 o'clock on Hamilton street while in company with another woman, whom he learned later was a sister, and coming in the direction of Long avenue on which she resided. He had questioned them after the arrest. The men at first did not tell of any trouble in the Richeal-Carrick lane, but later told of having trouble with a man they didn't know and two young men in a lane leading from the East Brook Station road. Mrs. Clements had told of being there as soon as questioned.

The members of the coroner's jury were John Snyder, G. N. Clark, J. Dick Long, Reed English, C. C. Fulkerson and Frank Amberson.

FLOWER SHOW IS CONCLUDED

Exhibition Is Most Successful—Attendance Shows Increase

Once again the New Castle Garden Club has demonstrated its ability to put over a splendid piece of work in a highly efficient manner. The Fall Show which closed Friday evening in the Carnegie Auditorium marked the close of a most successful show, and President Mrs. S. D. Pearson and her associates are to be congratulated upon it.

In point of number of exhibits and admissions the Fall Show exceeded any previous attempt. While the attendance was not as large as it might have been, it showed a healthy increase over the Spring show and each succeeding show has seen an increased attendance.

From now until next Spring the Garden Club members will be pointing towards the next exhibit, and with the experience of six shows behind them, should have an even better display.

Police Officers Deliver Flowers

Take Flowers From Local Show To Public Institutions Of City

The police department was advised last evening by Mrs. DeGraff Pearson, chairlady of the flower committee of the Garden club, holding the annual flower show in the Carnegie auditorium during the past two days, that they had many bouquets, which they would like distributed to the hospitals and other public institutions of the city. Officers Lockard and James took the patrol wagon and delivered the flowers to the New Castle hospital, Shenango Valley hospital, Almira Home and Margaret Henry Home.

GUS SUN FRANCHISE SECURED BY CAPITOL

After several weeks of work on the programs to be offered Charles Kranz, general manager of the Capitol Theatre announces today that he has secured a Gus Sun franchise for his house, which means that beginning Monday, all vaudeville acts played in the Capitol will be booked through the Gus Sun offices in New York.

The announcement means much to the theatre going public. It means a continuation of vaudeville acts that are tested and tried before they take the road, the same acts that play Youngstown being listed for New Castle.

Since he took over the management of the Capitol, Mr. Kranz has refrained from signing a contract with any booking agency, preferring to book independent acts until he could be sure of making connections with an established booking agency.

The Gus Sun acts open in the Capitol Monday, and the first offering will be Gypsy Coreen, a singing comedienne, Harry Berry and Miss, a comedy duo and the Caledonian Four, a Scotch quartette. The picture will be Diplomacy, featuring such stars as Blanche Sweet, Arlette Marchal, Earle Williams, Matt Moore and Gustav von Seyfferitz. A comedy, Pathe News, the Capitol Orchestra and the Capitol Organ complete the bill.

In securing Gus Sun booking for the Capitol, Mr. Kranz feels that he has done much towards insuring for the theatre fans of New Castle, vaudeville they will appreciate.

RIGHTS OF CHILDREN

THE rights of children.

How strangely those words would have sounded a century ago. In that day a parent, under the law, had a right to the child and to the services and earnings of the child, but little was said about the rights of the child and less still was said about the enforcing of such rights as might have existed in the unwritten code of the times.

One of the most encouraging signs of the present age is society's increasing interest in the child, the protections thrown up about the child and the definition of the rights of children. The change in public attitude toward the child followed the shift from hand manufacture to machine manufacture. The day is past when children could be worked from twelve to fourteen hours a day under deplorable conditions and at poor wages.

Certain rights of the child are today recognized as inalienable.

The extra-legal rights are the right to be well born, the right to a good environment and the right to parental comradeship.

Then there is the legal rights to an education, to play and to be protected from exploitation.

Many children find the proper environment in their own homes but others must look for it in the schools, the public playgrounds, the Sunday schools and such organizations as the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Society, through governmental and other agencies, is more and more making up for the benefit of the child home deficiencies where they exist.

RISING TIDE OF NEW BOOKS

SIR GILBERT PARKER, himself an author, ventures the opinion that there are too many books. Most persons, particularly reviewers, will be disposed to agree with him. Yet the flood shows no signs of abating. The list of new novels alone is formidable beyond precedent. Nor do the assurances of the publishers that they are "important" or "significant" or "distinguished" always convince readers that they must not be missed.

The novelists are not the only offenders. Biographies of dull and commonplace persons flourish. Histories deal over and over again with familiar themes. It would be no great exaggeration to say that ninety per cent of them could be spared. There must be a public for them; but it is gained at the expense of our older and finer literature. What can be done about it? Probably nothing.

PRESIDENT SEEING HIS OWN COUNTRY

PRESIDENT COOLIGE is about to leave his summer retreat in the Adirondacks to resume his work in Washington.

As a matter of fact his official duties have never ceased while he was away, but he has been given the opportunity for fresh air and relaxation and for the seclusion to which even the head of the government is entitled at intervals.

It is encouraging to learn that he has been benefitted physically by his summer outing and that his health is better now than it has been for a long time. This is most gratifying because he has a man-sized job in the presidency and one that has taxed the strength of his predecessors.

Naturally the people of that part of New York state have urged him to return there next year, but Mr. Coolidge, while expressing genuine satisfaction with his stay, has made it known that if he is spared for another year it is his purpose to visit another section of the United States. Some of his friends go so far as to say that he will select the West for his next vacation and that he may go into the back hills of Dakota. He has become somewhat of a fisherman and it is possible that he may visit Yellowstone Park, "where trout fishing is the best in the country outside of private preserves." The reception that was accorded him on the occasion of his trip to Minneapolis probably has a great deal to do with his desire to view other portions of the great West.

From this is may be inferred that the president has been filled with a wish to "see America first." He is familiar with the New England states. His trips to his old home in Vermont and his stay at Swampscott last year gave the East its full share of the presidential presence. His rest in the mountains of New York afforded him a view of one of the most beautiful spots in any of the Middle States. So it is natural that he should look for an opportunity to view some of the sights in the West.

THE SPORTSMAN

Said a five-inch trout as he scampered back,
"Not all of the human race is black.

"I've just met a sportsman in a boat
A fearful man in a leather coat.

"I fought for my life, but his line was strong
And I couldn't get loose from the hook's sharp prong.

"And I shivered with fright as I saw him grin
With terrible glee as he drew me in.

"Then the hook came out and his line grew slack,
And he patted my sides, and he threw me back.

"Then I heard him say as I dove down deep,
'Good luck to you, lad, you're too small to keep.'

"Yes," said the wise fish, "now and then

Hints and Dints

We have one tomato vine in our garden that lacks just about a foot of being to the top of a ten foot pole. Many told us the poles were too high and even tried to get the zoning board to interfere with our poles. If the frost keeps away it will be to the top.

About the only thing some New Castle men know about a woman's waist line is that it is the place where an arm goes around.

The hobo asked the hard-faced woman for a bite to eat. "Yes," she replied, " I'll fix you some supper if you will saw and split some wood, sweep off the walk, fix that hole in the fence, tidy up the barnyard and burn that rubbish pile against the cellar door." "Lady," said the hobo as he started away, "I'm only a hobo. I ain't your husband.

We heard this at the corner of Mercer and Washington streets yesterday: "Is she a good driver?" "I should say she is! She's already driven four husbands crazy."

"We'll never believe a girl enjoys smoking while she holds a cigarette as she would a salad fork."

While a former manager of Jack Dempsey says Jack isn't much of a fighter and that he will get a clouting next week. That is not a good thing to go by. Jack has fired him and he naturally is now knocking him. Don't bet the way that bird talks—in fact don't bet at all if you need the money.

Our idea of an embarrassing position would be that of a preacher's wife being charged with his murder and also having included about all her relatives as assistant murderers. That is the plight of a New Jersey lady after her husband has been murdered four years.

It is said that 21 inmates of the Dixmont insane asylum got typhoid fever from going in bathing. Safe bathing places should be provided to those who insist on taking baths.

According to a new ruling, the agents of the Pennsylvania Humane society can make arrests on sight when they see violations of the law regarding the treatment of dumb animals. Now if they can also do the same thing when they see humans abused and automobiles over exerted the victory will be complete.

Ah, yes, the answer to some marriages is—the chump had money.

If you can't get rid of your enemy any other way, you might encourage him to talk himself to death.

If you thing a Chamber of Commerce is not doing anything, just go to the one in New Castle with any project and see how quickly and efficiently you get action. No city can get along without a chamber of commerce—and none try to.

We were much surprised to read a few days ago that the corset business has fallen off very little during the past few years, in spite of the fact that corsets have been falling off or been taken off apparently. Now the question is who is wearing and where do all the corsets go to. It must be in some other country than this, but still we cannot speak with any authority.

Now we are told that King George still creases his pants on the side instead of in front and that the Prince of Wales is still carelessly well dressed. We are glad it is no worse than that.

One reason why a friend in need is so valuable is because of the scarcity of the species.

The present summer can be referred to by the old timers in years to come as the scandalous wet summer of 1926, when oats was still in the fields on the 20th of September. Did you ever know of this happening in your time, pard?

Only a small per centage of the voters in Sharon have registered so far this year. They surely know, as they should here, that after the coming election in November they will have no chance to swipe any one of the nominees.

While it may cost double the tax to live in New York that it does in New Castle, those New Yorkers evidently think it is worth it as their city is getting bigger and bigger all the time. We like to go there ourselves as often as possible and to stay as long as our coin lasts, but New Castle is the real place after all.

A new place is now on hand for people to jump off of. The first man has just jumped off the new bridge between Philadelphia and Camden, N. J. We noticed when going over it several times recently that it is a peach of a place to leap from and there is little chance of remembering the high hotel rates after the jump.

The football season is on now and very little will be accomplished until the season is over. Football is the most important thing in the lives of a lot of people. There are those who can get along if they have to until the season ends.

A man of 79 by the name of Flint is asking a divorce from his wife because she won't kiss him any more. We never imagined a man of 79 would care whether he was kissed or not, but it seems as though we are mistaken for once. The older they are the more thay want attention it seems.

As Maine goes so goes the country. Well the old barometer state reads Republican this year so wet or dry tariff or no tariff the congress will likely be Republican of some brand or another.

At Marion, Indiana, the police officers have ruled that men and women cannot wash their false teeth in the city fountains. Now isn't that too bad. If those people who have the removable molars want to wash them in public why not let them. We see knees in public we see backs in public we see arms in public, we see petting in public but the law decrees against seeing teeth in public.

Out in the western states where wood is burned for fuel it has been discovered that old auto tire casing make as good fuel as wood. A quarter section of tire will burn as long as a length of wood. Now of course the tire burning is a little smelly, but that doesn't affect anyone in the west. They send the smell up the chimney and the man in the moon is the one who gets the full benefit of it. If coal gets too high here we might try burning rubber tires.

Airplanists are being fined now for violating the traffic laws. For instance a man who owns a plane was fined $7.71 for taking up one passenger too many from whom he collected $25 for the trip. At this rate of fining the airmen is likely to get rich paying his fines.

A few years ago they burned corn out in the west, but since there has been found some new uses for corn they are burning auto tires. Perhaps it is better to burn them up than to burn up the roads with them.

The newly crowned "Miss America" has turned down a proposal of marriage with the remark, that a husband now is not essential. When she gets a little older she will have to answer the question as to whether a husband ever is essential.

George Eastman, for whom tens ot millions profitably press the button, while he does the rest, arrives from the African jungles, leaving seven lions, one rhinocerous and one buffalo with good cause for complaint.

They did not dream that a 72-year-old philanthropist would come all the way from Rochester, N. Y., to shoot the life out of them.

Killing lions is useful, but Mr. Eastman has work on hand ten millions of times more useful, namely, the development of education through moving pictures. Devoting time and intelligence to that work, he will render service to all living children and to billions unborn.

The European steel trust is now in shape, and old-fashioned trusts look small compared with the modern industrial-financial dinsaur of Europe. The steel industries of Germany, France, Luxemburg and Belgium are all in one company, organized to fight the rest of the world.

Luckily, we have a tariff, useful in fighting. But we need the biggest possible business units to compete with modern methods.

This is the one hundred and thirty-ninth birthday of the United States constitution. It has worn well. The fathers that built it with long struggling, seeking to protect the rights of separate states, would be surprised if they could read the new and fancy frills attached to their document.

What would surprise them most, not one of them so far as known being a total abstainer, would be the Eighteenth amendment with its bootleg and crime by-products.

Those ancients, having got rid of a king, determined that no kingly power should ever arise in America.

It never occured to them that power must be somewhere. They could not foresee that taxation without representation far greater than that of King George would soon be located in Wall Street, and elsewhere in the offices of great corporations.

Dr. Frankel of the Metropolitan Life Co., says the present restriction of immigration will soon end poverty among Jewish people in the United States. And in 10 or 20 years "there will be no need for relief."

Regardless of immigration what will be the Jewish population of the United States 100 years hence? Certainly not fewer than thirty to fifty millions. There are 1,500,000 Jews in New York city alone. They take care of their children and the children live, having a lower death rate than any other race..

Adherence to Moses' laws accounts in part for long life among Jewish people. Moses might have written different dietary laws if his people had had refrigerators run by electricity. But many of those laws are still sound.

You are told it is manly to encourage prize fighting. Boxing is supposed to stimulate courage of the right kind. It didn't stimulate any of the famous American fighters enough to send them into the war, where they could have fought to their hearts' content. When the war was on, most of them retired under the bed or found "soft places" teaching boxing to real fighters.

In Day's News

James A. Reed, who has announced his intention to retire from the United States senate at the expiration of his present term in 1929, has been one of the representatives of Missouri in the upper house since 1911. From the very commencement of his senatorial career Senator Reed attracted attention by the vigor, tenacity and self-reliant character of his conduct, and by his disposition to act independently of caucus or executive influence. Much of his later fame is the result of his bitter satirical attacks on important legislation. Since he took his seat 15 years ago he has fought woman suffrage, prohibition, the maternity bill, the Panama free tolls repeal, the war time food control act, the Three and Four Power treaties, the Federal Reserve Bill, and the League of Nations. Senator Reed is a lawyer by profession and first gained prominence as a "reform mayor" of Kansas City.

"Walkin's mighty healthful, but it's gittin' so it shortens your days," said Dr. Mopps, as he prescribed an auto fer Tilford Moots. Hain't it wonderful how a bathin' beauty kin git her picture taken nearly naked an' still look modest an' demure?

Dr. Crane's Editorial

SUICIDE

A man involved in the crash of some banks in Georgia some time ago blew out his brains.

Every once in a while you can hear of someone's desperately committing suicide or trying to because he has lost money or is disappointed in love, or for some similar reason.

These people are the worst kind of heretics.

They are the heretics of life.

Pastor Wagner said that the fundamental belief is a belief in life. This underlies all creeds, or ought to.

Nothing is superior in importance to the value of living, unless it is some supreme question of sacrifice or patriotism where it is clearly our duty to give up life rather than honor.

This does not apply, however, to those who are simply disappointed. In contrast to these rashly importunate people are such stories as one which appeared in the press not long ago of a man who had gained his sight at the age of fifty and began at that time slowly to learn to read.

So many a man has lost his fortune and has bravely commenced to make another effort in old age, many an invalid takes up the burden of life cheerfully and makes what he can out of the fragments remaining.

The man who kills himself because he has lost his money simply values station in life more than life itself, as Ruskin says.

Nothing that is an appurtenance to life can equal in importance the value of life itself. No one knows what the future may bring forth, and no matter how dark the prospects it is the business of a brave man to wait and see what is in store for him.

The effect of failure often is bitterness and a feeling of panic. If we weather the first effects things may take a turn. It is not well for us to pin our whole hopes upon wealth or position, or any such thing. Life has many compensations and the satisfactions of life do not always come in the way we expect them. Some compensation, however, is reasonably sure if we take our stand upon the great integrities.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHERE RAILWAY INCOME GOES.

There has always been, since the first railroad was built and the first dollar of Government assistance given to the builders of the railroads, an idea that the railroad owners and the officials of the railroads have received much more than their due. These misguided citizens are always to be found urging on the employees of railroads to fight for higher pay. They are likewise always to be found bitterly accusing the railroads of taking higher tariffs for passengers and freight than they should and they are always to be found argueing that the Government of the United States should operate all railroads.

It is true that in the beginning, and during the early years of the railroads, they were used as catspaws by scheming and dishonest financial geniuses, for the purpose of enriching themselves by means of the juggling of railroad securities. Railroads have been wrecked to make a fortune for men who never invested a dollar in railroad stocks, for the purpose of receiving an honest dividend. The builders, operators and real owners of the railroads of this nation have always striven to build and operate better railroads, serve the public better each year and earn for themselves and stockholders an honest return upon the actual capital invested. The railroads have been, in fact, the greatest contributors to the nations wealth and strength.

It would be interesting therefore, to know where the money goes that the railroads receive. These facts have been carefully investigated and tabulated and they are as follows:

All the cash from all sources taken in during a year by all the railroads is about six billion dollars.

According to the Bureau of Railway Economics, the total railway income for 1924—the last year for which exact figures are available—was $5,921,490,100.

That's a daily income of $16,223,260.55.

There are 365 days in the ordinary year and upon that basis the income of the railroads may be apportioned, day by day, in the following manner:

Wages absorb the entire income from January 1 to June 6—157 days.

Fuel requirements take the income from June 7 to July 3—27 days.

The next 70 days' cash—from July 4 to September 11—goes for materials and supplies.

Other expenses of operation absorb the intake from September 12 to October 5—24 days.

Tax collectors preempt the income from October 6 to 26—21 days.

Bond and other security holders get the earnings of the next 41 days—October 27 to December 6—as interest on their investments.

The income of the next 19 days, from December 7 to Christmas, goes to the owners, the stockholders, as dividends—two days' earnings less than the tax collector demands.

That leaves six days' income as the sole portion of the year's intake available to retire losses of previous years, or to create a reserve fund against lean periods in future or to pay for improvements out of current earnings rather than by sale of interest-bearing bonds or securities.

When the reader is inclined to believe that the railways' employees wages should be raised and when the reader thinks that the railroads should be taxed more, and when the same reader is certain that the freight rates should be reduced, it would be wise for him to think and ponder upon the figures as above set forth.

YOU CAN GET RID—

Of much trouble if you cultivate a friendly voice.
Of some criticism if you get a reputation for being uncritical yourself.
Of much worry if you will keep tomorrow in view today.
Of spare time in many ways better than killing it.
Of many disagreeable tasks by doing them when they are small.
Of any trouble by facing the worst facts first.
Of a lot of money without buying anything.

It is our humble opinion that a lot of entries not included should be scheduled in those hog calling contests.

POEMS I LOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"The Quiet Life," by Alexander Pope.

The didactic poetry of Pope may seem old-fashioned to us now; but he has a value none the less. Who was it that said that life is nothing but discovering the truth of platitudes? And though Pope's homely rhymed sayings may seem stale now, they were fragrantly young once upon a time, and cannot be dismissed as the mere energetic chatter of a versifying schoolmaster.

Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air
In his own ground.

Whose herds with milk, whose fields with bread,
Whose flocks supply him with attire;
Whose trees in summer yield him shade,
In winter fire.

Blest, who can unconcern'dly find
Hours, days and years slide soft away
In health of body, peace of mind,
Quiet by day.

Sound sleep by night; study and ease
Together mix'd; sweet recreation
And innocence, which most does please
With meditation.

Thus let me live, unseen, unknown;
Thus unlamented let me die;
Steal from the world, and not a stone
Tell where I lie.

Travelin' Pair Amazed On Visit To Garden Club Flower Show

(By Kate Moorhead)

"Hepsibah," I sed as we wuz walkin' down South Jefferson street to the Flower Show yesterday, "why do you allus consist on havin to lug that cotton umbrel everyplace you go? Peeple will think you aint got a pretty red silk one if you don't carry it none." But she jest tossed her hed up in the air. "Youre so well bred aint you?" I sed to her, and she retorted jest as quick, "Mebby its cause I knead the dough." Well some more wize crackin like that, and I knode that wed both be too pent up to even go to that show.

Where do you spose that autotorium is, I sed, kinda peacifyin like, and she pinted out that it wuz jest over the bridge. When we come to that big building and seed the sign "Flower Show," I asked the man dressed up like a butler in the movies, who stood at the gate if that wuz the show out there on the lawn? But he kinda laffed when I pointed to that grand flower bed what tells that is where the Carnegies live. He sed, "No the show wuz inside the building."

Well Hepsy asked him did he have eny grand children, and he sed he had three kids and they was grand, every one of them, so my old maid frend reached in her little black bag and give him three bright pennies for them, like she allus does when she pleezed.

We wuz standin in the hall way wundering where the show wuz at, when a kind lady who wuz drest with a purty dark blue crape trimmed with checkered silk, moshioned us, would we be likin to enter? Hepsy got out her black bag, and I noticed she still had enough pennies to make up the change, so I let her pay my way in too. Hepsy left her umbrel in the reception room.

Now wunce you got inside that show, you felt like mebby you made a mistake and got into fareyland instead of jest a autotorium. Right in front of you all burgling and cool like the poetry books say, ther was a founting, with water bubbling all around in a nest of ferns.

That sight wuz so purty, I didn't see Hepsy who went over and wuz talkin to a woman all drest in white. She interdooced me to Mrs. Greer, who showed us about some. Right in the center of the room there was a house and lot, what put me and Hepsy in mind of them subtractions what we scene in Floridy last winter. And jest as Hepsy sed, they didn't even forget the gateways.

Here was a picket fence and white trellis gateway, what was part covered with ivy. I wuz jest about to feel of it to see if it wuz reel, but Hepsy sed, "Don't you dast, You know youre predicate to ivy poisonin." Mrs. Greer sed that Mr. Lasch what duz the gardenin at Carnegie, planned that house and lot. The house wuz all lit up with lectricity and so wuz the garage, even if it wuz in brod daylight, and I thot Hepsy wuz goin to have a conniption right there, because they wuz so estravagunt leavin on the electric lights. Now I liked the petunia bed and crooked walks made of little good luck stones, that Mr. Lasch had used in this settin, but Hepsy she wuz all took up with the trees growing in the yard, and the purty ferns.

Mr. Warnock the caretaker, wuz jest grand at helpin bring in all them flowers. He musta had some hard work bringin in some of them big flower crocks n things, there wuz so menny. I wuz struck with the garden spot what wuz arranged by the New Bedford Garden Club. There wuz the cunningest lily pond with moss and ferns growin round it. I tole Hepsy to pleeze find me a cheer and Id sit down and rest a spell, but she didn't seem reel ankshus, sed she'd be sittin pretty if she could find a cheer.

Jest then Mrs. Good come over and asked me had I scene the grand collection of flowers what had been razed right in this part of the ccuntry. Oh I've scene lots of flowers in greenhouses I sed to her, but I did get sprized a lot when she sed these here flowers wuz all raised right out in peeples back yard, and it made me ankshus to see them.

Hepsy come over and I interdooced her to Mrs. Good, who seemed right cheerful and aimin to make canservation, I asked her, "wuz she on the committee?" She showed us around and let us look at the flowers on the different tables, where there wuz signs to keep your hand off, jest like that sign "Keep your hands and heads inside the car."

"Ooh looky at the straw flowers what Mrs. Albert Ellis razed," Hepsy sed. It made me think of them straw flowers we scene at Violet Dell in Orlando, Floridy, and I sed so. Mrs. I. L. Norris comin up jest then, sed, she wuz goin to Orlando next winter, and did we know, whether they held a show of flowers there in the winter? We told her, we went a purpose to see the show last winter in February.

But I never did see sech grand Zenias as I did yesterday. Now my ant Mehitable had a powerful grand Zenia bed in her day, but hern werent nuthin like these what were put on the table by Mrs. E. W. Greiner, June Carroll, Mrs. Norman Martin and the basket of Annuals put there by Mrs. S. D. Pearson, wuz real buteful.

Flowers of the Field

"Why do you spose they put weeds on this table, don't you spose they had enuf nice flowers to fill it?" Hepsy wanted to no, as she looked at one of the tables, disdaneful. Mrs. Ernest Greiner wuz standin ther, lookin awful nice in her gray dress with orange trimmins and wearin a hat of orange, but she never even ansered Hepsibah. My old maid frend got kinda high derby at that and pulling her specktackles down to the end of her nose, she looked over them at Mrs. Greiner and sed she had asked a revolutionary question, and wuznt she goin tb get no answer?

At that, the lady explained these wasnt weeds but they were known as wild flowers. Then very carefully she give us a chanct to see each kind the list including fake spinknard, smart weed, golden rod, wood aster, wild carrot, bittersweet, iron weed, boneset, pearly everlasting, jack in the pulpit fruit, seed thistle and others. She sed the first prize wuz give to a girl scout by the name of Katherine Hicks for the jack in the pulpit fruit, what looked jest like big bunches of currants, but they probly wouldn't make sech good tastin jell.

Hepsy asked Mrs. Greiner who had jedged these flowers and she implied, "Mr. Carmen of Sewickley always judges our flowers and yesterday when we asked him to make a statement concerning the flower show he said that it was 200 per cent better than last September. He said that our dahlias are good as any entered at the Sewickley dahlia show." Now after that speech, me and Hepsey felt real glad to think we could see sech grand flowers, and started in to view them even more careful, sos we wouldn't miss nuthin and could tell the folks at home.

Jest then I scene a lotta men coming in the door, and I sed to Mrs. Good who wuz standin there, "Who's them?" She sed the Carnegie Steel men wuz coming to see the display. Now I know Hepsy's queer ways when there is eny men folks around, so I kep my eagle eye pealed on her. Before I could say or do anything though, I seen her standin there talkin to Mr. Fred Rentz of the New Castle News.

When I come up to say howdy, her and him wuz talkin about flowers in general when Mr. John Taggart and Mr. George Rigby joins in the conservation. "Say Fred," they sez real jovel, "what do you think of this flower over here?" They pointed to a bunch of leaves all colors, and there wuz a lot of men standin around it, wunderin what it wuz. Mr. Butz, who had a lot of pretty dahlias in great big wall vases, wuzn't there to tell them. One man sed he thought mebby it wuz a poinsett like they have in Floridy, but I knowed better. Another man sed if it was a poinsett, it had been college educated. Jest then my old maid frend chimed in and sed, "Now men, it ain't nun of that, it's Joseph's coat of menny colors, don't you remember the coat what his brothers brot back when they sold Joseph to be a slave?" "But what has that got to do with this flower?" one man wanted to know. Gess he wuzn't a church member or he'd know.

Jest then I scene Hepsy reach in her bag and to my modification that old girl brought out a striped bag of peppmint lozenges and passed them around. She don't know sassity when she is steppin with it.

Then of course we mustn't forget about the luncheon tables and when I caught a glimpse of them in back of the room, I pulled Hepsy away from that crowd of men, who seemed to ferget they wuzn't little boys with a special likin for striped bags of candy. But do you know, she didn't see them tables at first at all, she looked on the wall and scene the posters made by the students of the New Castle schools. There wuz one what caught her eye, "Hurry makes Worry," it sed. Now Hepsy sez to me, "no wonder you got so menny frown rinkles in your face."

But them tables set for "Teafor fore" wuz that pritty, I don't know how the judges come to the deciden that Mrs. Norman Martin and Mrs. E. W. Greiner should get the prizes. Now I wuz right well taken up with the table all set with green crystal glass ware and with a bowl of lavendar flowers offen a butterfly bush, maiden hair fern and white verbena makin the centerpiece and sided by two green crystal candlesticks holdin two tall slim candles. "My, wouldn't roast chicken taste good served up on that table?" Hepsy said, her mouth fairly waterin. But I carefully spiained that it would have to be cock tails and bullyon and sech dantees, for sech a grand display of glass dishes and Mydear embroidery. Down the line we scene some old fashioned goblets like we bin usin every day, caus they wuz so outta date. Hepsy sed she scene where we had better put them goblets in the chiny closet for company, if they wuz the stile like they appeared to be.

And now, we had to see the gladiolias. Such colors, every shade pastel and present. Mrs. Norris had some awful purty yellah ones and her father had a grand display at one of the tables. Some of the glads wuz double then there wuz some jest like dainty butterflies and sech shell like colors. Mr. Ben Campbell had an awful pretty one he called Purple Glory. Mrs. J. W. Conway had displayed one called "Orange Glory", and it had crinkles all round the edge.

"Now here is something to my likin," I herd Hepsy exclaim and there she stood all pent up lookin at a wrought iron vase with copper bowl simply overflowin with orange Chinese Lanterns. I could hardly get her away from it to look at the low bowls of sweet peas and roses, and pretty yellow and blue flowers set up by Elizabeth D. Reis. The asters, colendulas, nasturtiums and snap dragons wuz all purty, but nothin like the dahlias.

Now Hepsy and me hope to die, if we didn't see dahlias big as dinner plates, and sum havin as menny as three colors in one flower. Some man wuz admirin one of the flowers what wuz kinda raggy lookin, and I herd a man tell him it cost fifty dollars. Hepsy sez she thot he made a mistake, and ment cents, but he sed no, when he sed dollars, he kep his cents.

There wuz one dahlia what had been burned all brown and I herd a lady say they growed that way. Then there wuz some just round like puff balls, and some big and flat like covers for stovepipe holes in the wall, and some wuz jest dahlias like we got in the back yard, only they had got a special name.

Mrs. A. L. Thayer, Mrs. S. D. Pearson, Mr. Stitzinger and Mrs. Albert Ellis had some grand collections. Mrs. Norman Martin sed she wuz awful glad we wuz so pleezed with the show, and wouldn't we come again next year and bring some frends. We told her to pleese tell the lady on the reception committee what met us at the door we wuz right glad we come. Hepsy went into the reception room room to get her umbrel and we left for home.

It is only natural that father should worry about son. Father was a son himself, once.

Charleston Dance On Highways Is Banned

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA Sept. 18.—The Charleston disturbes the peace. Hence this "hot" dance is banned—on the highways of this city.

Safety Director George W. Elliott today issued orders to policemen to halt Charleston dancing on streets.

Elliott's edict provides for the arrest of offenders on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Those arrested will be fined. The ban follows a complaint to the director by President Judge Raymond Macneille of the municipal court.

The judge claims that little negro boys have been making enormous sums nightly by dancing and shouting "Hey, Hey, Charleston, Charleston."

These youngsters according to Judge Macneille usually attract large crowds which hinder traffic and create disturbances. The central business district therefore suffers. The judge contends in other sections persons have been awakened by the spectators.

Complete Plans For Rally Day At Trinity Church

Sunday, October 3, Will Be Observed As Annual Rally Day By Church School

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the teachers and officers of the Church School of Trinity was held last night in the Guild room. Reports were made by Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad and Miss Virginia Rice on the Summer school they attended at Gambier, Ohio, showing that they had derived much benefit and inspiration, as well as real recreation from their ten days association with others who are trying to learn how to apply the Christian ideal to life.

Sunday October 3rd, was selected as Rally Day, when all attending in the 5th and higher grades will receive the first of the pins in the Christian Crusader system of awards and which will be also the first Sunday to count for other prizes. Details were worked out in the light of former experience, so that every pupil who makes an honest effort to be present on time every Sunday will receive recognition. Miss van Divort and Mrs. F. A. Fowler,, they to select a third member, are the committee in charge.

It was voted to request the Rector to continue the special addresses to children and young people, with their parents, on the third Sunday morning of each month beginning with October 17th.

Committees were appointed and arrangements made as far as possible for the observance of Christmas.

Reports showed that a record attendance may be expected tomorrow.

Young Peoples' Council To Meet Sunday Afternoon

Miss Harriet Truby Will Preside—Address To Be Made By Dr. Holcomb

Young People's Inter-Sunday school Council of New Castle District will meet Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Y. W. C. A. Auditorium.

Miss Harriet Truby will preside and the theme will be, "The Harvest Truly is Plenteous but the Laborers are Few". The devotional hours will be led by Geneva Fleming. Lewis Jenkins will be song leader and Ruth Patton, pianist.

The address of the afternoon will be made by Rev. C. H. Holcomb, pastor of the First Christian church. There will be special musical selections by Joe and Anna Patterson. Marcia Platt will give a talk on, "Getting Down For Business for the King".

The superintendent, T. J. Davies will be in charge of the business meeting. Plans will be made for the mid-year Conference at the Mahoning Methodist church in October and also for the playlet to be given by the Council members in the near future.

Publicity Threat Tends To Lessen Primary Expenses

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The threat of "pitiless publicity" from the Senate slush fund committee helped to keep down campaign expenditures in the senatorial primaries, just closed, it was revealed today by records in the office of the secretary of the Senate.

Whereas $3,000,000 was spent in the Pennsylvania senatorial primary and $1,000,000 in the Illinois race, once the Reed committee organized, the primary expenditures fell away to nothing. In seven reports filed since the Reed committee opened its first hearings, the maximum expenditure was only $4,297.85—reported by Governor J. J. Blaine, who defeated Senator Lenroot in the Wisconsin primary.

The other primary expenditures reported thus far were: $1,880 by Senator Gooding, Republican, of Idaho; $2,573.24 by Senator Oddie, Republican, of Nevada; $2,748.60 by Elmer Thomas, Democratic candidate in Oklahoma; $3,000 by Senator Williams, Republican of Missouri; $660 by Governor L. B. Hanna, defeated by Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, and $1,100 on behalf of Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas.

Couple Married 50 Years Wins Prize At Minstrel

Many of City's Oldest People Enjoy Special Performances of World's Minstrels—Prof. Dyar Gives Touching Lecture on Health and Old Age.

If you were so unfortunate as to miss seeing old folks at the World's Minstrels Monday night, you missed a treat. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reeher, 114 S. Crawford avenue, New Castle, aged 78 and 70 years, who have been happily married for 50 years and have been residents of New Castle for a number of years, won the arm chair which had been offered as a prize, and both made a pretty little speech of acceptance.

"There is only one thing I regret about holding these contests for the old folks," said Prof. Dyar, in making his presentation, and that is that we cannot have a beautiful arm chair for all of you, but you know old folks are one of my hobbies, so I am not going to let you go from here tonight without a valuable prize anyhow. You are all nearing that stage of life when the system needs help to battle along and I am going to present each and every one of you grandmas and grandpas a bottle of World's Tonic with my compliments. You may not think much of this gift tonight but all I ask is that you take it and use it. Before we close our engagement here, most of you will be back saying that you would not exchange the benefit you received from it for half a dozen arm chairs."

"Laughter and sunshine are the greatest aids to curative medicine," said Professor Dyar in announcing a series of contests to be held in conjunction with regular performances of the big musical and lecture program of the World's Minstrels each night hereafter.

These contests create fun and amusement for everybody—sick or well—and if you are fortunate enough to be among the big crowd that will watch the hundreds of little babies who will contest tonight, for the most popular one, you will see people who have not smiled for months, laugh until the tears run down their cheeks. That is one of the reasons you see people who take World's Tonic recover health so quickly. Our methods bring good cheer and encouragement which no medicine under the sun can be used to the best advantage.

Quite a number of babies have already entered the baby contest.

The contest is in addition to the regular musical program and health Minstrel program each night. The lectures which form the World's show, which is located at the corner of Court and Ray streets promptly at 7:30 p. m. and admission is entirely free to everyone.

World's Tonic is on sale at Smith's drug store on S. Mill street, also Paisley's and McKee's and at all good drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

New Pastor Occupies Pulpit At Central Church Sunday

Dr. C. B. Wingerd Begins Work Here

Central Presbyterian Congregation To Greet New Pastor Tomorrow

COMES HERE FROM MARTINS FERRY, O.

DR. CHAS. B. WINGERD.

On Sunday Dr. Charles B. Wingerd, new pastor of the Central Presbyterian congregaton, will occupy the pulpit and formally begin his duties in the local charge.

At the morning service he will deliver an appropriate sermon, and at the evening service he will speak on "What a New Minister Can Do."

Dr. Wingerd comes to the New Castle church from a most successful pastorate at Martins Ferry, O., where he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church for eight years. Prior to that time he was pastor of the Park Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh.

Is Able Minister.

He is regarded as a most able and successful minister and pastor and members of the Central congregation are very well pleased to have him take up the duties of his active pastorate here and foresee a most successful future for the church which is in a flourishing condition.

Plans for the formal installation of Dr. Wingerd have been made by Shenango Presbytery. The installation will occur on October 4 with a number of ministers of the Presbytery taking part.

There is every indication of an unusually large attendance at the Central church services tomorrow to greet the new pastor.

Dr. Wingerd and his family have already moved to New Castle and are occupying the church parsonage on Park avenue.

International Sunday School Lesson

Notes On Lesson By

George M. Landis, Pastor First Baptist Church, New Castle.

Sept. 26, 1926.

Golden Text:—"Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith" (Heb. 12:1-2).

The subject selected by the International Lesson Committee, "Early Leaders of Israel," seems out of place as a summarized topic for the lessons of the past quarter. But one leader, Moses, appears. We suggest an alternate subject: "Moses, the Great Emancipator."

Of this portion of Israel's history we read in the New Testament: "Now these things were our examples (In these things they become figures of us." Mar. R. V.), to the intent that we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted" (1 Cor. 10:6). Hence in the Exodus of Israel from Egypt and in their wilderness experiences, we have a wonderful type of the salvation of the sinner and the subsequent experiences of his pilgrim journey. A fitting title for this review might be, "The Heavenly Pilgrimage." With this thought in mind we observe:

I. THE SLAVERY OF SIN (Lesson I, II).

The Israelites deplorable condition in Egypt, where the tyranny of a God-defying monarch and the lash of the task-master drove them to this unwilling service; is a striking type of the bondage of the sinner, for "Whosoever committeth sin is the servant (bondslave) of sin" (Jn. 8:34; Rom. 6:16-17).

One of the most deceitful things about sin is that its promised liberty, which attracts so many people—especially the young, turns out to be the most abject bondage. Every sinner is a slave. In spite of his boasted freedom, he will someday awaken to the fact that he wears the shackles of Satan and dwells in the dungeon of the Devil.

II. A LIBERATOR FROM THE LORD (Les. II, III).

Liberty always comes through a person. In many respects Moses is a type of our Deliverer, the Lord Jesus Christ, and he is so considered in the Word of God (Deut. 18: 15, 18).

III. REDEMPTION BY BLOOD (Les. IV.)

"The wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23). To this Divine utterance there are no exceptions. On the night of the Passover, there was death in every house in Egypt, including those of the Israelites "All have sinned," and the soul that sinneth, it shall die." (Eze. 13:4). The sinner has no other prospect. But in Egypt there were two kinds of death, the death of the subject, and the death of the substitute. In the Egyptian house the eldest child died. In the houses of Israel, the lamb died: but it was death in every case, yet how different.

The blood of the slain lamb sprinkled upon the lintel and door posts of the Hebrew houses, saved the one who was marked for death. Without the shedding and sprinkling of blood, there was no hope; with it there was no despair. So "Christ, our Passover, is sacrificed for us" (1 Cor. 5:7). His atoning blood by faith frees us from the penalty of sin, being the price of our redemption (1 Pet. 1:18-19; Eph. 1:7). Without the shed blood there can be no remission and no salvation (Heb. 8:22, 10: 19, 29). Sinner dare you reject it?

IV. DIVINE DELIVERANCE (Les. V.).

Israel sheltered by blood was saved from the penalty of sin i. e. death; but Israel was still dwelling in Egypt and subject to the power of a cruel king. Pharoah is a fitting type of Satan, who makes every effort to keep the redeemed in his own slavish power and prevent them from entering into the blessed liberty which is theirs by redemptive right.

In the passage of the Red Sea, we behold a type of the delivering power of the cross. By virtue of His death and resurrection Jesus Christ makes possible the deliverance of His own from the tyranny and power of sin. By the help of the Holy Spirit the believer is made to see—that he is identified not only with Christ crucified, but also with Christ buried and risen (Rom 6:3-5). Consequently between the Christian and Egypt in the Red Sea of the cross and sepulcher (Gal. 6:14). Pharoah's dominion ended at the Red Sea. Satan's dominion ends at the cross and tomb. May the Holy Spirit enable us by faith to reckon these things to be true (Rom. 6:11-14), and may we ever stand on resurrection ground.

V. GUIDED BY GOD (Les. V.).

All that the pillar of cloud and fire were to journeying Israel, guiding them thru the wilderness; the Spirit of God and the Word of God, are now to the believer. We are to walk by means of the Spirit (Gal. 5:16, 24), who enables us to follow the course of our pilgrimage as it is outlined in the Word of God.

VI. PROVISION FOR THE PILGRIMS (Les. VI.).

The Christian pilgrim not only requires life, but something to sustain that life. As Israel was nourished by feeding daily on the manna, so the believer grows in grace and strength as he daily feeds upon Jesus Christ, of whom the manna is a type. Weakness in the Christian life is frequently due to voluntary hunger strike.

VII. THE LAW OF THE LORD (Les. VIII, IX.).

The holy law of God was given to Israel not as a means of salvation, but to reveal sin, and show the need of salvation (Rom. 3:19-20; Gal. 3:22). They involve duties to God and duties to man, both of which man has failed to fulfill.

Jesus Christ became the end of the law for righteousness to all who believe (Rom. 10:4), and the Holy Spirit enables the believer to fulfill the Law of Christ (Gal. 6:2, 5:16; Rom. 8:1-4). Obedience to the moral principles of the law is best promoted when the Grace of God is preached (Tit. 2:11-12), and souls are born again.

VIII. THE GLORIES OF GRACE (Les. X.).

God's glorious grace seen in the Tent Meeting and in the Tabernacle services which followed it. Israel's failure under the law, was cared for in the sacrifices and offerings of the Levitical system. The claims of the broken law were met in the types and shadows of the Tabernacle, which prefigured the glorious person and gracious work of Jesus Christ.

IX. THE WORSHIP AND SERVICE OF THE REDEEMED (Les. XI.).

Israel's worship was based on sacrifice. They could approach only thru a representative, and after blood had been shed. Redemption brings relationship. So the sacrifice of Christ is the basis of our new relationship to God entered thru the new birth (Gal. 3:26; Jn. 3:3), only then can we render acceptable worship to God.

Israel's service was the service of a redeemed people, who alone can yield the service which He requires (Prov. 15:8). True service and giving is an expression of the heart's gratitude and love for God, for His unspeakable gift to us (2 Cor. 8:7-9; 9:15).

MRS. BEAN IS SPEAKER

W. C. T. U. Convention Delegates Hear Able Address Of Closing Session

Mrs. Lyda Bean of Greenville, Pa., active worker in Young People's Divisions of Sunday school work, gave a most interesting talk at the evening session of the county W. C. T. U. convention in Central Presbyterian church on Friday.

Her subject was: "Satan's Shears" and her talk was addressed principally to young people. She told of the conditions existing today and the many things that are aiding to lead young people astray.

Mrs. Bean also gave a splendid talk during the afternoon. Special musical numbers were given, in charge of Mrs. J. W. McCreary, with Miss Margaret Graham pianist. A selection entitled "In the Garden of My Heart" was played by Miss Elizabeth Brewster, violin; Mrs. J. W. McCreary, French horn, and Miss Graham at the piano. Solo numbers were given by Miss Elizabeth Houston and Miss Sweet.

A playlet entitled "The Boosterville W. C. T. U." was presented by the members of the Ellwood W. C. T. U. and was very much appreciated by the audience.

The officers elected for the year include the following: honorary president, Mrs. S. E. McCleary; president, Miss Margaret S. Walker; vice president, Mrs. D. F. Balph; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ida May Allison; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Grandy; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. McClaren.

The committees in charge of the convention were:

Alcohol Valued At $250,000 Seized At Scranton, Pa.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18—As he prepared to leave for Washington today to attend a meeting of regional prohibition administrators, John D. Pennington, western Pennsylvania dry chief, was advised of seizure of a car load of pure grain alcohol, valued at $250,000, at Scranton, Pa.

The shipment, seized as it was placed on a siding at a railroad yard, contained 67 drums of alcohol, Pennington was advised.

Cool Reception Is Given Proposal By Premier Baldwin

Plan For Ending English Coal Strike Is Not Received With Enthusiasm

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Leaders of the striking British coal miners gave the peace plan advanced by Premier Baldwin yesterday a frigid reception today.

The premier's plan was for the establishment of a national arbitration tribunal based upon the immediate resumption of work on the basis of district agreements.

A. J. "Emperor" Cook, secretary of the miners, asserted that Baldwin's offer was no basis for a settlement because the miners' federation would not authorize the district agreements.

Cook announced that a meeting of the miners' leaders had been called for Monday to discuss the situation and to draft a reply to the government.

Senator McNary Attends Meeting

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, coauthor of the ill-fated McNary-Haugen agriculture relief bill, was in Chicago today to attend a meeting of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, of which he is a member.

Senator McNary declared he would reintroduce, in a modified form, his farm relief bill at the short session of the 69th congress which convenes in December.

TIMELY VIEWS on WORLD TOPICS

REDUCING WORKER'S HOURS WOULD MEAN LOSS TO CONSUMER

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS
New York banker, in an interview

Shortening hours will undoubtedly produce higher prices. The worker will suffer from this, and the progress of industry will be nullified in the long run.

GEORGE E. ROBERTS

There is no such thing possible as general overproduction. It is manifestly ridiculous to talk about it. Wouldn't every family living in four rooms prefer to have six, and an automobile besides? What we see signs of in industry today is merely a temporary unbalanced distribution.

Let us take the old case of a dozen families living on a desert island: it forms the best example of ideally balanced distribution, largely because immediate consultation is always possible. One could not conceive that there would be more than one shoemaker setting up in business because one is plenty, and the other man is needed to do something else: they must all divide the work and each do some different thing, or the work will not all get done. Thus we have no waste, no overproduction.

The same system is sound today.

But there is a gradual change constantly taking place which has its trend in the right direction and will, if we have patience, gradually readjust our temporary difficulties.

One hundred years ago it required 75 per cent of our population to produce our food. When machinery came into the fields the cry went up that there would be a frightful condition of unemployment because so many men would be thrown out of work. But what happened? Many new industries arose, the men who left the farms were absorbed by occupations they had never heard of—by factories of motor cars, electric devices, radio, victrolas, player pianos, motion picture concerns—and now we see only 30 per cent of our population employed in producing food, and still our workers are busy.

I listened to a speech the other day in which the Secretary of Agriculture said that tobacco growers in Connecticut were adversely affected because everybody has taken to smoking ciragettes, and the kind of tobacco they raise is suitable only for cigars. What will happen? Let each man look out for himself and pretty soon he will find himself busy at something else.

Of course, it is true that this cannot be done all at once—many workers cannot adapt themselves quickly, and this is unfortunate—but it is inevitable. There is a new army of workers coming along every year, and these will shy away from the shoe factories and others where we are told conditions are not good and balance will gradually be restored.

In the textile trades of New England various influences have been at work, especially that of competition with the South. In the South there is a better natural development. The raw material is there, there is more economy of production, money buys more—the climate is warmer so that less money goes for clothes and fuel. Yet they have pushed wages in the textile industry higher than in any other during or since the war, and now they want shorter hours, too.

Through all this the employer is between the devil and the deep blue sea: low prices and high wages. He can be and he is being squeezed and whenever he is squeezed out labor suffers—the consumer always pays.

There is no general gain to working people as a whole simply pushing up wages, for they are the greatest consumers and when prices go up, as they must, from all these high wages, their benefit cancels out.

IN 5 BRIEF YEARS RADIO HAS BECOME LEADING INDUSTRY

By GENERAL J. G. HARBORD
President Radio Corporation of America

The growth of the radio industry has been so sound that nobody any longer thinks of it as being young. It has not only taken its rank as an old-established industry, but has become one of the leading industries of this country. Broadcasting has become an indispensable part of American life and a radio set a necessity of the modern home. Even those intimately connected with radio find it difficult to remember that only five short years ago broadcasting was an experiment and the listening public a few enthusiastic amateurs. The evolution of radio from a fad into a luxury and then a necessity has developed an annual business of more than half a billion dollars, and the industry as a whole employs more than 300,000 persons in its factories, broadcasting stations, offices and stores.

In the same brief time the undesirable elements that are always attracted by a new discovery, whether it be a new science, a new country or a new gold field, have been eliminated. Certainly the time has arrived when a receiving set bearing the label of an established manufacturer can be purchased from a reliable dealer with the knowledge that full value is being received for the dollar expended.

This does not mean that the radio industry has reached its full growth, nor that its development period is ended. The growth will be as large in the future as in the past, and many new fields will feel the magic touch of radio, as, for example, the motion picture industry. The future development will not be considered as spectacular, because the word "impossible" has still to be associated with radio. There is no doubt that the service rendered by the industry will continue to become more reliable and better.

Foundation of the Industry

The radio industry, with the exception of radio telegraphy, rests on the common foundation of broadcasting. During this last year much progress has been made. Stations have been erected for the purpose of serving the sparsely settled communities. The transmitting power of many stations has been increased. The country can now be said to be fairly well blanketed.

Negro Attackers To Face Girls In Murder-Assault

(International News Service)

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 18. — Two negroes, one captured in Cecil county, Md., and the other in this city, after he had been named by the wife of a third negro, now being pursued by a posse near Chesapeake Bay, as the slayer of Walter "Budd" Harden, will be faced today by the two girls who were attacked after the youth lost his life in defending them.

One of the negroes, Wilson Biddle, 27, of Jersey City, N. J., and the wife of Walter Webb, who escaped a Maryland posse and bloodhounds after being cornered in a cornfield near Earville, were spirited away from the jail at Elkton, Md., shortly after midnight. They were taken in automobiles over the back roads and whisked through this city before dawn as a precaution against any mob violence, which it is said has been threatened. They were taken to a jail in Delaware county, the location of which is being kept a secret and where Amos Hughes, the negro accused by Webb's wife, is also lodged.

Defense Counsel Studies Evidence In Daugherty Case

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. — With court adjourned until Monday in the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian charged with conspiracy in connection with the return of wartime seized alien assets, defense counsel were occupied today in studying the mass of "documentary evidence" submitted by the government.

The prosecution is attempting to show by checks, government expense vouchers, hotel registry entries and official correspondence the alleged link between the defendants and John T. King, late Connecticut politician who was paid $441,000 by Richard Merton, German financier, for putting through the $7,000,000 claim for the Society Suisse to recover the seized property of the American Metals Company.

Musical Comedy Put On Screen

Eddie Cantor's Famous "Kid Boots" Comedy Is Now In Motion Pictures

ROMANCE RIPENS WITH REJECTIONS

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—Not all the romances of Hollywood blossom before a camera.

Acting as casting director for her father J. Stuart Blackton, pioneer producer, Marion Constance Blackton vetoed the selection of Gardner James for a part in a picture. James was so perturbed about his sudden rejection that he traced responsibility. Introducing himself to Miss Blackton, he made a personal protest.

And then the fun began. Despite an eloquent appeal, James was refused the role, but will be married to Miss Blackton as soon as he finishes a production for Inspiration Pictures.

Work on "Tillie, the Toiler," Marion Davies' next picture, will be started within the next few days, Irving Thalberg, production executive at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, announced today.

Hobart Henley, the director of "The Auction Block," "His Secretary," and "A Certain Young Man," will megaphone Miss Davies thru "Tillies" labor troubles.

Realism in art can be carried to excess. During the filming of "Down the Stretch," A Universal race story, at the Riverside track, Ward Crane acted as bookmaker and used real money.

The sporting citizens of Riverside, pressed into service as a race track throng, entered into the atmosphere so whole-heartedly that they took the race and book-making seriously. They placed bets and collected their winnings, forgetting the clicking cameras. Crane found himself short when the time came for an accounting to the property man.

The first musical comedy to be transplanted in its entirety from the stage to the screen is "Kid Boots," which Eddie Cantor has just completed for Paramount. Although it was difficult to "translate" the stage hokum, Cantor declared himself satisfied. Clara Bow, the pert red-head, plays opposite Cantor.

Novels, plays, short stories, songs, poems and even pictures (paintings) have been made the subject of film stories but "Kid Boots," is the first musical comedy to be filmed.

Samuel Goldwyn, the veteran motion picture producer, increased to $500,000 his insurance policy on Vilma Banky, the beautiful Hungarian actress who played opposite Valentino in the late "sheik's" last picture. Miss Banky's increased screen value and her narrow escape from death when trampled by a horse during the filming of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" were responsible for Goldwyn's action, it was said.

Henry East, trainer of dogs for the "movies," declares his greatest problem is fleas. His intelligent animals are carefully cleaned before appearing on the set, but sometimes a voracious insect will ruin feet of film by making a heroic dog turn his attention from the noble work of saving a heroine into the pressing and intimate business of scratching himself.

"Hank," one of East's cleverest canine actors, is starring with Alec B. Francis in "The Return of Peter Grimm."

Instructions were given in Semaphore and Wig Way Signalling by Junior Assistant Scoutmaster George McCracken to the following Scouts, Carl Custer, Albert Hamond, Howard McCune, David McKissick, Junior Brown, Trevor Williams, and James Robinson.

The next meeting will be held on Friday September 23 at 7:30 in the basement of the First Christian Church.

Third Set Of Tennis Matches Is Played

Score Is Same In Each Of The Three Sets Played In Y. W. Tourney

Miss Rubie Niemi and Mrs. Aileen Stone played off the final set in their tennis match in the Y. W. C. A. Tennis Touranment, Friday evening on the Carnegie playground court. The first two sets of their match were played off Tuesday but darkness prevented the third set.

The match was won by Mrs. Stone. The contestants were very evenly matched, and the score in the games was most interesting.

The first set was won by Mrs. Stone, score 6-4. Second set, won by Miss Niemi, score 6-4. The final set was won by Mrs. Stone, score being 6-4. The game Friday evening was thrilling throughout. Miss Niemi played a much better game than on Tuesday and made some very worth while returns as did Mrs. Stone. Mrs. Stone had a harder and speedier serve than Miss Niemi.

First Social Function Of Year Takes Place At Normal School

(Special To The News)

SLIPPERY ROCK, Sept. 18.—The freshmen of Slippery Rock State Normal School made their first appearance at the social affairs of the school when they were entertained in the school gym as the guests of the dean of Women, Miss Lillian Johnson and the Y. W. C. A. at a get acquainted party. The event was quite a success both from the standpoint of getting acquainted and from the standpoint of entertainment.

The first social event of the school year at Slippery Rock State Normal School was the faculty recital which was given in the chapel of the school on Thursday evening, September 16. The program varied and well balanced. It was met by a heavy applause from the students.

Federal Prisoners Removed To Erie

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Sept. 18. — Thirteen federal prisoners, including Harry L. Stevens, former dry agent who is charged with impersonating a federal officer, today were to be removed to Erie, where their cases are scheduled for trial during the September term of federal court.

The prisoners, who had been held in Allegheny county jail, were ordered transferred by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, here

THE TINGE OF FALL SAYS TO CLEAN HOUSE AND CLEAN CLOTHES

Just about this time of the year when the calendar says that fall is here and the cool mornings and crisp evenings show the calendar is right, the thoughts of the housewives is to having fall housecleaning done. And coincident with fall house cleaning comes the time when rugs, oriental and Persian, as well as the Wiltons and Axminsters, the curtains, the hangings and the drapes, all should be cleaned. And the ideal method of cleaning is the Smith Master Cleaning way. Rugs are dusted and shampooed and their colors restored and they have that new appearance and stay clean so much longer after Master Cleaning.

Fur lined, fur trimmed and fur garments are cleaned the master cleaning way. The relining and the repairing of fur garments is a specialty at Smith's. Valuable furs are given thorough and safe cleaning and to insure further safety to you, every article is insured at Smith's.

Before putting your summer clothes away have them thoroughly Master cleaned. They will be bright and fresh when you take them out next summer. Do not put them away with the dust and dirt in them. To do so is injurious to the fine fabrics and colors.

Fall clothing should be cleaned before being worn. Send your clothing at once, and have it all Master cleaned and start the fall season with clean and fresh clothing that gives you that dressed up feeling and new look.

There is a difference in Smith's Master Cleaned clothes. They are thoroughly cleaned and have no gasoline odor that is obnoxious. Only the purest and best cleaning solvents recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry are used. And the dirt and sediment as it is washed out of the clothes is washed away by a continuous flow of clean solvent that cleans and refreshes every garment.

Our service men go everywhere and they will gladly stop if you will simply call 885. Every garment is insured.

WOMEN HEAR URGE TO VOTE

Attorney Wylie McCaslin Points Out Voting Duty At W. C. T. U. Convention

Attorney Wylie McCaslin of this city was the principal speaker at the afternoon session of the forty-second annual convention of Lawrence County Woman's Christian Temperance Union held Thursday all day in the Central Presbyterian church.

Urges All To Vote

Attorney McCaslin's address was enthusiastically received. His subject was, "Our Present Political Situation." Mr. McCaslin stressed the importance of voting at every election, now that women had the right of franchise which was a right belonging to them, it was their duty to see that the proper persons are elected to office. For every right there is a corresponding duty. The speaker said that he had more respect for the man or woman who went to the polls and voted wrong than for the voter who did not vote at all. If we stand for certain things we should vote for them. Then our duty is done as a citizen.

Mr. McCaslin urged the women not to be discouraged because a certain class of people opposed the attitude taken by the W. C. T. U. In all lines of human progress there have been many defeats. They should not hope to accomplish the principles which they stand for in too short a time.

Government is becoming more complex every year, especially in the large cities where the population is increasing. It is the duty of every citizen to vote intelligently at every primary and election. There are many model citizens who from indifference and carelessness do not take one day out of the entire year to register, who do not apparently care to make our country a better place to live in, he said.

Memorial Service

A memorial service was conducted for the members of the W. C. T. U. who have passed away during the year. Miss Walker read the following names of members who have died from the various Unions: East Brook, Mrs. Mary Jane McCreary; Mary Talbert Union, Mrs. Ida Hull, Mrs. Katherine Wing; Frances Willard, Mrs. Sarah Johnson, Mrs. H. A. J. Brown, Miss Stella Patterson; Plaingrove, Mrs. Hattie Donnelly, Mrs. Lillian Thompson; Slippery Rock, Mrs. Margaret Weller, Mrs. Agnes Aiken; Harlansburg, Mrs. Mary Stoner, Miss Mary Hunter, Mrs. Mary Jones; Ellwood City, Mrs. Lena Hockenberry, Lawrence Randolph, honorary member; West Side, Mrs. Thomas Davis, Mrs. Elizabeth Cornelius; Central, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly, Mrs. C. P. Norris, Mrs. Druschel, Mrs. George Greer, Mrs. Clark Lewis.

Strike Of Chicago Beauty Shop Girls Next Month, Threat

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Warefare, verbal and otherwise, has broken out in the beauty shops. It is a conflict over salaries and working conditions, on the surface, but underneath it is a struggle of the labor agitators to get firm control of the business.

W. S. Leidieg, president of the Journeyman's Barber' Union, with which most of the girls in beauty shops are affiliated, said today:

"Many of the girls are not receiving a living wage, some of the salaries running as low as $12 and $15 a week. For 12 hours' duty on Saturdays, girls receive $5. The proprietors are charging about double for marcels and permanent waves."

It is announced that unless a comprise is reached, 50 beauty shop girls would go on strike October 1.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. 1926.—September 18 is expected to be the central date of a general wave of below normal temperatures that will cover the continent; I do not expect this cool wave in south and cold wave in north to be of record breaking disposition nor to carry killing frosts very far south in great central valleys; most damage from these below normal temperatures will be due to the lateness of some crops and the need for warm, dry weather in both corn and cotton belts at this time; greatest departures below normal temperatures during this period are expected on central and northern Pacific slope and in northeast sections. A storm wave of rather severe intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on September 20; this storm wave is expected to gain force as it moves eastward in the transcontinental path, culminating in most severe force on 22 and 23 and moving well down into southern great central valleys; while this is the proverbial equinoctial storm period, storms of this period are not expected to be of the very dangerous type; principal effects expected from this storm wave will be moderate to heavy precipitation during and following storm center and severe cool wave south and cold wave north following storm center; the wave of below normal temperatures that is expected to follow this storm center will be the most damaging of the season to date; precipitation of this period will be general, average above normal, do more harm than good.

Foreign Crops and Markets, a government publication, sets forth the following as present conditions and forecasts of 1927 wheat crop: 14% increase in U. S. acreage for 1927 crop as indicated by farmers present intention to sow; no material change in other world wheat countries for 1927 acreage; increased world demand; with average yields, no material change from present year world demand, supply and price level; 1927 world carryover to be about same as 1926, which in turn was the smallest of recent years and but a few million less than 1925.

The general opinion of forecasters of note, over the world, is that 1927 will be a year of very severe and unseasonable cold waves; while such forecasts are of little value to the public, not localizing the expected results, and it would be foolhardy to expect the entire globe to experience these great and unusual extremes, the fact that all are fairly well agreed that average world temperatures will be much below normal and that unseasonable cold waves and frosts will be experienced, should be given considerable thought.

I expect the latter part of the coming winter to average cold and severe in large sections of North America; that the most severe periods of the coming winter will occur in the last half and that winter as a whole will average below normal temperatures over nearly half of the continent; that large sections of North America will be visited by later spring and much earlier fall frosts than usual; that latter part of summer of 1927 will average great extremes of heat and cold; that the most severe weather of 1927 will occur during the first three months but that the most unseasonable extremes will occur during the last five months of the calendar year. These unusual weather features will be localized through these weekly letters about one month in advance, as usual.

Stole Cash From Under Her Pillow

MEADVILLE, Sept. 18.—A thief who forced his way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mosbacher, North Main street, secured $110 which was part of the money under a pillow in the bed room occupied by Mrs. Mosbacher.

Mrs. Mosbacher was awakened by the intruder, but before she could scream he had leveled a revolver at her. In his haste to escape the theif dropped a $10 bill.

NOT THAT! NOT THAT!

NEW YORK—Capt. J. A. Murdock, who is frequently referred to as "the best dressed man in England," landed here recently and in the course of the usual interviews indicated that he considered the Prince of Wales a somewhat sloppy dresser. He gave a number of instances which proved that Wales is far more concerned with comfort than with style and that he frequently outrages conventions by wearing "impossible" combinations. However, Captain Murdock hastened to say, the prince's good looks and his genial personality put him in the position of being able to do no sartorial evil and his idlest whimsies were, as a result, eagerly copied by young bloods all over the world.

Child Chokes To Death While On Way To Hospital

Little One Drinks From Can Of Kerosene While Playing On Floor At Home

Betty Naomi, ten months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Moore of Enon Valley, choked to death yesterday while being rushed to Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, in an attempt to save her life.

The little one was playing on the floor of her home, and in some manner secured a can of kerosene oil, and it is believed drank a considerable quantity. Some foreign substance in the oil is believed to have lodged in the child's throat.

Dr. C. B. Moore, of New Galilee, was summoned and did everything he could, but the child grew worse. He then started with her to Mercy hospital but she died enroute.

Besides her parents, the baby is survived by four brothers and four sisters.

Bandit Wanted In Detroit Robbery Is Seriously Wounded

Pittsburgh Officer Brings Down Much Hunted Bandit With Bullet

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18.—While a man described by police as Anthony Baumgratz, 24, lay in a Pittsburgh hospital in a critical condition from bullet wounds, word was awaited from Detroit today to verify his identification as the last active member of the Mitchell gang, hunted throughout the middle west.

Baumgratz, for whose capture Detroit citizens were said to have offered a reward of $1,000, was stopped by a patrolman's bullets when he attempted to escape the officer in a speeding car.

According to police, the shooting of Baumgratz was the final chapter in the history of a gang whose operations had been traced throughout the middle west.

Robert McGowan, also believed to have been a member of the Mitchell gang, was killed a year ago while fleeing from authorities and Howard Mitchell, leader of the band, is serving a 30-year sentence in Michigan state prison for a holdup, for which Baumgratz was wanted in Detroit.

GERMAN PAPERS WITH-HOLD VIEWS ON CONFERENCE

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—German newspapers were extremely sparing of comment today on the conversations now in progress between Foreign Minister Briand of France and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany with regard to the withdrawal of troops from Germany.

The attitude taken by the press is that it is too early to comment, that the time for talk will come when "deeds follow words".

Boy Scouts Have Excellent Meeting

Scout Meetings Resume Friday Evening—Other News Of The Seventh Ward

Twenty-five members of the Kiwanis Boy Scout troop No. 4 were present at the first meeting of the fall held in the Mahoning school gymnasium Friday evening. The meeting was in charge of Scoutmaster Milford and assistants, J. H. Gwin and C. H. Martin.

During the evening Scoutmaster Milford gave a most interesting talk telling of his experiences of the summer while in camp and hiking. In connection with his talk he showed the boys souvenirs which proved of most interest. Some of the souvenirs were a Montana Agate stone, a selt arrow head and Indian skinning knife from Nebraska; flint from Missouri; agates from the petrified forests of Montana, also some petrified wood found in this city. As a demonstration Mr. Milford started a fire with the flint.

Also during the evening 13 scouts registered and four patrol leaders were elected. Leaders elected were Paul Wilson, Eugene Wray, Blaine Farver and Frederic Wettich.

The next meeting of the troop will be next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock daylight savings time in the school.

MANY SLATE BROKEN.

BEFORE HER BABY CAME

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Adkins, Texas.—"Before my baby came I was so weak I had to stay in bed most of the time until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother-in-law, who is a midwife, told me it was all foolishness for me to stay in bed. She told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it would help me. She handed me one of your little books and I read it and was interested in it. I went to a drug store that night and got a bottle of your wonderful medicine. I took it until the baby was born and was able to be up and do my work. Baby is 4½ months old now and weighs 14 pounds. I have plenty of milk for her and she gains steadily. I recommend it. I am willing to answer letters and will do anything I can for any woman, for I know how I suffered."—Mrs. A. H. Tschirhart, R. No. 2, Box 39, Adkins, Texas.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use by women for over fifty years. It is a vegetable tonic made from roots and herbs and is sold by all druggists.

Gardner

There was a very severe electrical storm in Gardner Wednesday evening. There was a tremendous crash when the lightning struck the trolley wire and a large ball of fire ran along the wire and fell to the ground. A number of persons felt a slight shock but no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gillespie and children, Ruthana and Barbara, and Louise McMillin called at the Schumaker home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ruth MacEwan, leader of the orchestra at Ben Franklin Junior high school, and Miss Rose, one of the teachers, were recent callers in Gardner.

Miss Florence Zehner of the Ellwood highway is teaching in Gardner.

Master Kenneth Robb left Gardner with his grandmother, Mrs. Robb, las Friday and will spend the winter with his grandparents as their home is very near to the school which Kenneth will attend in Butler, Pa.

J. W. Fombelle, of East New Castle, made a business trip to Pittsburgh last Thursday.

Miss Isabel Zehner, a teacher in the Senior high school, attended a corn roast at Frisco on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Alborn, of Gardner, entertained the Knights and Dames of Malta from New Castle and vicinity at a corn and weiner roast on Thursday evening. There were more than seventy persons present and the guests report a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Comstock motored to East Brook Sunday to call on their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Bowden and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. King, of Shenango Stop, have as their guests for a few days their daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Milliken of Crawford avenue, and Betty Jean.

Mrs. T. J. Robison, from near Portersville, is spending a few days with the families of her son, L. A. Robison, and her daughter, Mrs. Frazier, of Gardner.

Norris Boyd and Miss Jennie Jackson, of Ellwood City, called on friends in Gardner last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bessie M. Noble, librarian at Ben Franklin Junior high school, and Miss Koontz, a teacher in North street school, were recent callers in Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. King, of Shenango Stop, had as their guests last Sunday Mrs. King's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Pfeifer and sons Otto and Ralph, and granddaughter Margaret, all of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sherger, of Gardner, enjoyed a visit last Sunday from their uncle, August Doehre, of Carrick, and his son Henry, of MacDonald. Also Mr. and Mrs. John Leipold and daughter Ethel.

Miss Ora Zehner, of Miami, Fla., who has spent several weeks with her parents on the Ellwood highway, enjoyed a visit with some of her former schoolmates in Butler, Pa., recently.

Don't worry about tomorrow. You'll do better. Or you'll do worse. It all depends upon what you do today.

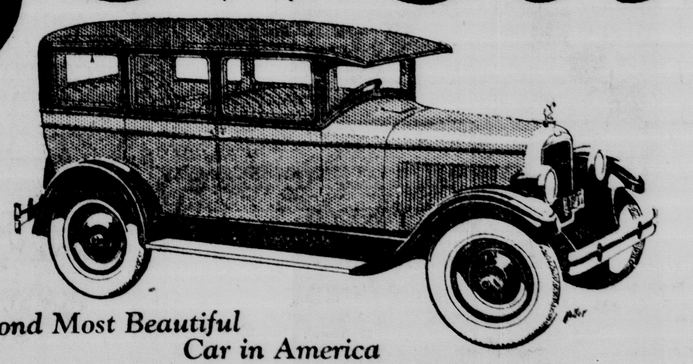
The Beautiful New Jewett



The Second Most Beautiful Car in America

An entirely new Jewett—a Jewett of exquisite beauty and charm—a Jewett of smart style and matchless vogue—awaits your inspection and admiration at our showroom today.

Let your anticipations run high when you come to see this newest and smartest Jewett. For its builders have gone far to embellish this car of moderate size and moderate cost with things that in the past have been reserved for those of great wealth.

The very lines of this Jewett instantly bespeak style. Its cushioned seats resemble those of the drawing room. Its walnut-finish panels, skillfully inlaid, give an air of custom-exclusiveness quite uncommon. Its instrument panel is as charming as a beautiful watch, and the instruments as accurate. And back of its beauty and charm and grace—an ultra-modern motor (considerably larger than the former Jewett motor) and equipped with an air cleaner, bronze-backed bearings and high pressure lubrication; an even more dependable Jewett chassis; and Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes.

FRIGHT—AND NO FRIEND.

"Eeeeeee! Take care! Not one step nearer or I shall bite your nose!"

Pat, wild with joy at his release from the hated box, danced and pranced and kicked up his heels. But this sharp squeal so close to his ear startled the dog to a standstill. What had become of friendly Mr. Rat? In that fellow's place, reared upon his hind legs, stood a fierce little creature, whose eyes gleamed with rage and whose lips were drawn back across long, sharp teeth.

Pat, however, had seen those teeth before and only for a second was he fooled. Then he knew that it was not Mr. Rat himself who had disappeared, but only Mr. Rat's friendliness. Pat was bewildered.

"Why, what," he began, and was going to ask what the trouble was, but Ratty, much excited over something, would not allow the dog to finish.

"Never did have the good sense a rat should have!" snarled he. "Always did let my heart get the better of my head. Felt sorry for you and helped you out of that box. Now I shall have to pay for my foolishness. Serves me right! Ought to have known better than to trust a dog! But don't think you are going to get off scot free, my fine fellow!"

Ratty lurched forward, and poor Pat, thinking the rat was about to spring at him, backed away. From a safe distance Pat barked his protest.

"Why shouldn't I get off scot free?" demanded the dog. "You were kind to me only a few moments ago, sure, and why are you so cross now? Whatever have I done to you?"

"Nothing, but cheese and crackers! Who knows when you may? I have to be prepared!"

"Prepared for what?" More puzzled was growing Pat.

"For a good shaking!" squeaked the rat. "Once in your grip you could make the teeth rattle in my head. But you're not going to get me in your grip if I can help it. If you do 'twill be at the cost of a nipped nose!"

This so surprised Pat that right then and there he sat down on his haunches.

"Well, upon my word, you must think I'm a fine sort of fellow!" barked he. "After all you've done for me, is it so basely ungrateful you're after thinking I'd be? You don't know the Irish! Trust me, old fellow, do! Queer, you'll be thinking it, but I give you my word I'll never so long as I live do harm to a rat for the sake of yourself. Come, Ratty, what are you saying to it—let's be pals!"

Home Guards Have Weiner Roast Event

Hillsville Organization Enjoys Special Program—Other Hillsville Notes

(Special To The News)

HILLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 18.—The Home Guards met at the home of Mary Jane Hill Thursday evening. After their regular business meeting the Guards, in charge of Mrs. Murphy, went to Gilmore's field, where a weiner roast was enjoyed by all.

HILLSVILLE NOTES

Owing to the fact that Rev. L. L. Woodin is attending conference, there will be no service in the Methodist church Sunday.

The Hillsville schools closed Thursday morning in respect for their principal, John Burns, who died at his home in Portersville. Mr. Burns' death was a great shock to all. He had been in Hillsville less than two weeks ago making preparation for the coming term's work.

A number of folks from here attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Brown in New Castle Friday. Mrs. Brown was a former resident of Hillsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cole and Mrs. Jessie Book were visiting in New Castle Friday.

Mrs. George Greer has returned to her home in Hubbard, O., after visiting relatives here.

E. S. Hill of New Castle was visiting in town Thursday.

Mrs. John Kerr and daughter, Ethel, of Bessemer, were visiting in town Thursday.

Mrs. Louise Woodin is visiting relatives in Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Sarah Barrie was visiting in Youngstown Thursday.

Mrs. C. W. Houlette, Mrs. Jennie Hilliah were New Castle visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Davidson of Bessemer were visiting in town Friday.

Mrs. Sue McVey, Miss June Edwards were New Castle visitors on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McBride were called to West Middlesex Thursday evening by the serious illness of the former's mother.

ELLWOOD CITY TAKES THIRD GAME OF SERIES 3-0

Jamison Applies Kalsomine Brush

Jamison - Steen Engage In Hurling Duel, With Ellwood Man Holding Edge

BROWN FEATURES WITH THREE HITS

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Ellwood City took the third game of the "little world's series" for the Lawrence county championship on Friday night at Centennial field by handing the New Castle O. & P. League team a handsome application of whitewash to the tune of 3 to 0. Mark Jamison, on the knoll for the County Leaguers, was invincible in the pinches, while on the other hand, Ellwood City took advantage of the seven hits they secured off Steen to turn them into runs. The fourth game of the series is being played in Ellwood this afternoon.

Ellwood Shows Class

Connie Wardman's boys, after muffing everything that came their way down in Ellwood City the other night and literally making a farce out of the second game, showed a complete reversal of form here last evening and looked the part of real champions. The "Tubers" played errorless ball in the field, and at bat they hit when hits meant runs, and for that reason alone they secured the victory. The under dogs turned last night and snapped up everything that the New Castle boys had to offer in the way of palatable food.

Steen On Mound

Manager "Bill' Steen took it upon himself to pitch the locals to victory last night in the third affair and Bill came within an ace of doing so at that, the old timer had a straight fast ball working good and his strikeout record shows eight batters as victims, while Jamison had five to his credit. Steeen allowed but seven hits but they came at the right time for Ellwood and the wrong time for New Castle. The O. & P. leaguers found Jamison for eight hits but they were wasted.

Ellwood City played heads-up baseball in the third game and two occasions turned in fast double plays, this being just another reason why New Castle didn't win.

The visitors drew first blood in the opening round of the fight, by chasing over two runs before the unsuspecting local aggregation had time to catch their breath, M. Sanders flied out to Ross, F. Sanders scratched a hit through second, and advanced to second, Brown singled to right and F. Sanders tallied, Cunningham poked a grounder at Ross, and Ross threw wild at the plate to catch Brown with the result that the runner scored.

Ellwood City scored their third and final in the sixth inning. F. Sanders fanned, Brown beat out a hit to Ross at first base then Ross tossed wild to Steen who covered the bag on the hit, Brown going to second, Cunningham whiffed the zone for three times and resumed his seat on the bench, Volpe doubled to center and Brown scored, Byak's liner was to hot for Crabfelder to handle, and it looked as if the visitors would uncover some more runs, but Hudson acted like a gentleman and fanned to end the inning.

Nine Goose-eggs

New Castle's efforts in the nine innings resulted in broad goose-eggs. The locals had plenty of opportunity to score at times, but fast fielding by the Ellwoodians kept the New Castle boys from approaching the vicinity of home-plate. In only one inning the fifth did New Castle secure more than one hit from Jamison, but at that they couldn't score.

Grabfelder, Hoffman and Robertson played good ball for the locals, while the playing of F. Sanders, Byak, and Volpe featured for Ellwood City. Jamison had a busy time of it last night handling no less than six chances.

Brown the star short-stop of the Ellwood City team was the leading stick artist in the third game with three safeties, while McCullough and Reeder with two hits apiece led the New Castle boys at bat.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Cardinals again lead the National League this morning by one game, having overwhelmed the Phillies for the fourth successive time while the Reds were losing to the Giants. St. Louis and Cincinnati each have eight more games to play.

Pittsburgh dropped completely out of the race by losing another game to Brooklyn.

By making it three out of four from the Yanks, Cleveland cut New York's lead to three and one-half games. The Yanks must now win seven of their ten remaining games to clinch the pennant. If they win the last two games of the Cleveland series, however, they will need only three victories to clinch the flag.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

Frank Frisch hit a homer in the tenth which gave the Giants a 5 to 4 victory over the Reds, knocking Cincinnati out of first place. Frisch also singled with the bases full in the eighth when the Giants shellefluque off the mound.

The St. Louis steam roller bowled over the Phillies again, 10 to 1. Bottomley's homer with two on base in the first sewed up the game.

Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn showed a flash of his old form in beating Pittsburgh 3 to 1. Hill held the dodgers to four hits but could not locate the plate at critical moments.

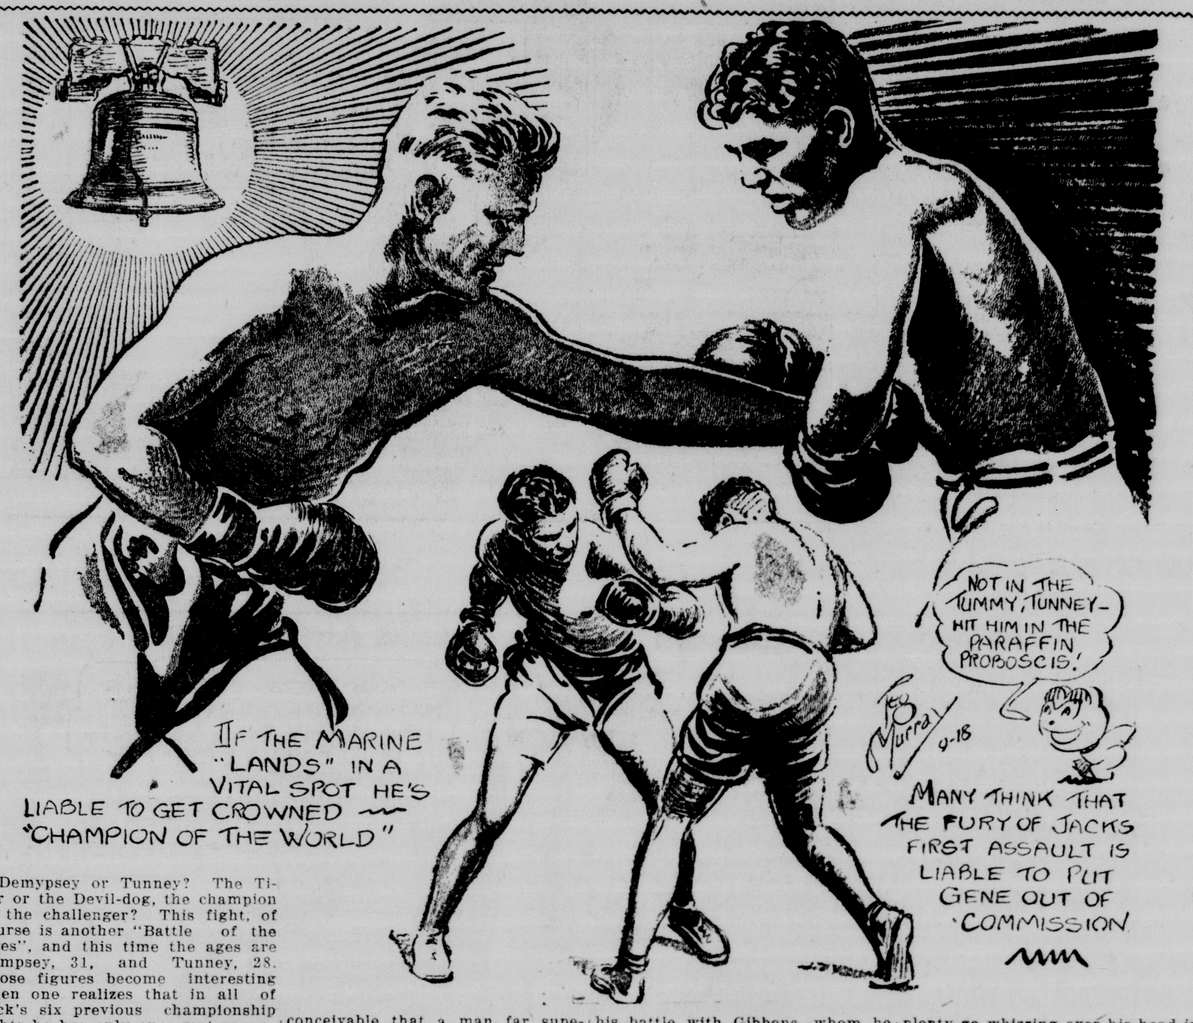
Cleveland, dying with both boots on, made it three straight from the Yanks and moved up to within striking distance of first place by winning a 5 to 1 battle. Shaute held the Yanks to five hits while Hoyt was unable to stand the pace.

Washington advanced to within half a game of third place, nosing out Detroit in the tenth, 5 to 4. The Tigers booted the game away with four errors.

The White Sox clinched their hold on fifth place as Ted Lyons defeated the Red Sox, 3 to 2, for his 18th victory of the season.

Can Gene Ring the Bell?

BY FEG MURRAY



Demypsey or Tunney? The Tiger or the Devil-dog, the champion or the challenger? This fight, of course is another "Battle of the Ages", and this time the ages are Dempsey, 31, and Tunney, 28. Those figures become interesting when one realizes that in all of Jack's six previous championship fights he has only once met an opponent younger than himself.

Willard, Miske, Brennan, Carpentier and Gibbons all were born before Dempsey, and it was not until he met Luis Angel Firpo that he faced a younger opponent in a really big bout. And what that "Wild Bull of the Pampas" nearly did to the champion is ring history. Now, in his next fight, Jack meets a finely conditioned warrior, three years younger than he is and it is quite conceivable that a man far superior to Firpo in intelligence and ring skill, may carry on where the South American left off and put Dempsey down and out for keeps. It's a cinch that Tunney won't "get the works" as many claim the simple Argentinean got.

The champion looks great in training, there's no denying that. But remember, please, that after being out of the ring for two years he was not nearly his old self in his battle with Gibbons, whom he couldn't even knock down. And now, after being without a fight for three more years, he's going to have an even harder time beating the man who knocked out Gibbons.

Jeffries looked pretty good in training at Reno. But he was a "mere shell of his former self" when the battle with Johnson got under way. Shells are nothing to Tunney, for the ex-marine heard plenty go whizzing over his head in France. Shell or no shell, Jack's got to go some to shock Gene, in my estimation.

Feg Murray Says—

The British immigration official who asked to see Gertrude Ederle's passport when she landed, was as smart as the w. k. lady who, on her first yachting trip, was alarmed when she heard the captain's order, "Let down the top sheet and spanker".

Kirkwood Lowers Golf Course Record To 72 On Friday

By HARRY K. BELL

Although it was the first time that he had ever played on the course of the New Castle Field Club, and the turf was damp and soggy in places owing to the recent wet weather conditions, Joe Kirkwood, golf champion of Australia and outstanding luminary in the golf firmament of this country, since arriving here five years ago, broke the record of the course in making the eighteen holes Friday afternoon in a scheduled exhibition foursome in 72, one stroke less than the previous record and one over par. The previous course record was 73, held by Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional.

In making this excellent showing Kirkwood played in good form, displayed unusual and equal skill in the use of the driver, the mashie, the niblick, brassie, midiron and other clubs. He displayed a grace and an ease of action in play that was in many instances little short of the extraordinary, that pleased the gallery of several hundred men and women enthusiasts that followed the members of the foursome from the number one tee to the finish.

Local Players Do Well

Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional; Dr. J. R. Cooper, 1925 club champion, and W. M. Nunn, 1926 champion, the local participants in the foursome, had somewhat to do with the interest in the event, and their efforts were at times of such a nature as to entitle them to generous applause, as they, too, shone forth as golfers of marked ability.

The local players did not show their real and customary form until the last nine holes. In the first nine holes Captain Smith was steady and frequently showed an ability to outdrive Kirkwood, but his ball refused in several instances to perform consistently, making his score several strokes over par, while Kirkwood came through with 37, or one stroke over par. The captain, however, in the final nine holes, was in rare form and equaled Kirkwood in making the nine holes in par, or 35.

Nunn and Cooper were not up to their accustomed form in the first nine holes, although the former played two holes in par and Cooper five.

In the last nine holes the present and last year's champion recovered form and went along in fine shape, exhibiting ability to make long drives, excellent approaches and good putts, and coming within a few strokes of par.

Kirkwood landed on greens within a few feet of the cup in several instances and really had some unfortunate shots at seven holes, where his ball rimmed the cups instead of dropping in, preventing him from reaching or bettering the par of the course, which is 71. He had two birdies to his credit, making the No. 8 hole in four strokes and the No. 13 hole in two, or one stroke less than par in each instance. Captain Smith also had a birdie to his credit at the No. 13 hole.

Drive Well

In the drives, on the longer holes, Captain Smith and Kirkwood displayed unusual ability, making 225 to 275 yards with perfect ease. They also displayed rare ability in getting out of the rough and over and past the hazards of the course.

At the conclusion of the foursome Kirkwood displayed his ability as the greatest trick shot golfer of the present day, first from the fairway of the No. 9 hole, then on the green of the hole and finally in bunker shots from a natural hazard at that point.

Kirkwood displayed his knowledge of the game with all types of clubs and performed any shot that was requested by the crowd, the members of which were thrilled by his exhibition of nearly an hour's duration.

Placement shots from memory, that is, without looking at the ball, in sending the ball to the green, were made with ease and accuracy that astounded all, as were shots curving the balls to the right, then to the left and vice versa, also for great distances, shorter distances, great heights, low levels, etc.

With the assistance of certain spectators Kirkwood put on some amusing trick shots, including the driving of a ball suspended at the end of a string, a ball teed on the toe of a shoe and on a fine watch.

At the green his demonstration of putting was little short of miraculous, including the jumping of balls over other balls at the edge of the cup, placing them in the cup around other balls—in fact, an exhibition that would have done credit to a billiard player.

His final, and probably most clever demonstration, was that of a bunker shot from the edge of a ditch, placing the ball on the green from this difficult position on the green and hitting the ball with his back to the green.

The foursome started promptly at 2:30 o'clock, with George F. Winter, president of the Field Club, introducing the players of the afternoon at the No. one tee.

Play, hole by hole, follows:

No. 1. 400 Yards—Par 4

Nunn started off first, driving his ball 220 yards. Captain Smith made 225 yards. Cooper and Kirkwood also made excellent yardage. Kirkwood, Smith and Cooper landed on the green in their next attempt. Nunn goes over in his attempt. Kirkwood almost putts the ball in the cup. Smith and Kirkwood halve the hole, each getting a four. Cooper and Nunn were less fortunate and took more strokes.

No. 2. 150 Yards—Par 3

All four players make good drives but Cooper secures the edge and lands in good position on the green. Cooper putts the ball into the cup on the third stroke and makes it in par. The others require four strokes.

No. 3. 330 Yards—Par 4

Kirkwood, Nunn and Smith make fine drives in the start-off. All get over the big ravine in good shape. Nunn and Cooper land on

Game To Be Played On Union High Field On October 2, It Is Announced

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—Matt Gilliland, student manager of the local high school football team, announced Friday that arrangements had been completed for a game with Union high to be played on the Union high field October 2.

When these two teams met last fall on the Ben Franklin field in the preliminary to the Westminster-Allegheny game, a real contest resulted. After a bitter contest the college town lads emerged the winner by a 12-0 count.

Coach Wiggins has been driving his squad hard in preparation for what promises to be a tough season. The schedule calls for the first game September 25 when Grove City high is met at Grove City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 18.—"Just about the gladdest thought I have these days", Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, remarked today, "is that I do not have to meet up with Jack Dempsey in a real battle on the 23rd. Of course, I know there's going to be a nice cash reward for Gene Tunney when he does it, but when I think about what Dempsey deals out when he's just fooling around with big gloves I get to wondering if Gene's getting any sort of bargain".

Loughran came to Dempsey's camp a week ago to trade swipes with the champion, the very same Loughran who took on Tunney a couple of years ago and dealt Gene quite a spanking. And after various outings with Dempsey, during which the champion broke loose with real violence only once, Loughran a keen, intelligent youngster, says:

"That man is a murderous puncher and the greatest ring general I ever met. He's tricky and really remarkable on defense without ever getting credit for it. He seems to be taking punches, yet the real truth is that he slips them over his head, without the slightest damage to himself.

"It's discouraging to fight Dempsey", Loughran continued. "Any ordinary man who is hit solidly usually backs away and you get the satisfaction of knowing you've stung him and perhaps have him on the down grade. But hit Dempsey and he fights only harder and faster.

"I can't see a chance for Tunney. He will surprise me if he gets as far as four full rounds. I know that Tunney is good on defense, he's no cheap opponent, no soft mark for anybody, but when he meets Dempsey he is tackling a superman. Tunney can't beat Dempsey in a slugging match. His only chance would seem to lie in using his legs and in clinching and holding. Yet Dempsey is absolutely murderous in the clinches".

Dempsey planned to resume boxing this afternoon. The day of rest, Friday, was devoted to bag punching and a run on the road, also some hot applications were applied to his "shiner" which now has been so bleached out that it is but a memory.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—Catherine Lombardo, 13, of Beaver Falls, today was in custody of officials from Pennsylvania training school, Morganza, following her alleged attempt at suicide in North Side police station here, in the course of which the girl told police she had swallowed safety pins and a finger ring.

Borotra Eliminates Vincent Richards

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—With Vincent Richards, America's last hope, eliminated by Jean Borotra, two French tennis stars will be the finalists this afternoon in the 45th renewal of the national championship at Forest Hills.

Borotra and Jean Rene Lacoste will contend for the title, which has been the exclusive property of William T. Tilden, II, of Philadelphia, ever since the end of the World War. Both had five set battles before they could conquer, but each in turn proved the better stayer and emerged victor in the semi-finals yesterday.

Westminster To Open Season Next Friday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—How will the grid team line up in the opening game with Duquesne university at Pittsburgh on September 24? This is the question perplexing Westminster college's student body and Westminsterites in general. However, even Head Coach Dwight "Dyke" Beede refuses to answer the question and his numerous changes in the personnel of the so-called varsity eleven during a practice session convinces one that everything is not yet settled.

With a squad numbering close to 40, it is obvious that competition for berths is of the hottest kind. Several men who were thought to have had no chance at all a week ago have surprised with their work since being given a chance to perform in roles played by men now on the injured list.

It will do no harm to conjecture as to the makeup of the team which will march onto the field at Pittsburgh. The duty of calling signals will fall to either "Rusty" Coles, a veteran from last year, or Jim McQuiston, another member of last year's squad but who failed to enter the circle of lettermen. During the past week, Coles has been in charge with McQuiston on the sidelines with a bad knee. Coles is easily the fattest man on the squad. One the other hand McQuiston can punt and pass with exceptional ability.

It looks as though Hostettler, a freshman, will get the call for the fullback position with Bowen and Hall at the halves. However, Paul Campbell, a product of Westinghouse high, Pittsburgh, is waging a game fight for a halfback position and may get the call.

Crowell or Del Smith will play one terminal with the veteran Kelly at the other. Sweet, a 246-pounder looks good at a tackle with Ayres, a member of last year's squad, playing the other. Captain Montgomery will doubtless get the call at guard with Henderson, a rangy newcomer, on the other side of the line. Joe Smith will play center.

Two Class Leagues For High Schools Of City This Fall

The high school class league schedule of games for the different football teams involved was announced today by William Klee the director of physical education at the senior high school.

The teams have been divided as they were last year according to their weight and rank into two leagues one to be known as the Senior and the other as the Junior league.

The Senior league is to be made up of the Seniors, the Juniors, and the Sophmores of the senior high school and Ben Franklin Junior High. The teams composing the Junior league are Mahoningtown Junior High, North Street Junior High, and the Ben Franklin Reserves.

All games are to be played at the Franklin Stadium and the season will be officially opened on October 4 with the Senior and the Sophomores as opponents.

The league was a great success last year although the continual rain put the field into bad condition and if one can judge from the talk at the several schools connected with the league, this years schedule will be better than ever.

The Ben Franklin team has as usual taken the lead in the beginning of training and the teams of the Senior high had better snap into it or they will get the same kind of treatment from the Franklin aggregation that they have received in the past and that has been a trouncing.

The Senior high teams are somewhat handicapped however on account of the lack of a coach and the necessary equipment. The equipment part can usually be taken care of but as for the problem of choosing or even getting a coach is a very great one. It is hoped that some of the members of the faculty that have had experience on the gridiron will come to the fore with an offer of assistance so that the Senior high teams can be welded together for their games.

In the Junior league North Street boasts of having the strongest team in years and they will no doubt lead Mahoningtown and Franklin Reserves a merry chase for the secondary championship.

The schedule as it was announced is as follows:

Inter Class Football Schedule 1926

Monday Oct. 4— Seniors vs Sophomores.

Friday Oct. 8—Juniors vs Ben Franklin.

Monday Oct. 11—Mahoningtown vs. North Street.

Friday Oct. 15—Seniors vs Ben Franklin.

Monday Oct. 18—Sophomores vs Juniors.

Friday Oct. 22—North Street vs Ben Franklin 2nd.

Monday Oct. 25—Sophomores vs Ben Franklin.

Friday Oct. 29—Juniors vs Seniors.

Monday Nov. 1—Mahoningtown vs Ben Franklin 2nd.

Presbyterians Deadlock Series

Central Presbyterians Defeat Methodists, 2 To 1—Series Tied Up

The Central Presbyterian team went into a deadlock with the First Methodists in the Church League series on Friday night by nosing out the latter aggregation 2 to 1, in a game that was stopped in the sixth inning on account of darkness. The game was played on the Croton field.

The Methodists gained the first game of the series at Centennial field on Wednesday night by a score of 3 to 1, but the Presbyterians were not to be denied victory last night.

The Presbyterians drew first blood in the opening frame by getting to Leonard for enough hits to produce a lone tally, the Methodists were held scoreless for the first two innings but broke out in the third inning with a rash of base knocking that produced a tally.

Manager Weiss brought victory to the Presbyterian team by crashing out a double in the sixth inning scoring Battley who had singled to start the inning.

Melder occupied the knoll for the Presbyterians and came through with a five-hit game, while the Presbyterians found the offering of Johnny Leonard for thirteen safe swats. Melder fanned four and walked two, while Leonard fanned one and walked one.

Patterson, the Presbyterian short stop made three fine chances of hard liners that robbed the Methodists of hits, while Brooks played a sensational game for the losers in the field.

Wilson with three hits including a double was the leading hitter for the winners, while Battley, and Weiss had two safe swats apiece. For the Methodists Lockley was the best bet.

High Gridders To Open Season

With ideal weather prevailing today the New Castle and Mars High football teams are battling out on Ben Franklin Field, in the start of the 1926 grid season here. The game got under way shortly after 2:30 o'clock with several thousand fans on hand.

All the last minute details relative to the playing of the game were ironed out by Faculty Manager Gardner and Student Manager Pitt Hoag on Friday night. The field is in perfect condition and a fast game is anticipated.

KIRKWOOD LOWERS GOLF COURSE RECORD

the edge of the green, while Kirkwood and Smith are on the green. Kirkwood, Smith and Cooper make it in four. Nunn takes five.

No. 4. 380 Yards—Par 4

The four players made good drives up the beautiful fairway. Smith outdistances all with a drive of 250 yards. The others are close behind him. Kirkwood is in the rough at the edge of the fairway, but with a fine mashie shot of 180 yards lands on the green. Cooper and Nunn land on the edge of the green. Smith just fails in making a birdie with a niblick shot. Cooper and Kirkwood make it in par. Smith and Nunn take one more.

No. 5—560 Yards, Par 5.

One of the hardest holes of the course, and this section of the country, being known as "a dog leg blind hole", with the green in the deep ravine and across a run, and with unusual natural hazards and rarely made in par.

Cooper dubbed his drive and went into the rough. Kirkwood made a long drive of the hole, going 275 yards. Nunn drove 150 yards, while Captain Smith outdrove all, going fully 300 yards. Kirkwood was on in three and putted twice for the cup. Smith and Kirkwood made it in par, while Cooper and Nunn were good for a six.

No. 6—380 Yards, Par 6.

Kirkwood makes a bangup drive of 275 yards. Smith, Kirkwood and Nunn make a nice approach. Kirkwood's ball lands within a few feet of the cup. Cooper makes a nice putt with Kirkwood doing a better one. Kirkwood along made this hole in par with the others trailing in with higher scores.

No. 7—185 Yards, Par 3.

Cooper and Kirkwood land on the green with ease, Cooper getting within two feet of the pin. Smith and Nunn have a little farther to go but are in easy distance of the hole. Cooper and Nunn finish up in par, with Kirkwood and Smith trailing with fours.

No. 8—485 Yards, Par 5.

Kirkwood makes a long drive. He reaches and rims the cup and finishes with a birdie to his credit, making the hole in one less than par. Cooper and Nunn reach the edge of the green in three but take two to complete the hole. Smith also takes five.

No. 9—335 Yards, Par 4.

Dr. Cooper hooks up and goes but a short distance into the rough. A nice shot puts him out of the rough. Kirkwood, Nunn and Smith finished in par with Cooper trailing with a five. The first nine holes completed with Kirkwood one over par, or 37.

No. 10—420 Yards, Par 4.

Probably the most difficult hole in the entire course, with two hazards. Nunn and Smith have the advantage and make it in par, Cooper and Kirkwood doing five.

No. 11—350 Yards, Par 4.

Kirkwood makes an exceptionally fine drive. All the members of the foursome going in fine shape, Kirkwood and his partner going just a little better than the others. Kirkwood and Cooper make it in par. Smith and Nunn off one stroke.

No. 12—335 Yards, Par 4.

Good form showed by all players. Kirkwood, Smith and Nunn make the hole in par. Cooper unfortunate and completes it in five.

No. 13—135 Yards, Par 3.

Shortest hole of course. Kirkwood lands within three feet of the pin in one. Smith is at the upper edge in one, Nunn and Cooper at less advantageous points. Kirkwood holes ball on second stroke, Smith also does the same, repeating his performance of last year against Hagen. Both get a birdie. Cooper and Nunn finish in par.

No. 14.—320 Yards, Par 4.

Good golf is shown by all four players. They appear to be getting better as they near the end. Kirkwood lands on the green within six feet of the pin without any trouble. Par is the score for all.

No. 15—400 Yards, Par 4.

Nunn meets with misfortune in dubbing the ball and landing in the rough but a few feet from the tee. The others get away in good shape. Kirkwood and Smith finish in par, Cooper makes it in five and Nunn in six.

No. 16—420 Yards, Par 4.

Kirkwood adds a little comedy to the afternoon's game much to the amusement of the gallery, when as his mate drives off, he does the same almost simultaneously. He lands a little to one side but it does not hinder him in making par. The others also finish in par.

No. 17—300 Yards, Par 4.

A tall tree forms a barrier in making this hole, that it does to some people. It appeared to mean nothing to Kirkwood, who shot high and far over the tree, but landed in the rough at the foot of an embankment and with a smaller tree between him and the green. But trees mean nothing to him and he landed in the green by placing the ball there over the second tree. Kirkwood, Smith and Nunn make it in par. Cooper was one behind.

No. 18—380 Yards, Par 4.

Beautiful drives featured play for this hole with Captain Smith and Kirkwood performing in great shape. Cooper, Kirkwood and Smith finish in four. Nunn had to take six.

The score of the respective players follows:

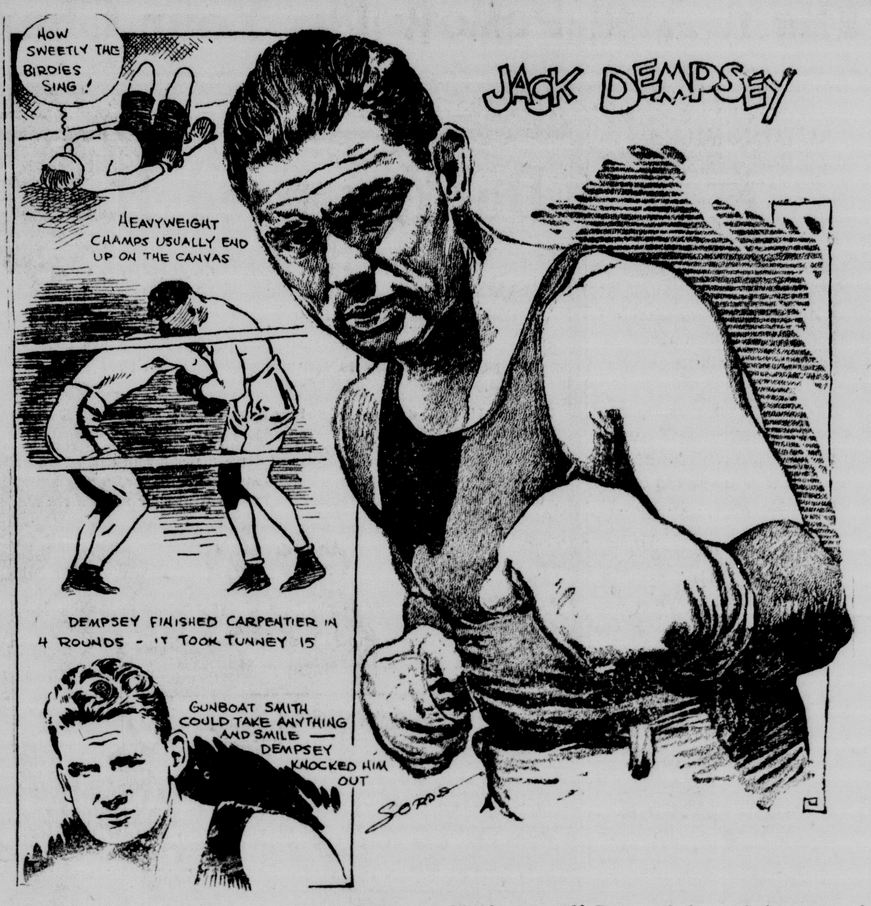
It's To Be A Heavyweight Bout

And Gene, Who Hasn't Fought Many, Meets the Champion



By NORMAN E. BROWN

Whether or not Gene Tunney cares to make his coming meeting with Jack Dempsey a test of the power of mind over matter, the fact remains that when the two men enter the ring the ensuing moments will be given over to what should be more or less the usual run of heavyweight championship fights—the efforts of a young and hopeful challenger to dethrone the champion.

As recited before, it is tradition that heavyweight kings are dethroned generally through the effective results obtained with a horseshoe in the gloves, so to speak. In other words, ability to knock the king flatter than the highways around Jefferson, O.

It is to be expected then that the winner of the coming bout will be the man who can be on the producing end of the knockout punch.

All right.

Dempsey climbed to his battle with Jess Willard and since held the title by striding over a row of unconscious heavyweights, large, small, fast, slow, clever, dumb, crafty, courageous and confident.

Here is a list of the better known opponents who were bowled over by Dempsey:

Dempsey's Main Victims via the K. O. Route

Opponent	Round
Jim Flynn	1
Bill Brennan	6
Arthur Pelkey	1
Porky Flynn	1
Fred Fulton	1
Battling Levinsky	3
Porky Flynn	1
Carl Morris	1
Gunboat Smith	2
Jess Willard	3
Billy Miske	3
Bill Brennan	12
Georges Carpentier	4
Luis Firpo	2

Dempsey knocked out Bill Brennan in six rounds early in his career—when Dempsey was younger and stronger and still experienced. Bill was tough, a hard hitter and fast.

Battling Levinsky had no wallop but he was one of the cleverest boxers of the day.

Gunboat Smith ranked as one of the hardest men in the heavyweight ranks to beat back. He can take anything and smile. Dempsey knocked him out.

Firpo, a throwback to the prehistoric stone age, carried the wildest style ever seen in the ring game and one of the deadliest punches into the ring against Dempsey and fell short—woke up with the birds singing about his black wire hair.

Opponent	Round
Charlie Weinert	4
Erminio Spalla	7
Georges Carpentier (technical)	15
Tommy Gibbons	12
Bartley Madden	3

Outside of the 12-round knockout victory over Gibbons this list of Tunney's gives him or his friends no reason to assert that he is within 27 1-2 miles of Dempsey as a hitter.

Carpentier was a burned out, decrepid shadow of his former self when Tunney succeeded in getting a technical knockout victory in 15 long rounds. Dempsey knocked out Carpentier three years previously in four rounds.

On the other hand, it must be admitted that the men listed among Dempsey's k. o. victims were of all ages, stages of experience and ring craft.

It requires, then, some delicate dissecting of the relative merits of these opponents, the conditions under which the bouts were fought, and the ultimate outcome to drive home the point that Tunney has a good chance to knock Dempsey out.

There is no logical argument for that belief.

Laborer Succumbs To Heart Attack

Heart disease was believed to have caused his death.

Jones Leads "Nocks" With Fine Average

Charles "Bub" Jones, star center fielder of the Neshannocks, led his team in batting this year with an average of .388 it was announced today by officials of the club, in a summary of the season's activity.

Jones was at bat 147 times, had 57 hits, scored 28 runs, and his extra base hitting shows seven doubles, five triples and nary a home run. Gerald Earl was second high man on the "Nocks" team with an average of .355, while the other .300 hitters included Murphy with a mark of .331, Coates with .331, and Travers with .312 in ten games.

It is reported that Jones will be given a try-out by one of the Middle Atlantic league teams in 1927.

Mackey was the leading pitcher on the Neshannock team this year according to the figures which show that he pitched in 21 games was credited with 15 victories and charged with 3 defeats; Van Eman won 5 and lost 2; Coates won 1 and lost 2; Rodenbaugh won 5 and lost 7, and Dean leads the list with 1 victory and no defeats in one game pitched. Following are the averages of the Nesannock team for the season of 1926:—

	G.	AB	R.	H	2B	3B	HR	SB	SH	Pct.
Jones	39	147	28	57	7	5	0	4	8	.388
Earl	40	155	52	55	9	8	8	11	8	.355
Murphy	41	148	23	49	7	2	0	7	2	.331
Coates	26	133	32	44	7	4	4	5	2	.331

Tunney Optimistic As Big Bout Nears

BY RAY CAMPBELL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—Optimism ran high in Gene Tunney's camp today as a result of the challenger's excellent showing in his work yesterday. Gene, whose work on Thursday was alarmingly poor, was a changed man. He worked better than he has at any time since he began training.

He had speed and pep. He had strength and power in his punches and in his arms. Poor Jimmy Delaney took a bad battering from him and was bleeding from the nose and mouth after a half minute of action. Jim took many a straight left in his face and had to stand up under terrific right crosses.

Tunney frequently hooked his left to the body and then instantly flashed his right to the jaw. Gene does this well, and he is going to bother Dempsey with it. At close quarters Tunney pumped rights and lefts into the body viciously.

Billy Vidabeck took a hammering, too, both about the body and head. He boxed two rounds. As did Delaney.

Tunney will work out again today, tomorrow and Monday. Bud Gorman ought to be here to work with him today. Osk Till has been sent away from the camp.

Power is one reason for Pontiac Six popularity

Powered by the largest six-cylinder engine used in any car costing less than $1000, the Pontiac Six exhibits a performance range entirely new in its field.

From 20% to 40% greater piston displacement than other sixes of comparable price. Power to soar up hills. Power to flash brilliantly ahead in traffic. Power to lug smoothly and steadily through mud and sand. More power than any other six at its price—and a permanent source of power too—

—for the Pontiac Six engine has a 46 lb. crankshaft, long-wearing semi-steel pistons, heavy I-beam section connecting rods, full-pressure oiling and bronze-backed interchangeable crankshaft bearings.

Beauty, comfort, economy and roadability—in all these qualities the Pontiac Six represents a decisive departure among low-priced sixes. Yet, on the basis of power in relation to wheelbase, weight and price, it ranks as the one outstanding engineering triumph of the day.

Pontiac Six, Sedan or Coupe, $825. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six—$1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

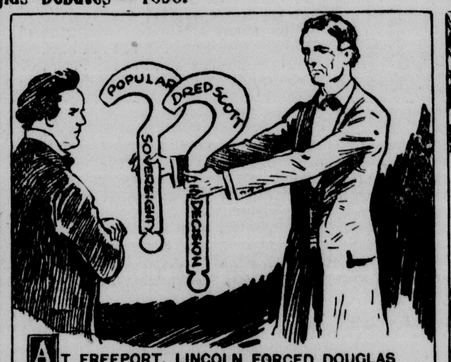
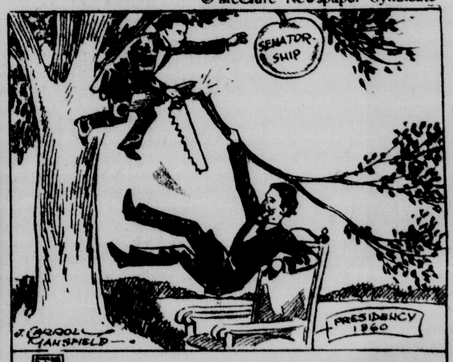
The Lincoln-Douglas Debates—1858.

IN 1858, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS, CHALLENGED HIS DEMOCRATIC OPPONENT, STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, TO A SERIES OF DEBATES ON THE RESPECTIVE MERITS OF POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY IN THE TERRITORIES AND CONTROL OF SLAVERY BY CONGRESS.

DOUGLAS ACCEPTED THE CHALLENGE AND THE SEVEN DEBATES THAT FOLLOWED AROUSED NATION-WIDE INTEREST. CROWDS OF PEOPLE FLOCKED TO HEAR THE VERBAL STRUGGLE OVER THESE TWO GREAT DOCTRINES AND EVERYWHERE THE ARGUMENTS OF LINCOLN AND DOUGLAS WERE READ IN THE NEWSPAPERS.



AT FREEPORT, LINCOLN FORCED DOUGLAS TO DECLARE THAT "POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY" GAVE A TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE THE POWER TO MAKE LAWS AGAINST SLAVERY IN SPITE OF THE DRED SCOTT DECISION. THIS STATEMENT ANGERED THE SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS AND IN 1860 THEY REJECTED DOUGLAS AS A CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.



DOUGLAS WAS RE-ELECTED TO THE SENATE BY A NARROW MAJORITY OF 8 VOTES, BUT THIS DISCUSSION HELPED TO SPLIT THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND MADE IT POSSIBLE FOR THE REPUBLICANS TO ELECT LINCOLN TO THE PRESIDENCY IN 1860.

Special Theme At Bible Mission

Evangelist L. Schmidt will speak this evening in the Bible House Mission, 10 East North street on the subject 'Thou Shalt Not Bear False Witness against Thy Neighbor." Scripture lesson Exodus 20:-6. Text, Matthew 7:12.

The sermon this evening will be very instructive. Prayer, song and testimony meeting every evening.

Police were last night asked by Mike Orabines of 15 Walter street, to pick up his son George, whom he alleged had taken his car without his consent and had also taken his driver's license. It is a Star touring car.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The railroad stocks, under the lead of the socalled Van Sweringen Nickel Plate group, were the leaders in a sharp rally in stock prices in the short session of the stock market today.

Reports that the minority committee of the Chesapeake and Ohio road were meeting with good success in their efforts to secure a 10 to 12 per cent dividend guaranty for their stock in the nickel plate consolidation, resulted in heavy buying interest for the stock, which rushed up 12 points to 171½. Nickel Plate advanced 6 points to above 188, while Standard Rails like New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern railroad and Pere Marquette, recovered from 2 to 4 points of their recent losses.

With the buoyant movement in the rails as a stimulus, many of the industrial stocks were marked up at the expense of the bearish traders. United States Steel and General Motors were in the fore-front of this rallying movement, though various industrial and specialty stocks sold up a point or more in active trading.

Suit Cases Full Of Liquor Are Evidence In Case

W. A. Rowan, Charged With Transporting Liquor, On Trial At Court

W. A. Rowan, charged with transporting liquor, was placed on trial before Judge James A. McLaughry at court this morning. Two suit cases containing liquor were brought into court as evidence.

County Detective George Kennedy testified that on the evening of July 3 he and another officer were returning from Youngstown on a Baltimore and Ohio train. He saw Rowan with the suitcases on the train. When Rowan got off at the Seventh ward station Kennedy followed and arrested Rowan as he was taking the suit cases to a taxi which was waiting at the station.

Special District Attorney Charles R. Davis is representing the commonwealth and Attorney A. Martin Graham the defense.

New High Record In Car Loadings

Growing Volume Of Domestic Trade Is Indicated By Week's Record

MONEY MARKET IS BIG FACTOR

By W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Stock market sentiment was largely controlled this week by developments and anticipated developments in the money market.

Continuance of the 5 per cent call loan rate until the latter part of this week and the growing conviction that federal reserve bank rediscount rates will be pushed upward in the near future placed a handicap in the pathway of advancing stock prices and professional trade took advantage of these factors to offer stocks at lower prices.

No action was taken on the rediscount rate by the reserve bank directors this week, but the weekly reports of the various banks of the system point strongly to the possibility of an increase in the rate in the near future. Reserve ratio of the whole system declined from 74.3 per cent to 71.6 per cent of reserves, while the New York bank reported a decline of 74.8 from 79.2. Boston from 81.9 to 74.7, Philadelphia 75.9 to 71.7, Chicago 76.6 to 73.7.

Another new high record in freight car loadings emphasized the growing volume of domestic trade, confirming the forecasts and official reports of industrial trade leaders since mid-summer. There was no important development in trade circles, although the trend in commodity prices was firmer and the turnover of wholesale and retail commodities was on the increase. Crude oil production showed the first evidence of a decline since the latter part of June and gasoline consumption continued unusually heavy.

Outside of the recognized market leaders in the motor, industrial and specialty groups, the market was dull and featureless with the volume of trading below the average of the last few weeks. Professional and pool support of the moving picture stocks made them the excitaable speculative features of the week but their market course was punctuated with sharp dips as well as advances, marking them "dangerous" for the so-called outside trader.

General Motors, United States Steel, American Smelting and other high priced stocks assumed the constructive leadership of the market in mid-week, and under their direction the tone of the whole market improved. But bearish professionals persistently offered all stocks on the rallies, and most of the well known industrials closed the week at lower prices than at last Friday's closing.

The rails were inactive and dull, though prices held firmly. Copper stocks were well bought, oils were reactionary after a firm opening, sugars and tobaccos retired to the background and equipment shares, with the exception of Pullman, displayed a reactionary tone.

Cheer Football Team At High

Assembly Period Devoted To Boosting For Athletic Success

SEVERAL SPEECHES AROUSE STUDENTS

Homage was paid to the football team of New Castle High School at impressive chapel services held at the local institution Friday and if one could judge from the spirit shown by the student body it was one of the most successful that has been held in the history of the school.

After the devotional period Principal Frank L. Orth turned over the program to Ralph Gardner the faculty manager of athletics who introduced the speakers.

The first was Captain Harry Robinson and of course like all good football players Harry showed the students that he also was a public speaker of note. Harry did not say much though but he did ask the student body to be at the game Saturday as it was necessary to have their support in order to have a winning team.

Merit Hoag, the student manager of athletics gave the outline of this year's schedule as it would be played and also remarked that several refreshments booths would be erected at the stadium for the benefit for the fans and just as all things that refer to eating this made a big hit for this has always been a weak point of the football games for some people for they are always grinding their teeth when a tight situation appears and they probably figure that having something in there to grind would not be a bad idea.

Coach Bridenbaugh and Robert Millison were the remaining persons on the program and Bridie gave every one a feeling of satisfaction when he remarked that he had a fairly good team for it is seldom that he thinks they are that good at least that is what he generally says but in the final analysis no one knows just what Bridie is thinking and the best thing to do it to go out to the games and judge for yourself.

The cheerleaderes namely Sherwood Johns, Clarence Bratchie, and Bob McKensie led the entire student in some of the well known cheers and the first assembly of the year was dismissed.

Von Elm Leads Bobby Jones At Eighteen Holes

(International News Service)

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 18.—Golf addicts for several years have pined for the day when Bobby Jones was to be forced to come from behind in match play for the National amateur title. They got it today when George Von Elm, annual contender for Bobby's title, led the great Georgian to the eighteenth green by one up in the final round of the National amateur championship.

REV. BUZZA ASKS TO BE RETIRED

Golf Is Fast Becoming Popular U. S. Sport Declares Joe Kirkwood

Joe Kirkwood, champion golfer of Australia, while at the Field Club Friday afternoon, expressed to a representative of The News, some of his views concerning the ancient game, which is becoming one of the more popular sports of the country.

According to Kirkwood, the game is becoming the pastime of greater numbers of people every year, not only in America but in practically every country of the world, it being possible to play the game, if a follower of the sport, in practically any country in the world.

It is gaining in favor as a sport, according to Kirkwood, because of its healthful exercise and because, on the golf course, there appears to prevail a type of free masonry among the players, which enables them to get closer together than in any other way.

Among other things Mr. Kirkwood said was "Previous to coming to this country five years ago, I had the impression from what I had read, that everybody here played baseball, because it was the favorite sport. I was surprised that in reality but a small percentage of the population actually play the game, the greater percentage spending time in watching it rather than taking an active part.

"In England, cricket is the national pastime. But the people play it. They don't care to sit and watch it. Now when I came to this country, five years ago, golft was not so greatly in favor. It was apparently the sport of those, who had plenty of time. At that time, if you walked down the street in knickers, the majority of people turned around, looked at you and probably laughed. Today it is different. Many of the people are wearing them, whether they play golf or not.

"Municipal golf courses have placed the game within the reach of all. They have popularized the game and the ordinary man may now indulge in a game that means recreation, under the utmost healthful conditions and they are actually turning out some of the leading players of the day. Another thing that is bringing it to the fore is the fact that the young people are becoming interested, having found that it is not an old man's game as formerly thought and that it is interesting beyond the average game or sport.

"I am, I believe, the only one at the present time, going about the country, giving exhibitions such as this here today and I am doing so because I find that the American people crave variety and I am able to furnish the same by a demonstration of the possibilties of golf."

Mr. Kirkwood has been playing the game intensively for the past fifteen years. He has given up tournament work and gone into the proposition of giving exhibitions. He plays on an average of six exhibition matches a week and is always in good form. He probably hits twice as many balls as any golfer in the country. He hits at least 250 every day, fifty per cent being for full shots.

He came here from Philadelphia. He has been in the Philadelphia and New York district for several weeks giving exhibitions. He went from here to Indiana Harbor.

Joseph Trax Leaves For Encampment

Joseph Trax, of West Washington street, widely known civil war veteran, will leave this evening at 7 p. m. for Des Moines, Iowa, with his famous cannon. He will join the Maryland Division comrades at Orrville and travel from that point to Des Moines with them. He has in his possession one of the permits granting reduced rates, which he will be pleased to give to any person entitled to the same.

W. M. STARR, PIONEER OIL MAN IN BUTLER COUNTY FIELD, DIES

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 18.—William Madison Starr, 72 years old, one of Butler county's best known citizens, died in the home here of his daughter, Mrs. George Dillick, last night. He was a veteran oil operator of Butler county and was interested also in the gas business.

Fifty years ago, with his brother-in-law, the late Peter Christie, Starr was one of the pioneers in opening the oil field around Karns City, in the northeastern section of Butler county. During the last 25 years he had been a member of the firm of McNally & Starr. This firm drilled wells in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio.

Eight Die as Explosion Closes Kansas City Tunnel

College Pranks At Westminster

New Students Are Getting Acquainted With College Activities

WHO'S WHO EVENT OF THIS EVENING

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—School is on at Westminster college. This fact has been very obvious during the past 48 hours.

The bulk of the activities has been other than those listed on the curriculum for the first few days of school and they have brought entertainment to many.

Thursday evening the freshmen were marched to prominent places in the vicinity of the campus by sophomores and given an opportunity to exhibit their respective abilities.

At the same time the sophomore lassies were royally entertaining their young sisters, the freshmen. At the Hillside, the girls' dorm, each of the second year girls drew the name of a freshman girl immediately after the evening meal. Then during the early evening hours, the sophomore women each took a freshman in tow and walked them around the campus, telling them of the traditions and customs of the institution and doing everything in their power to make them feel at home.

At the Friday chapel service, Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the college, presided and took the opportunity to have each new member of the faculty formally presented to the students. The heads of the various departments made the introductory addresses.

The teachers introduced were: Miss Juanita Robinson, professor in modern languages; Miss Lois Doolittle, professor in modern languages; W. S. Vance, instructor in the department of English; Royal A. Gettmann, an instructor in public speaking and teacher in debate and argumentation; Rev. John Caughey, professor in Bible; Hunter D. Farrish, instructor in history; John Lawther, professor in phychology and education; James W. Coleman, physical director; Jack Hulme, swimming instructor, and A. A. McDonald, graduate manager of athletics.

Saturday evening the annual "Who's Who" party will be held in the college gymnasium under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. This party affords the opportunity for freshmen to become acquainted with other undergraduates and members of the faculty in addition to many alumni.

Dr. Wallace will occupy the pulpit at the first Sunday evening chapel service the coming Sabbath.

Body Of Man Is Found In Woods

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 18.—Thomas Reilly, aged 45, an employe of the W. S. Morrison Contracting Company of New Brighton, living near South Heights, was found dead by fellow employes in some woods near the camp early this morning. Coroner Henry C. McCarter has been notified and it is thought that he will find the cause of death to be apoplexy. No relatives of the deceased man are known and the body is at Darroch's mortuary, Woodlawn, awaiting someone to claim it.

Rev. Bob Ingersol At City Mission

Will Be In Charge Of Services On Sunday And Every Evening Next Week

The services during the past week have been very interesting to those who attended the City Mission, and they have enjoyed the ministry of Rev. Ingersoll of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mr. Ingersoll will be in charge of the service Sunday evening. He will render special solos and bring the gospel message from the text Isaiah 45:22, Look unto Me and be ye saved; all the ends of the earth for I am God, and there is none else.

Those who have not had the privilege during the past week of hearing Mr. Ingersoll, will be glad to know that he will preach again Sunday evening and every evening this coming week.

Special solo numbers will be rendered by Mrs. W. P. Felch at the beginning of the service Sunday evening, and Mr. Ingersoll will render special music at the close of the service.

The ladies of the Mothers' circle of the City Mission are making plans for the opening of the usual mission sewing school which will be held as usual on Saturday afternoon. The opening date for these classes will be announced later.

Accident Victims Return To Homes

Butler Girls Injured In Accident Here Leave Hospital For Their Homes

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 18.—Almost fully recovered from injuries received in an accident Wednesday afternoon in which the Burton sedan skidded on the New Castle-Youngstown road, Ola Mae and Jean Burton, 504 West Pearl street, were dismissed from the Shenango Valley hospital at New Castle last night and returned to their home in this city.

The Burton family included Ola Mae and Jean Burton, P. W. Burton, Elmer C Burton and daughter, Elinor Ann Burton; Mrs. Harvey Weible of Sharon, and Mrs. William McKain, mother of Mrs. Emma Burton, who were on their way to Youngstown Wednesday night when the accident occurred.

ABE MARTIN On Home Life

TAKIN' NO CHANCES.

"Yes, we expect t' git married jest as soon as we kin find a woman t' run our home," we heard a girl say recently. Th' ole, original understandin' between a feller an' his bride used t' be that he'd make th' livin' if she'd run th' house. That's how th' expression, "The woman in th' home," got started. But th' home is th' last place we'd expect t' find a woman t'day. She's more liable t' be in politics, or in th' divorce court, or in th' English channel, or at some downtown club, or loafin' on th' mezzanine floor o' some hotel, or shoppin'. It's gittin' so a husband's affairs if he's any sort of a husband at all, are controlled by his wife's activities. If he hain't bein' dragged somewheres agin his will, or stickin' at home t' watch th' children, he's tryin' t' git th' loose ends of his business in shape. Husbands are gittin' t' neglect ther work more'n more. They worry all day about where they'll have to' go in th' evenin', they worry about ther children bein' alone an' playin' in th' street, an' they're allus wonderin' where ther wives are. "I'm allus so glad when my wife's folks visit us. I like t' see my home lighted up an' hear th' rattle o' dishes." I hear a feller say. Art Small closed his drug store th' other day t' go home an' hang his overcoat in th' sun. "I close down ever' now an' then durin' th' moth season," he says. "Th' cost o' bein' married has fer more than trebled 'specially if you've got kids" remarked Elmer Swank recently. "As soon as kids are big enough t' dress 'emselves they're sent off t' some boardin' school so ther mother kin run. I've found out that wives don't thrive if they're penned up." We all remember when so-called "select schools" fer boys an' girls used t' be few an' widely scattered, but since women have been emancipated thousan's of 'em have sprung up almost overnight. It's gittin' so women rebel agin bein' tied down long enough t' water a few little innocent gold fish while windin' a clock, raisin' a fern pinchin' off dried petunia buds, gatherin' up th' Sunday paper, changin' a canary, lettin' a meter reader in th' house, or hangin' out an ice card, are little incidentals about th' home that have long since come t' be regarded as slavish drudgery' gallin' an' hateful t' th' modern home maker. "Indeed, I'll not hang th' ice card out. It wouldn' be no time till th' whole ice card responsibility would be shifted t' my shoulders" said Mrs. Lafe Bud t' her husband one mornin'. But I'll say this fer women—some o' them'll wash dogs even if they won't wash ther own hair. Keepin' our homes in use an' lighted up, o' course is a problem, but as regards raisin' children th' boardin' schools an' colleges seem t' have that matter purty well in hand. Th' surprisin' divorce o' th' week owin' t' th' prominence o' the two families' wuz th' Mamie an' Lester Kite split up cause Lester wuz afraid t' go in his house when nobuddy wuz there.

United Brethren Churches Will Support Fisher

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 18. — Members of the Allegheny conference of United Brethren today were on record as supporting the candidacies of John S. Fisher, of Indiana, for governor, and William B. Wilson for United States senator, following action of the conference in passing resolutions calling upon members of the denomination to vote for the two candidates.

Park avenue United Brethern church, here, was chosen to entertain the conference at its 1927 meeting, to be held here.

With much of the routine work of the conference out of the way, delegates today looked forward to the announcement of appointments of the new year to be made public today or tomorrow.

Install Drinking Fountains At News

One Located In Lobby Will Be Available For Use By News Patrons

Among the latest improvements at the up-to-date and modern office and plant of The New Castle News, is the installation of a number of drinking fountains, with the water kept at a desirable cool temperature by the Frigidaire system.

One of the fountains is located in the mechanical department, and one is in the main first floor lobby of The News building, where it will be available for the public having business in The News office.

The pedestal for his fountain in the main lobby is a fine piece of work, and was made at the plant of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Company of this city.

The fountains were installed as the result of arrangements with O. A. Knapp, in charge of the Frigidaire service in this locality, and are the first of the kind to be put in operation in New Castle.

Through the operation of these fountains there is always available at The News, a supply of good cool drinking water, in sanitary fountains, and the installation of these fountains is a modern convenience that is much appreciated by the employes of the plant, and will doubtless prove an appreciable convenience to many patrons of The News in the future.

Proposed Paris Flight Postponed

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 18—The proposed flight of the Sikorsky biplane from here to Paris has been postponed until Monday at the earliest, and it probably will not be made before next Tuesday.

"Weather reports indicate very unfavorable weather for the next three days", Captain Rene Fonck, chief pilot, explained.

TWO TRY TO BRIBE SHERIFF IN MURDER CASE, IS CHARGED

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18. — Robert Simmons and Joseph O'Brien, Patton youths, today went on trial jointly on charges filed in connection with the death of Mary Elizabeth Bogan, 19, step-sister of Simmons, during an automobile ride on the night of June 7.

Frank Coutereaux, 19, also of Patton, today stood convicted of manslaughter in connection with the girl's death, by verdict of a jury in President Judge John E. Evans' court here.

The three youths were arrested when they returned from the automobile ride with the girl's body.

Couteraux' defense at his trial was that the girl had leaped from their car, suffering fatal injuries.

Trial of Simmons and O'brien opened immediately after the verdict was returned against Coutereaux, and was postponed until today.

Sharon Car Line To Be Abandoned

Trolley Service To Be Discontinued On October 8 By Company

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18.—The Sharon and New Castle Railway Co., running between New Castle and the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line will discontinue operating on and after October 8, 1926, an order to this effect being handed down Friday by Judge Schoonmaker.

The court order was granted on petition of Rufus Moses, receiver of the Sharon and New Castle Railway Co. The receiver stated that the line could not operate at a profit. He averred that the Ohio public utilities commission agreed to the discontinuance. The court ordered that the receivership be continued until further orders.

The Franklin Road grade crossing of the Bessemer Railroad has claimed another victim in the person of Phillip Alexander 19, of this community injured there Thursday morning.

Mr. Alexander is improving is the report at the hospital today where he was taken for treatment of the compound fracture of his right leg which resulted. Like many other autoists injured at this crossing Alexander did not see that it was occupied by a freight into which he drove due to the heavy fog that overhung the valley there after the rain. The crossing is at the foot of a very steep hill and is customarily approached at a good speed. Alexander is one of four people that have been injured there during the year. Three were killed at this crossing several years ago. The accidents have been at night and due to the heavy fog.

The annual retreat of the Erie Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church was held September 16th at the First Presbyterian Church of Meadville. SEEK OUTSIDE JURY FOR HALL TRIAL

To Make Effort For Foreign Jury In Hall-Mills Case

Early Trial Of Four Accused Will Depend Upon Jury Decision

PROSECUTOR ASKS FOR FOREIGN JURY

Wants Entire Jury Drawn From Outside Somerset County—Defense Opposed

(International News Service)
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 18.—Early trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, and their cousin, Henry de la B. Carpender, for the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, depends on the decision of Chief Justice Gummere regarding a foreign jury.

This was disclosed today by Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, as he formulated plans for a bitter fight before the state supreme court for a jury drawn outside Somerset county. The application will be made Thursday.

Robert H. McCarter of the Hall-Stevens-Carpender defense, will oppose Simpson's application on the ground that no reason exists for the summoning of a foreign jury.

Boys Fair Camp To Open September 27

Penn State College Men To Give Lectures During Course Of Local Fair

A complete program which alternates instruction and recreation periods has been arranged by Farm Agent H. R. McCulloch for the Boys' Camp which will be conducted during the coming New Castle fair. Every boy in the county between the age of 8 and 21 years, whether a member of a Farm Bureau organization or not is eligible to attend the camp which will open on the afternoon of September 27.

It will continue until noon October 1. Approximately 25 boys will be enrolled in the camp which will be located in its regular quarters in the loft of the horse barn near the eastern edge of the fair grounds.

Agricultural experts from Penn State College will be at the camp for the purpose of delivering lectures along their lines while an open livestock judging contest is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

Through the financial co-operation of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce an exhibit of boys' agricultural work will be conducted at the camp and is expected to be a center of great interest.

Reservations for the camp may be made at the Farm Bureau on Croton avenue.

Dorcas Class Picnic.

The Dorcas class of Epworth M. E. Bible school held a very enjoyable corn, weiner and marshmallow roast at the home of Mrs. Richard Wright of King street, Friday evening.

There were 40 present. Music and games formed the pastimes of the evening.

BUILDING EXTENSION TO JOHNSON BRONZE COMPANY PLANT HERE

New Structural Steel Building 150x56 Is Being Erected At Plant

Big Demand For Company Product Results In Large Extension

"Owing to the demand for products, the Johnson Bronze Company is erecting an additional steel building, 150x56, in South Mill street.

The new building is necessary to adequately care for increased production of bronze back babbitt-lined bearings for motors of all kinds.

When the building is ready for occupancy it not only will result in increased products, if business continues good, but also a larger employment roster.

Steelwork Going Up

The new building, of steel material, is being erected immediately north of the main Johnson Bronze plant. It fronts on South Mill street. Steel girders have been placed, the building is under roof and at the present time workmen are working on the ground floor. It is not known exactly when the annex will be ready for occupancy. However, erection of the building is proceeding rapidly.

Today P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze Company, stated that the new building is being erected to take care of increasing production in another department of the company's business.

Demand Is Great

The company has been making bronze-back babbitt lined bearings for motors of all kinds in the machine shop, but the demand for the product has become so great that the officials have deemed it necessary to take this phase of the manufacturing from the machine shop and house it in a separate building which is being built by the Truscon Steel Company.

The Johnson Bronze Company has keen competition, but owing to the fact that the product has been very close precision work which cannot be manufactured by the average machine shop, the business of the Johnson Bronze has been developed and a strong demand has been made for their products. The erection of the new building is but an evidence of the growth of the plant and the quality of the material manufactured.

Harry M. Long To Head Legion

OTHER OFFICERS ARE NOMINATED

Harry M. Long, at present Senior Vice Commander of the Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343, American Legion will be the next post commander of the organization, his nomination for the office being the only one offered at the meeting of the post Friday evening, September 17.

The nomination of Mr. Long follows out the custom of the local post of the Legion of elevating the senior vice commander to the highest office. In this manner, the men who are elected post commander have had an experience in the lower offices which fits them for the duties of the commandership.

Other Nominations

For the office of Senior Vice Commander, Ivor V. Davies, at present Junior Vice Commander, was nominated. For the Junior Vice Commandership two names were placed in nomination, the two being Pat. J. Dempsey, at present adjutant, and Attorney Orville Brown. For Post Finance Officer there was only one nomination, the usual one, Edward E. Marshall who holds the distinction of being the only officer now serving who was one of the original officers of the post. It is now a matter of form to nominate no one but Mr. Marshall for this important office.

For Post Historian, Thomas McCombs was nominated and for Post Chaplin, A. A. Raab and Earl Toler. For Trustee, their retiring commander, Attorney W. Walter Braham was nominated. For sergeant-at-arms, De Graff Robinson, Earl Sowers and Wilbur Hughes were nominated. The election will be held at the next post meeting.

The nominee for post commander, Harry M. Long, who will be unopposed, will assume his new duties with a wealth of experience back of him. He has served on various committees, has conducted a membership drive, and has served as junior and senior vice commander. In all of his work he has been efficient and faithful and his elevation to the commandership comes as a well merited recognition of service.

Modern Solomon Contrives Test For Love Of Juvenile Newly-Weds

Mable Ousley Humphrey and her husband, Clifton Humphrey.

By Central Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—Young love is romantic and all that, but the local juvenile court holds that it is full of danger when its "victims" actually attempt to make their dreams come true in precipitate marriage.

Judge E. E. Porterfield, when faced with the case of a 17-year-old husband and his 15-year-old bride, decided that time would be the best possible test to which to put this young love. So the bride, Mabel Ousley Humphrey, is to go into a "home" for a year while her husband "digs in" in business. During the year they are not to see each other.

The newlyweds, each holding the other's hand, made a desperate plea to the court to permit them to continue their marriage uninterrupted. But Mabel was made a ward of the juvenile court and was sent to the Interdenominational Home for Girls for one year.

The sentence carried the contingency the length of the time spent at the home would be dependent upon her behavior and the earning power of her 17-year-old husband.

Unable to restrain a sob when sentence was pronounced, the girl clasped her husband's arm and began to cry convulsively.

"Won't I be allowed to call on her?" he asked with a catch in his voice.

"No," the judge answered.

"I'll make her the right kind of a husband." Clinton pleaded eagerly, "if you'll only give me a chance."

With no attempt at concealing his affection, he turned to Mabel, whispered a few words to her and patted her hand. She was wearing a diamond engagement ring and platinum wedding band on the third finger.

But the judge was not to be moved. If this was love—well it would prove itself.

Carnegie Steel Safety Men Have Great Time At Boy Scout Camp

"Golf" Tournament Is One Big Feature Of Day—Winners Named

Meeting Of Safety Organization Held In Connection With Outing

(By BART RICHARDS)

This lad Joe Kirkwood, who did tricks out at the New Castle Field club Friday afternoon, doesn't shoot a bad stick, but not even Joe ever pulled the trick shots that were seen on the golf course at the Boy Scout camp at the same time Kirkwood was at the field club.

The safety committee of the Carnegie Steel company was out on the 18-hole course Doc Zerner laid out, and old St. Andrew, patron saint of golf, must have done a couple of nose dives and a tail spin or two if he hovered over the course and saw some of the weird shots that resulted.

Fairway is All Rough.

In all the world there probably isn't another golf course like the one at the Boy Scout camp. Certainly there couldn't be two such courses. It resembles Piping Rock, or Grassy Sprain or Baltusrol, in that it has 18 holes. The resemblance is further enhanced by the fact that the cups are round and the flags are on sticks. After that there is a slight difference.

The fairways aren't, that's all,

Mexican Bandits Pay Penalty For Rosenthal Slaying

Report Six Bandits Implicated In Rosenthal Murder Have Paid Penalty

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—Six bandits have paid with their lives for the kidnaping and killing of Jacob Rosenthal, American business man of Woodmere, N. Y., according to a government statement today.

Unofficial statements declared that as many as fourteen bandits had either been executed or killed during fighting between the bandits and troops.

Three bandits, who had been held as suspects, were taken to the scene of the kidnaping to act as guards. Twenty other bandits swooped down from the hills and attempted to effect their release. In the fighting that ensued the three bandits attempted to escape and were killed.

Mexico Prepares To Quell Revolt Of Yaqui Indians

Fifteen Thousand Federal Troops Are Being Mobilized For Task

NO WORD ON FATE OF GEN. OBREGON

Troops Are Pursuing Remnant Of Bandit Gang After Numerous Brushes

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18.—Fifteen thousand federal troops were being mobilized today to undertake the extermination against the Yaqui Indians, reported in violent revolt.

The original war department estimate was that 5,000 men would be sufficient for the campaign, but this number is now considered too small, the government being desirous of swift and decisive results.

In former campaigns against the Yaquis, where smaller bodies of men were dispatched the Indians usually succeeded in entrenching themselves thoroughly, thus insuring a long-drawn-out compaign without decisive outcome.

No Word of Obregon

The whereabouts of General Obregon and his fate are still obscure. One report has it that the statements earlier in the week that General Obregon had been besieged and then relieved were erroneous, apparently no direct word having been received from General Obregon since it was reported that General Manzo's troops had relieved him.

According to one version now in circulation, General Manzo's troops failed to actually relieve General Obregon, but merely joined with the troops defending him and were last reported still giving battle to the Yaquis.

Among those who are reported to have been killed in brushes between the bandits and the federal troops are the former General Bonifacio Hinojosa of Zapata's forces, a former mayor of the village of Huitzila, near where the kidnapping of Rosenthal occurred, and Miguel Garcia, a warden in the jail of Huirzilac. These men are said to have been left as dead as the bandits fled. Examination of their bodies would seem to indicate remarkable marksmanship on the part of federal troops, for they were all shot through the right eye.

Troops are still pursuing the remnants of the bandit gang.

Will Make Effort To Have Prisoners Admitted To Bail

It is understood that action to have Clifford Johnson, Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Minnie Clements, held for murder in connection with the death of Joseph Richael released on bail and on lessened charges, will be inaugurated in the near future by counsel for the persons being held.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN HELD FOR COURT TRIAL FOR DEATH OF FARMER

Preliminary Hearing In East Brook Case Held On Friday Evening

Hearing And Inquest Are Held At Same Time—Richeal's Sons Testify

Clifford Johnson, Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Minnie Clements, occupants of the automobile in the lane between the Carrick and Richeal farms in Hickory township last Tuesday night, when Joseph Richeal came to his death, apparently as a result of a blow struck on the head during an alleged argument with the occupants of the car, were held following the hearing and inquest last night by Alderman Walter T. Hamilton for the December term of court on charges of murder. They were held without bail.

The Coroner's jury summoned by County Coroner J. P. Caldwell at the same time rendered a verdict, implicating Clifford Johnson, driver and owner of the car, alone.

The verdict of the jury was "We find that Joseph Richael came to his death on the evening of September 14, 1926 in Hickory township, as the result of a hemorrhage produced by a blow on the head, presumeably delivered by Clifford Johnson."

Some New Developments

Testimony produced at the hearing and inquest, which were held at the office of Alderman Walter T. Hamilton, brought out one or two new features, namely, that it was possibly the flashlight in the hands of Joseph Richael that broke the window of the Johnson machine and was the direct cause of the alleged assault by Johnson on Mr. Richeal and his son William. Also that intimations concerning the woman in the car had a bearing on the argument. These things were brought out on cross-examination.

Previous to the start of the hearing, hundreds of persons attempted to get into the office of Alderman Hamilton, although there was hardly more than room for those people directly concerned and interested in the case.

Police Clear Crowds

The crowd became so insistent that it be permitted to attempt to get into the place, that police officers were required to clear the sidewalks in front of the Citizen's National Bank building in order that regular traffic might be permitted on the sidewalks.

Those testifying were William and David Richeal, sons of the dead man, Dr. Loyal W. Wilson and Dr. William Cleland, Sheriff H. M. Reynolds, William Carrick, Guy L. and Kenneth Lockhart.

Attorney James A. Chambers assisted District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, as counsel for the Richeal family, in looking after the interests of the commonwealth. Attorneys S. P. Emery, Clyde Gibson and John Powers were present in the interest of the three defendants.

At the close of taking testimony, Attorney Powers asked for the discharge of Gilbert Blackford and Mrs. Clements. Attorney Chambers argued that all three be held. Attorney Gibson also spoke in behalf of the discharge of Blackford and Mrs. Clements. The arguments of Attorney Chambers were upheld and the three defendants were held by Alderman Hamilton.

First Witness

William Richeal, younger son of the dead man, was the first witness called. He told of the family having supper about six o'clock Eastern Standard time. The milking had then been done, he said. His father went to the barn to get the buckets in which the milk for the pigs was to be placed. He was engaged in separating the milk.

When his father failed to return as soon as expected, he had gone out to find the reason for the delay. His father had told him of seeing a light down the lane and said they would go down and find out who they were and where they went. His brother David, had brought a flashlight, as they went to the lane. The father had said they might be stealing corn and that it would be

New Phase Looms In Case Against Aimee McPherson

Mother Of Former Evangelist Arrested; Six Others To Be Arrested Soon

MOTHER IS GIVEN BAIL OF $2,500

Charges Are Also Made Against Mrs. McPherson —False Evidence Is Charged

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—With her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, already under arrest and warrants issued for six others, including the famous woman evangelist, the case against Aimee McPherson was entering a new phase today.

Only the fact that she was confined to her bed suffering from an abscessed nose prevented the arrest of the evangelist yesterday on charges of criminal conspiracy and preparing false evidence.

Shortly after her arrest Mrs. Kennedy was arraigned and was allowed liberty after posting a bond of $2,500. Her preliminary hearing was set for September 27.

"Begoggled Woman"

Mrs. McPherson, according to the complaint upon which the warrant for her arrest was based, was the "begoggled woman" who spent nine days in the Carmel cottage, which presumably had been rented by Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple.

The complaint states that Mrs. McPherson, "from the 19th day of May until the 29th of May, 1926, resided and remained concealed at Carmel, from which place she departed with Ormiston, with the full knowledge and consent of Mrs. Kennedy."

The complaint also declares that Mrs. McPherson, her mother and five others, including Ormiston, are charged with violation of section 134 of the penal code, preparing false evidence.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN FROM SHANNON GARAGE

Clyde Shannon, 222 East Wallace avenue, reported to the police this morning that his 1925 model seven passenger Buick had been stolen from his garage sometime after 10 o'clock last night. It bore Pennsylvania license 50-474 when taken.

Arthur Mometer

First down and ten to go with ninety yards to the goal, and eleven men with but one idea, working with might and soul, first down with their goal at stake, and ahead an open field, will the backfield fail in its effort to gain, will the other eleven yield? A forward pass or a wide end run or a crash through the hole at guard, and on they go towards the other goal, fighting for every yard. Now this is football, but often it seems that life is much the same, its a battle to win every yard you get, a fighting, entrancing game. You'll have first downs and you'll muff the ball, and the field will be wet or dry, but it doesn't matter whatever the score, if you'll never forget to try. For trying wins in the game of life, or in crashing a football line, it's the heart that counts, not the score you make, the weather is seventy-nine.

Strong Address By Miss Walker

President Of Lawrence County W. C. T. U. Discusses Conditions

In a forceful and interesting address made by Miss Margaret S. Walker, president of Lawrence County Women's Christian Temperance Union at the 42nd annual convention of the County W. C. T. U. in the Central Presbyterian church of this city, Friday, she concluded her talk with the following:

President Coolidge says, "The law represents the voice of the people. Beyond it, and supporting it, is divine sanction. Enforcement of law and obedience to law by the very nature of our institutions are not matters of choice in the republic, but the expression of a moral argument of and in accordance with the truth. William Penn, founder of our Commonwealth said; Governments like clocks go from the motion men give them; and as governments are made and moved by men, so by them they are ruined too. Therefore governments rather depend on men than men upon governments.

"Do we not rest in assurance upon our government and especially upon our constitution? When worried do we see the lawlessness—when our sence of justice is outraged as it has been in our own County many times in the last few years—we still depend upon our democratic form of government and our constitution and think some way somehow we are going to escape God's judgements.

Hon. James H. Beck, former solicitor General of the United States in a recent address said; We are living in very critical days. Society is confronted with the grave question whether the increase in the potential of mechanical power has been accompanied by a corresponding increase in the potential of Spiritual power. Can an age which is oblivious of yesterday and indifferent tomorrow—which builds more garages than schoolhouses—more moving picture houses than churches escape the indictment which the sacred chronicler preferred against the cultured Athens of 200 years ago?

"An eminent Hindoo scholar after visiting our country said; 'This vaunted civilization has raised selfishness to a religious creed-mammon to the throne of God, adulteration to a science, falsehood to a fine art. It has sapped the foundation of home life—its vulgar haste and love of sensation are invading even the realm of religion. Its boasted scientific inventions have done more harm than good to humanity's best and permanent interests. They have only the surface of life which its votaries love and know'.

"It is a dark picture when we see how eminent thinkers regard us. There is only one hope for us as a nation. If my people which is are called by name, shall humble them selves and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land''

Town Talk

Styles change, especially among the ladies, and sometimes you see the old styles on display either from preference or from a desire to create something new from the old. On East street there was seen a woman pass along with a watch and chain pinned on the waist of her dress, just like they did it a few years ago. Maybe the wrist watch is going out of style.

T. W. Eckert, of 926 Morton St., brought to the News office on Friday afternoon, two large tomatoes that weighed abut one pound and three-quarters apiece or a little over three pounds combined.

The tomatoes were of the lucious red variety and Mr. Eckert says that they contain very few seeds, being of the almost seedless variety. The owner didn't remember the name of the tomatoes, but he did remember that when he purchased the plants they were little bits of things and looked ready to pass out any minute but they survived to grow record tomatoes.

Something in the way of a sunflower of unusual size is to be found, at the place of Sincie E. Lotterberry at 1121½ Moravia street a communication to the News this morning states. The flower is eight feet, seven inches high and five inches around the stalk. There are twenty two flowers and buds on it.

CARNEGIE SAFETY MEN HAVE GREAT TIME AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

they're just rough. Rough from the first tee to the last hole, and what a rough. Grass as long as a day in jail and as tough as a summer hotel proprietor. Only iron clubs are used to play the course, but to the irons should be added a pick and shovel. The course is 3,295 feet long, not yards m'friend, feet, and every shot calls for a short swing and a prayer.

Any time you hear a golfer mention a sporty course, refer him to the Carnegie course at the Boy Scout camp at Kennedy's Mills and the argument is closed.

Oh Yes, the Tournament.

By this time you may have gathered the impression that there was a tournament out there Friday. There was, a bang-up tournament with 48 golfers battling old Colonel Bogey. The general safety committee winner was W. H. Tipton of the Mingo-Bellaire works, who turned in a snappy gross 73, with a handicap of 7, making his net score 66. He also had the low gross of the day and won the prize for that. He gets his name inscribed on the Carnegie safety cup, along with John A. Oartel, who won that honor last year. For a year Mr. Tipton has the cup to use as he pleases, although these days there's nothing to put in a loving cup.

A. R. Mathieson of the Ohio works, Youngstown, won the runner-up prize, his gross being 76, handicap 7, net 69. Bart Richards won the guest's prize, his gross being 80, handicap 18, net 62. Russ Melvin was really the medalist of the day, however, with a gross 88, handicap 30, net 58.

Not all of the players stayed in two figures. Some of them turned in scores that resembled their telephone numbers, or their weight. Not that this is an attempt at belittlin', but a cool 170 or thereabouts isn't what one would call championship golf.

They All Had a Good Time.

But good or bad as the score might be, every player had a real time, and their scores seemed to make no difference to the appetites they had for the chicken dinner served at 6 o'clock. Those chickens must have been perfect little ladies and gentlemen for they were as tender as a sunburned back. Just fell right off the bones and needed but little mastication. With the chicken were such knick knacks as yellow bantam corn, snowy mashed potatoes, pickles, olives, ad infinitum, and then, oh blissful memory, lemon pie that reached clear around to your ears when you ran a lip over it.

The members of the general safety committee arrived in New Castle Friday morning and with the members of the local safety committee attended the fall show of the New Castle Garden club in the Carnegie auditorium. Then to the scout camp where a buffet lunch was served at noon. One of these old time lunches, with yellow cheese, bologna, pickles and—delicious cider.

Some Speeches.

Nobody wanted any set speeches but there were a few extemporaneous addresses when J. Clarence Miller presented the golf prizes. George A. Rigby, general chairman of the day spoke, as did John C. Taggart, assistant general chairman; J. Clarence Miller and Dr. H. E. Zerner, who were responsible for the arrangements; John A. Oartel, chairman of the general safety committee, and A. W. Chilton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the general safety council present were John A. Oartel of the central office, Pittsburgh, general chairman; M. Lenhart, Duquesne works; J. W. Benner, Homestead; J. R. McVey, Clairton; J. K. De Weese, Clairton; R. H. Hunter, Edgar Thomson works, Braddock; W. H. Tipton, Mingo-Bellaire works; M. L. Champion, Clairton; Harry Shields, Homestead; Phil Fenton, Duquesne; A. R. Mathewton, Ohio works; A. C. Cook, Ohio works; H. L. Wyman, central office; E. H. Graham, Youngstown; Joseph Rigby, Farrell; William Milroy, Union Railroad; L. J. O'Neil, central office; M. French, central office; W. W. Hill, Duquesne; Walter Greenwood, Homestead; James Hughes, Duquesne.

The following members of the Carnegie safety committee of the New Castle works were present: George A. Rigby, general superintendent; John C. Taggart, assistant general superintendent; J. TO MAKE EFFORT FOR FOREIGN JURY IN HALL-MILLS CASE luxurious mansion in New Brunswick. Her brothers and cousin, remanded to jail after the four defendants pleaded not guilty to the murder indictments before Supreme Court Justice Parker, placed their hope of liberty in a speedy trial and a favorable verdict.

Mrs. Hall gazed unflinchingly at Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman", the state's star witness, when she entered the courtroom. Mrs. Gibson returned the stare. The white-haired widow was nervous as she took her seat with her kinsmen.

As she arose to answer to the indictments, however, she answered in an even, low voice:

"Not guilty!"

Henry Stevens was calm during the hearing, but Willie and Carpender appeared nervous.

Faith in Innocence.

Mrs. Paul E. Bonner, a sister of the murdered minister, was the first to congratulate Mrs. Hall when Justice Parker permitted the rector's widow to remain at liberty in $40,000. She rushed up to Mrs. Hall and kissed her.

"The indictment of Mrs. Hall has not shaken our faith in her innocence," said Mrs. Bonner. "My sister and I always have had complete and full confidence in her innocence."

Special Prosecutor Simpson, agreement to permit Mrs. Hall to remain on bail, told the court that information held by the prosecution, not presented to the grand jury, placed the widow in a different light than her brothers and cousin.

Mrs. Hall ate supper with her kinsmen in the jail.

Association To Gather At S. R. Huey Orchard For Regular Session

Members of the Lawrence County Fruit Growers' association will hold their regular weekly meeting next Wednesday at the orchard of S. R. Huey on the New Wilmington road just north of New Castle.

Following an inspection of Mr. Huey's orchard the association will hold its regular business meeting which was postponed this week due to inclement weather.

Lanigan And Covert Visit Old Home Town

Ralph Lanigan and Frank Covert, New Castle men, who are known the length and breadth of the United States in theatrical circles as the dancing team of "Lanigan and Covert" are in New Castle this week looking up old friends and visiting with their many acquaintances of a quarter of a century ago before they took the road to seek fame on the glamorous side of the footlights.

Lanigan was introduced to a News reporter by City Detective John Moore. Moore and Lanigan were buddies twenty years ago in the tin mill and swam together as kids in the old "Blackie". Covert, too, worked in the mills as a youngster. The pair got their start on the stage by appearing in local amateur theatricals. Twenty-two years ago they formed the partnership which they still maintain and it has remained intact for over a score of years, a thing considered quite unusual in vaudeville circles.

They have played in vaudeville houses all over the United States and are now considered a standard sketch on the "Number Two spots" of the big time theatre bills.

"The old town looks the same in a lot of ways but there have been a lot of improvements since the last time I was home a couple of years ago", Lanigan told the reporter. He went on to say that the change which impressed him most was the altered appearance of the old "Opera House", now the Capitol Theatre. He remembers it as the place where all the traveling shows appeared and were the lure of the stage was first imbued in him and Covert by watching the agile footed steppers of such sterling attractions as "Haverly's Minstrels" hammer the boards with the old time breaks of the buck and wing. It was hard to copy the steps from their distant roosts in the gallery but practice made perfect and soon they too were able to swing their feet to the regular "um ta-ta ta" of the sand box.

After spending a few days in New Castle Lanigan and Covert will proceed to New York where they are booked to open the coming season.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN HELD FOR COURT TRIAL FOR DEATH OF FARMER

When they arrived at the point where the car was, his father had asked those in the car if they knew they were on private property. They said they were not and were on the road to Lakewood. His father told them the correct way, then flashed the light in the car. This seemed to make those in the car angry. He thought the glass of the car was broken as the driver got out, he said.

Driver Knocks Him Down

The driver had then gotten out, came back and knocked him down on the bank at the side of the lane and then went on and "boxed with" his father, striking him. The car then went down the lane a considerable distance and turned, while they followed their father toward the head of the lane. As the car passed, the point at the head of the lane, someone in the car remarked as they saw Mr. Richeal lying on the ground, his head in the arms of his son David "Ha, the old man" and something else that he did not hear distinctly, the boy testified. He had then gone to the Carrick home for help while David stayed with his father. The neighbors came, it was determined that his father was dead and his body was carried into the home and placed on a lounge. One of the men went into town to the Sheriff's office and the doctor called.

Johnson, the driver, he said struck him and then attacked his father. He had something in his hand about six or eight inches long. He heard some one say "Ouch" as Johnson struck at his father. He thought it was his father's voice. While the car went down the lane and turned, his father walked toward the head of the lane, possibly more than a hundred feet before he staggered backward and was caught by David. He did not speak to the boys after the argument with Johnson. Johnson, the driver, did the talking, he said, the other man and woman not saying anything. (At this point, he pointed out Johnson as the man, he referred to as the driver.) He said he had seen him with a sweater on the night of the argument.

Cross Examination

Attorney Clyde Gibson then went into cross-examination of the witness. Under his questioning, William Richeal told of the location of the lane and his home with reference to the East Brook road and of a telephone pole some two hundred feet down the lane from the East Brook Station road. The car, he said had been just below this pole. He said the car was a Chevrolet coupe and that they had seen the lights and went down for that reason.

He had seen Johnson come out of the Carrick cornfield at the left of the road as you go into the Carrick home but that as far as he could see, he was carrying nothing. His father had the flashlight. He had the pencil and paper for taking the license number. His father was talking to the occupants of the car from the right hand side. Blackford was on the right hand side. The glass in the door of the car was down at the time.

He was not sure that the engine had been started and then shut off before Johnson got out. Johnson got out, he said before the glass was broken. His father was standing at the right side of the car, he was a little to the rear of the car and his brother David on the other side of the father from William. He at first said his father was not very angry, but finally did say that his father was sort of excited and angry and might have spoken a little roughly.

Some one in the car, he said, on questioning that his father ought not to talk that way in front of a lady and that his father had remarked the woman in the car was no lady.

He said that the people in the car insisted that it was the way to Lakewood and that he had said it was not the way to Lakewood. He then repeated his remarks relative to his father walking to the head of the lane and the incidents that followed. He also stated on cross-examination that when he first saw Johnson in the County jail, he was not positive that he was the driver of the car, but was sure after he put on his hat and coat.

He also admitted that when the sheriff came out the first time, that he had said that he saw no one hit his father or was not sure that he had but on the second visit of the sheriff had told of Johnson striking his father and having some object in his hand. He also stated that Johnson hit him with his bare fists, although he saw the object in his right hand. He had seen his father hit as he fell. He said he had heard no one say, "get a rock".

His father was still carrying the flashlight lighted as he walked to the head of the lane after the assault, he also stated.

Tell of Postmortem

Dr. L. W. Wilson told of assisting Dr. William Cleland in making a post mortem examination of Mr. Richeal at 7:30 o'clock the following morning at the Campbell morgue. They found a wound about an inch and a half above the right eye, also five smaller spots at the side of the eye. The scalp was crushed both inside and out. Death was due, he said, to a hemorrhage of the brain resulting from a severe blow. The membrane inside the skull and the right side of the brain was full of blood. The heart and other parts of the body were normal.

Dr. William Cleland testified as to being called to the Richeal home, where he had seen the dead body of Joseph Richeal. His examination had been such as to determine an injury above the right eye also the presence of what appeared to be dirt at the side of the eye. His testimony was similar to that of Dr. Wilson concerning the post mortem.

David Richeal, older son of the deceased was then called and told of the incidents concerning the discovery of the car in the lane and of going out to the car. He was sure Johnson was the driver of the car and assailant of his father but was not so sure that he could identify Blackford and the woman. He thought the window of the car was broken by the flashlight. Just how, he was not sure. He was not sure that Johnson had anything in his hand when he attacked his father.

The fight between his father and Johnson lasted but a short time. The car was not started up before Johnson got out. Some fellow in the car had said something as it passed out the lane past his father's prostrate body.

On cross-examination by Attorney Gibson David said that he assumed that the flashlight in his father's hand had broken the glass in the automobile. Johnson apparently had nothing in his hands when he struck his father. His father had almost gone down when struck, but remained on his feet. (At this point Attorney Chambers objected to the severe method of questioning of the witness.) His father had never spoken after being struck and while he was walking up the lane with the lighted flashlight. His father was angry while talking at the car, but apparently not so when he walked up the lane. He was staggering some as he walked up the lane and this became more pronounced just before he fell, he stated.

William Carrick, joint owner of the lane where Mr. Richeal met his death, testified as to being called by telephone by his wife while at Lockhart's place and told of what happened to Mr. Richeal and going to the lane with Kenneth and Guy Lockhart and Mr. Bartsch in his truck. He explained the location of the body and David holding his father's head. Also of William Richeal stopping him as he turned turned into the lane. One look had been sufficient to satisfy him that Mr. Richeal was dead. He said he saw a black mark on the head of Mr. Richeal. He, Kenneth Lockhart and David Richeal had carried Mr. Richeal's body into the Richeal home.

Kenneth Lockhart told of going to the place where Mr. Richeal dropped back into the arms of his son, David. He had noticed the bruise above the eye. It was larger and darker than the others. David was holding his father in a sitting position on the ground. He helped carry him to the house. He felt for heart beats there and knew he was dead.

G. L. Lockhart testified of going with his son, Carrick, and Mr. Bartsch to the lane and exclaiming, "He's dead" as he saw Richeal on the ground at the head of the lane. He also told of going into New Castle and reporting the case. He also testified as to the mark on the head of the dead man.

Sheriff H. M. Reynolds testified to arresting Johnson and Blackford in the Johnson car on East Washington street in front of the Sotus store about 10:30 p. m., Daylight Saving time, and Mrs. Clements about 12 o'clock on Hamilton street while in company with another woman, whom he learned later was a sister, and coming in the direction of Long avenue on which she resided. He had questioned them after the arrest. The men at first did not tell of any trouble in the Richeal-Carrick lane, but later told of having trouble with a man they didn't know and two young men in a lane leading from the East Brook Station road. Mrs. Clements had told of being there as soon as questioned.

The members of the coroner's jury were John Snyder, G. N. Clark, J. Dick Long, Reed English, C. C. Fulkerson and Frank Amberson.

FLOWER SHOW IS CONCLUDED

Exhibition Is Most Successful—Attendance Shows Increase

Once again the New Castle Garden Club has demonstrated its ability to put over a splendid piece of work in a highly efficient manner. The Fall Show which closed Friday evening in the Carnegie Auditorium marked the close of a most successful show, and President Mrs. S. D. Pearson and her associates are to be congratulated upon it.

In point of number of exhibits and admissions the Fall Show exceeded any previous attempt. While the attendance was not as large as it might have been, it showed a healthy increase over the Spring show and each succeeding show has seen an increased attendance.

From now until next Spring the Garden Club members will be pointing towards the next exhibit, and with the experience of six shows behind them, should have an even better display.

Police Officers Deliver Flowers

Take Flowers From Local Show To Public Institutions Of City

The police department was advised last evening by Mrs. DeGraff Pearson, chairlady of the flower committee of the Garden club, holding the annual flower show in the Carnegie auditorium during the past two days, that they had many bouquets, which they would like distributed to the hospitals and other public institutions of the city. Officers Lockard and James took the patrol wagon and delivered the flowers to the New Castle hospital, Shenango Valley hospital, Almira Home and Margaret Henry Home.

GUS SUN FRANCHISE SECURED BY CAPITOL

After several weeks of work on the programs to be offered Charles Kranz, general manager of the Capitol Theatre announces today that he has secured a Gus Sun franchise for his house, which means that beginning Monday, all vaudeville acts played in the Capitol will be booked through the Gus Sun offices in New York.

The announcement means much to the theatre going public. It means a continuation of vaudeville acts that are tested and tried before they take the road, the same acts that play Youngstown being listed for New Castle.

Since he took over the management of the Capitol, Mr. Kranz has refrained from signing a contract with any booking agency, preferring to book independent acts until he could be sure of making connections with an established booking agency.

The Gus Sun acts open in the Capitol Monday, and the first offering will be Gypsy Coreen, a singing comedienne, Harry Berry and Miss, a comedy duo and the Caledonian Four, a Scotch quartette. The picture will be Diplomacy, featuring such stars as Blanche Sweet, Arlette Marchal, Earle Williams, Matt Moore and Gustav von Seyfferitz. A comedy, Pathe News, the Capitol Orchestra and the Capitol Organ complete the bill.

In securing Gus Sun booking for the Capitol, Mr. Kranz feels that he has done much towards insuring for the theatre fans of New Castle, vaudeville they will appreciate.

RIGHTS OF CHILDREN

THE rights of children.

How strangely those words would have sounded a century ago. In that day a parent, under the law, had a right to the child and to the services and earnings of the child, but little was said about the rights of the child and less still was said about the enforcing of such rights as might have existed in the unwritten code of the times.

One of the most encouraging signs of the present age is society's increasing interest in the child, the protections thrown up about the child and the definition of the rights of children. The change in public attitude toward the child followed the shift from hand manufacture to machine manufacture. The day is past when children could be worked from twelve to fourteen hours a day under deplorable conditions and at poor wages.

Certain rights of the child are today recognized as inalienable.

The extra-legal rights are the right to be well born, the right to a good environment and the right to parental comradeship.

Then there is the legal rights to an education, to play and to be protected from exploitation.

Many children find the proper environment in their own homes but others must look for it in the schools, the public playgrounds, the Sunday schools and such organizations as the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Society, through governmental and other agencies, is more and more making up for the benefit of the child home deficiencies where they exist.

RISING TIDE OF NEW BOOKS

SIR GILBERT PARKER, himself an author, ventures the opinion that there are too many books. Most persons, particularly reviewers, will be disposed to agree with him. Yet the flood shows no signs of abating. The list of new novels alone is formidable beyond precedent. Nor do the assurances of the publishers that they are "important" or "significant" or "distinguished" always convince readers that they must not be missed.

The novelists are not the only offenders. Biographies of dull and commonplace persons flourish. Histories deal over and over again with familiar themes. It would be no great exaggeration to say that ninety per cent of them could be spared. There must be a public for them; but it is gained at the expense of our older and finer literature. What can be done about it? Probably nothing.

PRESIDENT SEEING HIS OWN COUNTRY

PRESIDENT COOLIGE is about to leave his summer retreat in the Adirondacks to resume his work in Washington.

As a matter of fact his official duties have never ceased while he was away, but he has been given the opportunity for fresh air and relaxation and for the seclusion to which even the head of the government is entitled at intervals.

It is encouraging to learn that he has been benefitted physically by his summer outing and that his health is better now than it has been for a long time. This is most gratifying because he has a man-sized job in the presidency and one that has taxed the strength of his predecessors.

Naturally the people of that part of New York state have urged him to return there next year, but Mr. Coolidge, while expressing genuine satisfaction with his stay, has made it known that if he is spared for another year it is his purpose to visit another section of the United States. Some of his friends go so far as to say that he will select the West for his next vacation and that he may go into the back hills of Dakota. He has become somewhat of a fisherman and it is possible that he may visit Yellowstone Park, "where trout fishing is the best in the country outside of private preserves." The reception that was accorded him on the occasion of his trip to Minneapolis probably has a great deal to do with his desire to view other portions of the great West.

From this is may be inferred that the president has been filled with a wish to "see America first." He is familiar with the New England states. His trips to his old home in Vermont and his stay at Swampscott last year gave the East its full share of the presidential presence. His rest in the mountains of New York afforded him a view of one of the most beautiful spots in any of the Middle States. So it is natural that he should look for an opportunity to view some of the sights in the West.

We have one tomato vine in our garden that lacks just about a foot of being to the top of a ten foot pole. Many told us the poles were too high and even tried to get the zoning board to interfere with our poles. If the frost keeps away it will be to the top.

About the only thing some New Castle men know about a woman's waist line is that it is the place where an arm goes around.

The hobo asked the hard-faced woman for a bite to eat. "Yes," she replied, "I'll fix you some supper if you will saw and split some wood, sweep off the walk, fix that hole in the fence, tidy up the barnyard and burn that rubbish pile against the cellar door." "Lady," said the hobo as he started away, "I'm only a hobo. I ain't your husband.

We were much surprised to read a few days ago that the corset business has fallen off very little during the past few years, in spite of the fact that corsets have been falling off or been taken off apparently. Now the question is who is wearing and where do all the corsets go to. It must be in some other country than this, but still we cannot speak with any authority.

Now we are told that King George still creases his pants on the side instead of in front and that the Prince of Wales is still carelessly well dressed. We are glad it is no worse than that.

Only a small per centage of the voters in Sharon have registered so far this year. They surely know, as they should here, that after the coming election in November they will have no chance to swipe any one of the nominees.

While it may cost double the tax to live in New York that it does in New Castle, those New Yorkers evidently think it is worth it as their city is getting bigger and bigger all the time. We like to go there ourselves as often as possible and to stay as long as our coin lasts, but New Castle is the real place after all.

A new place is now on hand for people to jump off of. The first man has just jumped off the new bridge between Philadelphia and Camden, N. J. We noticed when going over it several times recently that it is a peach of a place to leap from and there is little chance of remembering the high hotel rates after the jump.

As Maine goes so goes the country. Well the old barometer state reads Republican this year so wet or dry tariff or no tariff the congress will likely be Republican of some brand or another.

At Marion, Indiana, the police officers have ruled that men and women cannot wash their false teeth in the city fountains. Now isn't that too bad. If those people who have the removable molars want to wash them in public why not let them. We see knees in public we see backs in public we see arms in public, we see petting in public but the law decrees against seeing teeth in public.

Out in the western states where wood is burned for fuel it has been discovered that old auto tire casing make as good fuel as wood. A quarter section of tire will burn as long as a length of wood. Now of course the tire burning is a little smelly, but that doesn't affect anyone in the west. They send the smell up the chimney and the man in the moon is the one who gets the full benefit of it. If coal gets too high here we might try burning rubber tires.

Airplanists are being fined now for violating the traffic laws. For instance a man who owns a plane was fined $7.71 for taking up one passenger too many from whom he collected $25 for the trip. At this rate of fining the airmen is likely to get rich paying his fines.

A few years ago they burned corn out in the west, but since there has been found some new uses for corn they are burning auto tires. Perhaps it is better to burn them up than to burn up the roads with them.

THE SPORTSMAN

Said a five-inch trout as he scampered back,
"Not all of the human race is black.

"I've just met a sportsman in a boat
A fearful man in a leather coat.

"I fought for my life, but his line was strong
And I couldn't get loose from the hook's sharp prong.

"And I shivered with fright as I saw him grin
With terrible glee as he drew me in.

"Then the hook came out and his line grew slack,
And he patted my sides, and he threw me back.

"Then I heard him say as I dove down deep,
'Good luck to you, lad, you're too small to keep.'

"Yes," said the wise fish, "now and then
The human family does breed men."

Killing lions is useful, but Mr. Eastman has work on hand ten millions of times more useful, namely, the development of education through moving pictures. Devoting time and intelligence to that work, he will render service to all living children and to billions unborn.

The European steel trust is now in shape, and old-fashioned trusts look small compared with the modern industrial-financial dinsaur of Europe. The steel industries of Germany, France, Luxemburg and Belgium are all in one company, organized to fight the rest of the world.

Luckily, we have a tariff, useful in fighting. But we need the biggest possible business units to compete with modern methods.

This is the one hundred and thirty-ninth birthday of the United States constitution. It has worn well. The fathers that built it with long struggling, seeking to protect the rights of separate states, would be surprised if they could read the new and fancy frills attached to their document.

What would surprise them most, not one of them so far as known being a total abstainer, would be the Eighteenth amendment with its bootleg and crime by-products.

Those ancients, having got rid of a king, determined that no kingly power should ever arise in America.

It never occured to them that power must be somewhere. They could not foresee that taxation without representation far greater than that of King George would soon be located in Wall Street, and elsewhere in the offices of great corporations.

The combined ages of Rachel Beil Kriegel, Chaim Rothstein and Chaye Sentz are 299 years. These old people— Chaim Rothstein is 105 years old—live in the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, and observe a rigid fast, beginning today, which is Yom Kippur. They could be excused because of their ages, but refuse to be excused.

Dr. Frankel of the Metropolitan Life Co., says the present restriction of immigration will soon end poverty among Jewish people in the United States. And in 10 or 20 years "there will be no need for relief."

Regardless of immigration what will be the Jewish population of the United States 100 years hence? Certainly not fewer than thirty to fifty millions. There are 1,500,000 Jews in New York city alone. They take care of their children and the children live, having a lower death rate than any other race..

Adherence to Moses' laws accounts in part for long life among Jewish people. Moses might have written different dietary laws if his people had had refrigerators run by electricity. But many of those laws are still sound.

You are told it is manly to encourage prize fighting. Boxing is supposed to stimulate courage of the right kind. It didn't stimulate any of the famous American fighters enough to send them into the war, where they could have fought to their hearts' content. When the war was on, most of them retired under the bed or found "soft places" teaching boxing to real fighters.

They found a court in Pennsylvania to order the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial exhibition closed on Sundays. If there is good reason for closing the exposition on Sunday, there is a good reason for closing it every day.

That judge must wonder that the ruler of the Universe should leave Niagara Falls' exhibition open on Sunday and why He doesn't cover the Rocky mountains with a blanket from Saturday to Sunday midnight. Niagara and the Rockies are also instructive expositions.

James A. Reed, who has announced his intention to retire from the United States senate at the expiration of his present term in 1929, has been one of the representatives of Missouri in the upper house since 1911. From the very commencement of his senatorial career Senator Reed attracted attention by the vigor, tenacity and self-reliant character of his conduct, and by his disposition to act independently of caucus or executive influence. Much of his later fame is the result of his bitter satirical attacks on important legislation. Since he took his seat 15 years ago he has fought woman suffrage, prohibition, the maternity bill, the Panama free tolls repeal, the war time food control act, the Three and Four Power treaties, the Federal Reserve Bill, and the League of Nations. Senator Reed is a lawyer by profession and first gained prominence as a "reform mayor" of Kansas City.

SUICIDE

A man involved in the crash of some banks in Georgia some time ago blew out his brains.

Every once in a while you can hear of someone's desperately committing suicide or trying to because he has lost money or is disappointed in love, or for some similar reason.

These people are the worst kind of heretics.

They are the heretics of life.

Pastor Wagner said that the fundamental belief is a belief in life. This underlies all creeds, or ought to.

Nothing is superior in importance to the value of living, unless it is some supreme question of sacrifice or patriotism where it is clearly our duty to give up life rather than honor.

This does not apply, however, to those who are simply disappointed. In contrast to these rashly importunate people are such stories as one which appeared in the press not long ago of a man who had gained his sight at the age of fifty and began at that time slowly to learn to read.

So many a man has lost his fortune and has bravely commenced to make another effort in old age. many an invalid takes up the burden of life cheerfully and makes what he can out of the fragments remaining.

The man who kills himself because he has lost his money simply values station in life more than life itself, as Ruskin says.

Nothing that is an appurtenance to life can equal in importance the value of life itself. No one knows what the future may bring forth, and no matter how dark the prospects it is the business of a brave man to wait and see what is in store for him.

The effect of failure often is bitterness and a feeling of panic. If we weather the first effects things may take a turn. It is not well for us to pin our whole hopes upon wealth or position, or any such thing. Life has many compensations and the satisfactions of life do not always come in the way we expect them. Some compensation, however, is reasonably sure if we take our stand upon the great integrities.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHERE RAILWAY INCOME GOES.

There has always been, since the first railroad was built and the first dollar of Government assistance given to the builders of the railroads, an idea that the railroad owners and the officials of the railroads have received much more than their due. These misguided citizens are always to be found urging on the employees of railroads to fight for higher pay. They are likewise always to be found bitterly accusing the railroads of taking higher tariffs for passengers and freight than they should and they are always to be found argueing that the Government of the United States should operate all railroads.

It is true that in the beginning, and during the early years of the railroads, they were used as catspaws by scheming and dishonest financial geniuses, for the purpose of enriching themselves by means of the juggling of railroad securities. Railroads have been wrecked to make a fortune for men who never invested a dollar in railroad stocks, for the purpose of receiving an honest dividend. The builders, operators and real owners of the railroads of this nation have always striven to build and operate better railroads, serve the public better each year and earn for themselves and stockholders an honest return upon the actual capital invested. The railroads have been, in fact, the greatest contributors to the nations wealth and strength.

It would be interesting therefore, to know where the money goes that the railroads receive. These facts have been carefully investigated and tabulated and they are as follows:

All the cash from all sources taken in during a year by all the railroads is about six billion dollars.

According to the Bureau of Railway Economics, the total railway income for 1924—the last year for which exact figures are available—was $5,921,490,100.

That's a daily income of $16,223,260.55.

There are 365 days in the ordinary year and upon that basis the income of the railroads may be apportioned, day by day, in the following manner:

Wages absorb the entire income from January 1 to June 6—157 days.

Fuel requirements take the income from June 7 to July 3—27 days.

The next 70 days' cash—from July 4 to September 11—goes for materials and supplies.

Other expenses of operation absorb the intake from September 12 to October 5—24 days.

Tax collectors preempt the income from October 6 to 26—21 days.

Bond and other security holders get the earnings of the next 41 days—October 27 to December 6—as interest on their investments.

The income of the next 19 days, from December 7 to Christmas, goes to the owners, the stockholders, as dividends—two days' earnings less than the tax collector demands.

That leaves six days' income as the sole portion of the year's intake available to retire losses of previous years, or to create a reserve fund against lean periods in future or to pay for improvements out of current earnings rather than by sale of interest-bearing bonds or securities.

When the reader is inclined to believe that the railways' employees wages should be raised and when the reader thinks that the railroads should be taxed more, and when the same reader is certain that the freight rates should be reduced, it would be wise for him to think and ponder upon the figures as above set forth.

POEMS HOME — BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"The Quiet Life," by Alexander Pope.

The didactic poetry of Pope may seem old-fashioned to us now; but he has a value none the less. Who was it that said that life is nothing but discovering the truth of platitudes? And though Pope's homely rhymed sayings may seem stale now, they were fragrantly young once upon a time, and cannot be dismissed as the mere energetic chatter of a versifying schoolmaster.

Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air
In his own ground.

Whose herds with milk, whose fields with bread,
Whose flocks supply him with attire;
Whose trees in summer yield him shade,
In winter fire.

Blest, who can unconcern'dly find
Hours, days and years slide soft away
In health of body, peace of mind,
Quiet by day.

Sound sleep by night; study and ease
Together mix'd; sweet recreation
And innocence, which most does please
With meditation.

Thus let me live, unseen, unknown;
Thus unlamented let me die;
Steal from the world, and not a stone
Tell where I lie.

Travelin' Pair Amazed On Visit To Garden Club Flower Show

(By Kate Moorhead)

"Hepsibah," I sed as we wuz walkin' down South Jefferson street to the Flower Show yesterday, "why do you allus consist on havin to lug that cotton umbrel everyplace you go? Peeple will think you aint got a pretty red silk one if you don't carry it none." But she jest tossed her hed up in the air. "Youre so well bred aint you?" I sed to her, and she retorted jest as quick, "Mebby its cause I knead the dough." Well some more wize crackin like that, and I knode that wed both be too pent up to even go to that show.

Where do you spose that autotorium is, I sed, kinda peacifyin like, and she pinted out that it wuz jest over the bridge. When we come to that big building and seed the sign "Flower Show," I asked the man dressed up like a butler in the movies, who stood at the gate if that wuz the show out there on the lawn? But he kinda laffed when I pointed to that grand flower bed what tells that is where the Carnegies live. He sed, "No the show wuz inside the building."

Well Hepsy asked him did he have eny grand children, and he sed he had three kids and they was grand, every one of them, so my old maid frend reached in her little black bag and give him three bright pennies for them, like she allus does when she pleezed.

We wuz standin in the hall way wundering where the show wuz at, when a kind lady who wuz drest with a purty dark blue crape trimmed with checkered silk, moshioned us, would we be likin to enter? Hepsy got out her black bag, and I noticed she still had enough pennies to make up the change, so I let her pay my way in too. Hepsy left her umbrel in the reception room.

Now wunce you got inside that show, you felt like mebby you made a mistake and got into fareyland instead of jest a autotorium. Right in front of you all burgling and cool like the poetry books say, ther was a founting, with water bubbling all around in a nest of ferns.

That sight wuz so purty, I didn't see Hepsy who went over and wuz talkin to a woman all drest in white. She interdooced me to Mrs. Greer, who showed us about some. Right in the center of the room there was a house and lot, what put me and Hepsy in mind of them subtractions what we scene in Floridy last winter. And jest as Hepsy sed, they didn't even forget the gateways.

Here was a picket fence and white trellis gateway, what was part covered with ivy. I wuz jest about to feel of it to see if it wuz reel, but Hepsy sed, "Don't you dast, You know youre predicate to ivy poisonin." Mrs. Greer sed that Mr. Lasch what duz the gardenin at Carnegie, planned that house and lot. The house wuz all lit up with lectricity and so wuz the garage, even if it wuz in brod daylight, and I thot Hepsy wuz goin to have a conniption right there, because they wuz so estravagunt leavin on the electric lights. Now I liked the petunia bed and crooked walks made of little good luck stones, that Mr. Lasch had used in this settin, but Hepsy she wuz all took up with the trees growing in the yard, and the purty ferns.

Mr. Warnock the caretaker, wuz jest grand at helpin bring in all them flowers. He musta had some hard work bringin in some of them big flower crocks n things, there wuz so menny. I wuz struck with the garden spot what wuz arranged by the New Bedford Garden Club. There wuz the cunningest lily pond with moss and ferns growin round it. I tole Hepsy to pleeze find me a cheer and Id sit down and rest a spell, but she didn't seem reel ankshus, sed she'd be sittin pretty if she could find a cheer.

Jest then Mrs. Good come over and asked me had I scene the grand collection of flowers what had been razed right in this part of the country. Oh I've scene lots of flowers in greenhouses I sed to her, but I did get sprized a lot when she sed these here flowers wuz all raised right out in peeples back yard, and it made me ankshus to see them.

Hepsy come over and I interdooced her to Mrs. Good, who seemed right cheerful and aimin to make canservation, I asked her, "wuz she on the committee?" She showed us around and let us look at the flowers on the different tables, where there wuz signs to keep your hand off, jest like that sign "Keep your hands and heads inside the car."

"Ooh looky at the straw flowers what Mrs. Albert Ellis razed," Hepsy sed. It made me think of them straw flowers we scene at Violet Dell in Orlando, Floridy, and I sed so. Mrs. I. L. Norris comin up jest then, sed, she wuz goin to Orlando next winter, and did we know, whether they held a show of flowers there in the winter? We told her, we went a purpose to see the show last winter in February.

But I never did see sech grand Zenias as I did yesterday. Now my ant Mehitable had a powerful grand Zenia bed in her day, but hern werent nuthin like these what were put on the table by Mrs. E. W. Greiner, June Carroll, Mrs. Norman Martin and the basket of Annuals put there by Mrs. S. D. Pearson, wuz real buteful.

Flowers of the Field

"Why do you spose they put weeds on this table, don't you spose they had enuf nice flowers to fill it?" Hepsy wanted to no, as she looked at one of the tables, disdaneful. Mrs. Ernest Greiner wuz standin ther, lookin awful nice in her gray dress with orange trimmins and wearin a hat of orange, but she never even ansered Hepsibah. My old maid frend got kinda high derby at that and pulling her specktackles down to the end of her nose, she looked over them at Mrs. Greiner and sed she had asked a revolutionary question, and wuznt she goin tb get no answer?

At that, the lady explained these wasnt weeds but they were known as wild flowers. Then very carefully she give us a chanct to see each kind the list including fake spinknard, smart weed, golden rod, wood aster, wild carrot, bittersweet, iron weed, boneset, pearly everlasting, jack in the pulpit fruit, seed thistle and others. She sed the first prize wuz give to a girl scout by the name of Katherine Hicks for the jack in the pulpit fruit, what looked jest like big bunches of currants, but they probly wouldn't make sech good tastin jell.

Hepsy asked Mrs. Greiner who had jedged these flowers and she implied, "Mr. Carmen of Sewickley always judges our flowers and yesterday when we asked him to make a statement concerning the flower show he said that it was 200 per cent better than last September. He said that our dahlias are good as any entered at the Sewickley dahlia show." Now after that speech, me and Hepsey felt real glad to think we could see sech grand flowers, and started in to view them even more careful, sos we wouldn't miss nuthin and could tell the folks at home.

Jest then I scene a lotta men coming in the door, and I sed to Mrs. Good who wuz standin there, "Who's them?" She sed the Carnegie Steel men wuz coming to see the display. Now I know Hepsy's queer ways when there is eny men folks around, so I kep my eagle eye pealed on her. Before I could say or do anything though, I seen her standin there talkin to Mr. Fred Rentz of the New Castle News.

When I come up to say howdy, her and him wuz talkin about flowers in general when Mr. John Taggart and Mr. George Rigby joins in the conservation. "Say Fred," they sez real jovel, "what do you think of this flower over here?" They pointed to a bunch of leaves all colors, and there wuz a lot of men standin around it, wunderin what it wuz. Mr. Butz, who had a lot of pretty dahlias in great big wall vases, wuzn't there to tell them. One man sed he thought mebby it wuz a poinsett like they have in Floridy, but I knowed better. Another man sed if it was a poinsett, it had been college educated. Jest then my old maid frend chimed in and sed, "Now men, it ain't nun of that, it's Joseph's coat of menny colors, don't you remember the coat what his brothers brot back when they sold Joseph to be a slave?" "But what has that got to do with this flower?" one man wanted to know. Gess he wuzn't a church member or he'd know.

Jest then I scene Hepsy reach in her bag and to my modification that old girl brought out a striped bag of peppmint lozenges and passed them around. She don't know sassity when she is steppin with it.

Then of course we mustn't forget about the lunchcon tables and when I caught a glimpse of them in back of the room, I pulled Hepsy away from that crowd of men, who seemed to ferget they wuzn't little boys with a special likin for striped bags of candy. But do you know, she didn't see them tables at first at all, she looked on the wall and scene the posters made by the students of the New Castle schools. There wuz one what caught her eye, "Hurry makes Worry," it sed. Now Hepsy sez to me, "no wonder you got so menny frown rinkles in your face."

But them tables set for "Teafor fore" wuz that pritty, I don't know how the judges come to the deciden that Mrs. Norman Martin and Mrs. E. W. Greiner should get the prizes. Now I wuz right well taken up with the table all set with green crystal glass ware and with a bowl of lavendar flowers offen a butterfly bush, maiden hair fern and white verbena makin the centerpiece and sided by two green crystal candlesticks holdin two tall slim candles. "My, wouldn't roast chicken taste good served up on that table?" Hepsy said, her mouth fairly waterin. But I carefully spialned that it would have to be cock tails and bullyon and sech dantees, for sech a grand display of glass dishes and Mydear embroidery. Down the line we scene some old fashioned goblets like we bin usin every day, caus they wuz so outta date. Hepsy sed she scene where we had better put them goblets in the chiny closet for company, if they wuz the stile like they appeared to be.

And now, we had to see the gladiolias. Such colors, every shade pastel and present. Mrs. Norris had some awful purty yellah ones and her father had a grand display at one of the tables. Some of the glads wuz double then there wuz some jest like dainty butterflies and sech shell like colors. Mr. Ben Campbell had an awful pretty one he called Purple Glory. Mrs. J. W. Conway had displayed one called "Orange Glory", and it had crinkles all round the edge.

"Now here is something to my likin," I herd Hepsy exclaim and there she stood all pent up lookin at a wrought iron vase with copper bowl simply overflowin with orange Chinese Lanterns. I could hardly get her away from it to look at the low bowls of sweet peas and roses, and pretty yellow and blue flowers set up by Elizabeth D. Reis. The asters, colendulas, nasturtiums and snap dragons wuz all purty, but nothin like the dahlias.

Now Hepsy and me hope to die, if we didn't see dahlias big as dinner plates, and sum havin as menny as three colors in one flower. Some man wuz admirin one of the flowers what wuz kinda raggy lookin, and I herd a man tell him it cost fifty dollars. Hepsy sez she thot he made a mistake, and ment cents, but he sed no, when he sed dollars, he kep his cents.

There wuz one dahlia what had been burned all brown and I herd a lady say they growed that way. Then there wuz some just round like puff balls, and some big and flat like covers for stovepipe holes in the wall, and some wuz jest dahlias like we got in the back yard, only they had got a special name.

Mrs. A. L. Thayer, Mrs. S. D. Pearson, Mr. Stitzinger and Mrs. Albert Ellis had some grand collections. Mrs. Norman Martin sed she wuz awful glad we wuz so pleezed with the show, and wouldn't we come again next year and bring some frends. We told her to pleese tell the lady on the reception committee what met us at the door we wuz right glad we come. Hepsy went into the reception room room to get her umbrel and we left for home.

It is only natural that father should worry about son. Father was a son himself, once.

Charleston Dance On Highways Is Banned

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA Sept. 18.—The Charleston disturbes the peace. Hence this "hot" dance is banned—on the highways of this city.

Safety Director George W. Elliott today issued orders to policemen to halt Charleston dancing on streets.

Elliott's edict provides for the arrest of offenders on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Those arrested will be fined. The ban follows a complaint to the director by President Judge Raymond Macneille of the municipal court.

The judge claims that little negro boys have been making enormous sums nightly by dancing and shouting "Hey, Hey, Charleston, Charleston."

These youngsters according to Judge Macneille usually attract large crowds which hinder traffic and create disturbances. The central business district therefore suffers. The judge contends in other sections persons have been awakened by the spectators.

Complete Plans For Rally Day At Trinity Church

Sunday, October 3, Will Be Observed As Annual Rally Day By Church School

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the teachers and officers of the Church School of Trinity was held last night in the Guild room. Reports were made by Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad and Miss Virginia Rice on the Summer school they attended at Gambier, Ohio, showing that they had derived much benefit and inspiration, as well as real recreation from their ten days association with others who are trying to learn how to apply the Christian ideal to life.

Sunday October 3rd, was selected as Rally Day, when all attending in the 5th and higher grades will receive the first of the pins in the Christian Crusader system of awards and which will be also the first Sunday to count for other prizes. Details were worked out in the light of former experience, so that every pupil who makes an honest effort to be present on time every Sunday will receive recognition. Miss van Divort and Mrs. F. A. Fowler,, they to select a third member, are the committee in charge.

It was voted to request the Rector to continue the special addresses to children and young people, with their parents, on the third Sunday morning of each month beginning with October 17th.

Committees were appointed and arrangements made as far as possible for the observance of Christmas.

Reports showed that a record attendance may be expected tomorrow.

Young Peoples' Council To Meet Sunday Afternoon

Miss Harriet Truby Will Preside—Address To Be Made By Dr. Holcomb

Young People's Inter-Sunday school Council of New Castle District will meet Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Y. W. C. A. Auditorium.

Miss Harriet Truby will preside and the theme will be, "The Harvest Truly is Plenteous but the Laborers are Few". The devotional hours will be led by Geneva Fleming. Lewis Jenkins will be song leader and Ruth Patton, pianist.

The address of the afternoon will be made by Rev. C. H. Holcomb, pastor of the First Christian church. There will be special musical selections by Joe and Anna Patterson. Marcia Platt will give a talk on, "Getting Down For Business for the King".

The superintendent, T. J. Davies will be in charge of the business meeting. Plans will be made for the mid-year Conference at the Mahoning Methodist church in October and also for the playlet to be given by the Council members in the near future.

Publicity Threat Tends To Lessen Primary Expenses

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The threat of "pitiless publicity" from the Senate slush fund committee helped to keep down campaign expenditures in the senatorial primaries, just closed, it was revealed today by records in the office of the secretary of the Senate.

Whereas $3,000,000 was spent in the Pennsylvania senatorial primary and $1,000,000 in the Illinois race, once the Reed committee organized, the primary expenditures fell away to nothing. In seven reports filed since the Reed committee opened its first hearings, the maximum expenditure was only $4,297.85—reported by Governor J. J. Blaine, who defeated Senator Lenroot in the Wisconsin primary.

The other primary expenditures reported thus far were: $1,880 by Senator Gooding, Republican, of Idaho; $2,573.24 by Senator Oddie, Republican, of Nevada; $2,748.60 by Elmer Thomas, Democratic candidate in Oklahoma; $3,000 by Senator Williams, Republican of Missouri; $660 by Governor L. B. Hanna, defeated by Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, and $1,100 on behalf of Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas.

Couple Married 50 Years Wins Prize At Minstrel

Many of City's Oldest People Enjoy Special Performances of World's Minstrels—Prof. Dyar Gives Touching Lecture on Health and Old Age.

If you were so unfortunate as to miss seeing old folks at the World's Minstrels Monday night, you missed a treat. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reeher, 114 S. Crawford avenue, New Castle, aged 78 and 70 years, who have been happily married for 50 years and have been residents of New Castle for a number of years, won the arm chair which had been offered as a prize, and both made a pretty little speech of acceptance.

"There is only one thing I regret about holding these contests for the old folks," said Prof. Dyar, in making his presentation, and that is that we cannot have a beautiful arm chair for all of you, but you know old folks are one of my hobbies, so I am not going to let you go from here tonight without a valuable prize anyhow. You are all nearing that stage of life when the system needs help to battle along and I am going to present each and every one of you grandmas and grandpas a bottle of World's Tonic with my compliments. You may not think much of this gift tonight but all I ask is that you take it and use it. Before we close our engagement here, most of you will be back saying that you would not exchange the benefit you received from it for half a dozen arm chairs."

"Laughter and sunshine are the greatest aids to curative medicine," said Professor Dyar in announcing a series of contests to be held in conjunction with regular performances of the big musical and lecture program of the World's Minstrels each night hereafter.

These contests create fun and amusement for everybody—sick or well—and if you are fortunate enough to be among the big crowd that will watch the hundreds of little babies who will contest tonight, for the most popular one, you will see people who have not smiled for months, laugh until the tears run down their cheeks. That is one of the reasons you see people who take World's Tonic recover health so quickly. Our methods bring good cheer and encouragement which no medicine under the sun can be used to the best advantage.

Quite a number of babies have already entered the baby contest.

The contest is in addition to the regular musical program and health Minstrel program each night. The lectures which form the World's show, which is located at the corner of Court and Ray streets promptly at 7:30 p. m. and admission is entirely free to everyone.

World's Tonic is on sale at Smith's drug store on S. Mill street, also Paisley's and McKee's and at all good drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

New Pastor Occupies Pulpit At Central Church Sunday

Dr. C. B. Wingerd Begins Work Here

Central Presbyterian Congregation To Greet New Pastor Tomorrow

COMES HERE FROM MARTINS FERRY, O.

DR. CHAS. B. WINGERD.

On Sunday Dr. Charles B. Wingerd, new pastor of the Central Presbyterian congregaton, will occupy the pulpit and formally begin his duties in the local charge.

At the morning service he will deliver an appropriate sermon, and at the evening service he will speak on "What a New Minister Can Do."

Dr. Wingerd comes to the New Castle church from a most successful pastorate at Martins Ferry, O., where he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church for eight years. Prior to that time he was pastor of the Park Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh.

Is Able Minister.

He is regarded as a most able and successful minister and pastor and members of the Central congregation are very well pleased to have him take up the duties of his active pastorate here and foresee a most successful future for the church which is in a flourishing condition.

Plans for the formal installation of Dr. Wingerd have been made by Shenango Presbytery. The installation will occur on October 4 with a number of ministers of the Presbytery taking part.

There is every indication of an unusually large attendance at the Central church services tomorrow to greet the new pastor.

Dr. Wingerd and his family have already moved to New Castle and are occupying the church parsonage on Park avenue.

WALTER E. McCLURE, Minister.

Bible school meets at 9:30.

Morning worship 11:00, theme, "At Ease in Zion."

Evening worship 8:00, theme, "Paul Prays for His People."

If you would know a man, then you must hear him pray. If you would know the heart of Paul, then hear him pray. We will study his first prayer as recorded in Ephesians. You are invited to come and bring a New Testament along. We will study the Bible. Our themes are not sensational. We do not try to make them sensational, but we do seek to make every service interesting, scriptural and helpful.

SUNDAY EVENING

MRS. BEAN IS SPEAKER

W. C. T. U. Convention Delegates Hear Able Address Of Closing Session

Mrs. Lyda Bean of Greenville, Pa., active worker in Young People's Divisions of Sunday school work, gave a most interesting talk at the evening session of the county W. C. T. U. convention in Central Presbyterian church on Friday.

Her subject was: "Satan's Shears" and her talk was addressed principally to young people. She told of the conditions existing today and the many things that are aiding to lead young people astray.

Mrs. Bean also gave a splendid talk during the afternoon. Special musical numbers were given, in charge of Mrs. J. W. McCreary, with Miss Margaret Graham pianist. A selection entitled "In the Garden of My Heart" was played by Miss Elizabeth Brewster, violin; Mrs. J. W. McCreary, French horn, and Miss Graham at the piano. Solo numbers were given by Miss Elizabeth Houston and Miss Sweet.

A playlet entitled "The Boosterville W. C. T. U." was presented by the members of the Ellwood W. C. T. U. and was very much appreciated by the audience.

The officers elected for the year include the following: honorary president, Mrs. S. E. McCleary; president, Miss Margaret S. Walker; vice president, Mrs. D. F. Balph; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ida May Allison; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Grandy; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. McClaren.

The committees in charge of the convention were:

Cool Reception Is Given Proposal By Premier Baldwin

Plan For Ending English Coal Strike Is Not Received With Enthusiasm

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Leaders of the striking British coal miners gave the peace plan advanced by Premier Baldwin yesterday a frigid reception today.

The premier's plan was for the establishment of a national arbitration tribunal based upon the immediate resumption of work on the basis of district agreements.

A. J. "Emperor" Cook, secretary of the miners, asserted that Baldwin's offer was no basis for a settlement because the miners' federation would not authorize the district agreements.

Cook announced that a meeting of the miners' leaders had been called for Monday to discuss the situation and to draft a reply to the government.

Senator McNary Attends Meeting

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, coauthor of the ill-fated McNary-Haugen agriculture relief bill, was in Chicago today to attend a meeting of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, of which he is a member.

Senator McNary declared he would reintroduce, in a modified form, his farm relief bill at the short session of the 69th congress which convenes in December.

International Sunday School Lesson

Notes On Lesson By

George M. Landis, Pastor First Baptist Church, New Castle.

Sept. 26, 1926.

Golden Text:—"Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith" (Heb. 12:1-2).

The subject selected by the International Lesson Committee, "Early Leaders of Israel," seems out of place as a summarized topic for the lessons of the past quarter. But one leader, Moses, appears. We suggest an alternate subject: "Moses, the Great Emancipator."

Of this portion of Israel's history we read in the New Testament: "Now these things were our examples (In these things they become figures of us." Mar. R. V.), to the intent that we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted" (1 Cor. 10:6). Hence in the Exodus of Israel from Egypt and in their wilderness experiences, we have a wonderful type of the salvation of the sinner and the subsequent experiences of his pilgrim journey. A fitting title for this review might be, "The Heavenly Pilgrimage." With this thought in mind we observe:

I. THE SLAVERY OF SIN (Lesson I, II).

The Israelites deplorable condition in Egypt, where the tyranny of a God-defying monarch and the lash of the task-master drove them to this unwilling service; is a striking type of the bondage of the sinner, for "Whosoever committeth sin is the servant (bondslave) of sin" (Jn. 8:34; Rom. 6:16-17).

One of the most deceitful things about sin is that its promised liberty, which attracts so many people—especially the young, turns out to be the most abject bondage. Every sinner is a slave. In spite of his boasted freedom, he will someday awaken to the fact that he wears the shackles of Satan and dwells in the dungeon of the Devil.

II. A LIBERATOR FROM THE LORD (Les. II, III).

Liberty always comes through a person. In many respects Moses is a type of our Deliverer, the Lord Jesus Christ, and he is so considered in the Word of God (Deut. 18: 15, 18).

III. REDEMPTION BY BLOOD (Les. IV.)

"The wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23). To this Divine utterance there are no exceptions. On the night of the Passover, there was death in every house in Egypt, including those of the Israelites "All have sinned," and the soul that sinneth, it shall die." (Eze. 13:4). The sinner has no other prospect. But in Egypt there were two kinds of death, the death of the subject, and the death of the substitute. In the Egyptian house the eldest child died. In the houses of Israel, the lamb died: but it was death in every case, yet how different.

The blood of the slain lamb sprinkled upon the lintel and door posts of the Hebrew houses, saved the one who was marked for death. Without the shedding and sprinkling of blood, there was no hope; with it there was no despair. So "Christ, our Passover, is sacrificed for us" (1 Cor. 5:7). His atoning blood by faith frees us from the penalty of sin, being the price of our redemption (1 Pet. 1:18-19; Eph. 1:7). Without the shed blood there can be no remission and no salvation (Heb. 8:22, 10: 19, 29). Sinner dare you reject it?

IV. DIVINE DELIVERANCE (Les. V.).

Israel sheltered by blood was saved from the penalty of sin i. e. death; but Israel was still dwelling in Egypt and subject to the power of a cruel king. Pharoah is a fitting type of Satan, who makes every effort to keep the redeemed in his own slavish power and prevent them from entering into the blessed liberty which is theirs by redemptive right.

In the passage of the Red Sea, we behold a type of the delivering power of the cross. By virtue of His death and resurrection Jesus Christ makes possible the deliverance of His own from the tyranny and power of sin. By the help of the Holy Spirit the believer is made to see—that he is identified not only with Christ crucified, but also with Christ buried and risen (Rom 6:3-5). Consequently between the Christian and Egypt in the Red Sea of the cross and sepulcher (Gal. 6:14). Pharoah's dominion ended at the Red Sea. Satan's dominion ends at the cross and tomb. May the Holy Spirit enable us by faith to reckon these things to be true (Rom. 6:11-14), and may we ever stand on resurrection ground.

V. GUIDED BY GOD (Les. V.).

All that the pillar of cloud and fire were to journeying Israel, guiding them thru the wilderness; the Spirit of God and the Word of God, are now to the believer. We are to walk by means of the Spirit (Gal. 5:16, 24), who enables us to follow the course of our pilgrimage as it is outlined in the Word of God.

VI. PROVISION FOR THE PILGRIMS (Les. VI.).

The Christian pilgrim not only requires life, but something to sustain that life. As Israel was nourished by feeding daily on the manna, so the believer grows in grace and strength as he daily feeds upon Jesus Christ, of whom the manna is a type. Weakness in the Christian life is frequently due to voluntary hunger strike.

VII. THE LAW OF THE LORD (Les. VIII, IX.).

The holy law of God was given to Israel not as a means of salvation, but to reveal sin, and show the need of salvation (Rom. 3:19-20; Gal. 3:22). They involve duties to God and duties to man, both of which man has failed to fulfill.

Jesus Christ became the end of the law for righteousness to all who believe (Rom. 10:4), and the Holy Spirit enables the believer to fulfill the Law of Christ (Gal. 6:2, 5:16; Rom. 8:1-4). Obedience to the moral principles of the law is best promoted when the Grace of God is preached (Tit. 2:11-12), and souls are born again.

VIII. THE GLORIES OF GRACE (Les. X.).

God's glorious grace seen in the Tent Meeting and in the Tabernacle services which followed it. Israel's failure under the law, was cared for in the sacrifices and offerings of the Levitical system. The claims of the broken law were met in the types and shadows of the Tabernacle, which prefigured the glorious person and gracious work of Jesus Christ.

IX. THE WORSHIP AND SERVICE OF THE REDEEMED (Les. XI.).

Israel's worship was based on sacrifice. They could approach only thru a representative, and after blood had been shed. Redemption brings relationship. So the sacrifice of Christ is the basis of our new relationship to God entered thru the new birth (Gal. 3:26; Jn. 3:3), only then can we render acceptable worship to God.

Israel's service was the service of a redeemed people, who alone can yield the service which He requires (Prov. 15:8). True service and giving is an expression of the heart's gratitude and love for God, for His unspeakable gift to us (2 Cor. 8:7-9; 9:15).

REDUCING WORKER'S HOURS WOULD MEAN LOSS TO CONSUMER

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS
New York banker, in an interview

Shortening hours will undoubtedly produce higher prices. The worker will suffer from this, and the progress of industry will be nullified in the long run.

GEORGE E. ROBERTS

There is no such thing possible as general overproduction. It is manifestly ridiculous to talk about it. Wouldn't every family living in four rooms prefer to have six, and an automobile besides? What we see signs of in industry today is merely a temporary unbalanced distribution.

Let us take the old case of a dozen families living on a desert island: it forms the best example of ideally balanced distribution, largely because immediate consultation is always possible. One could not conceive that there would be more than one shoemaker setting up in business because one is plenty, and the other man is needed to do something else: they must all divide the work and each do some different thing, or the work will not all get done. Thus we have no waste, no overproduction. The same system is sound today.

But there is a gradual change constantly taking place which has its trend in the right direction and will, if we have patience, gradually readjust our temporary difficulties.

One hundred years ago it required 75 per cent of our population to produce our food. When machinery came into the fields the cry went up that there would be a frightful condition of unemployment because so many men would be thrown out of work. But what happened? Many new industries arose, the men who left the farms were absorbed by occupations they had never heard of—by factories of motor cars, electric devices, radio, victrolas, player pianos, motion picture concerns—and now we see only 30 per cent of our population employed in producing food, and still our workers are busy.

I listened to a speech the other day in which the Secretary of Agriculture said that tobacco growers in Connecticut were adversely affected because everybody has taken to smoking ciragettes, and the kind of tobacco they raise is suitable only for cigars. What will happen? Let each man look out for himself and pretty soon he will find himself busy at something else.

Of course, it is true that this cannot be done all at once—many workers cannot adapt themselves quickly, and this is unfortunate—but it is inevitable. There is a new army of workers coming along every year, and these will shy away from the shoe factories and others where we are told conditions are not good and balance will gradually be restored.

In the textile trades of New England various influences have been at work, especially that of competition with the South. In the South there is a better natural development. The raw material is there, there is more economy of production, money buys more—the climate is warmer so that less money goes for clothes and fuel. Yet they have pushed wages in the textile industry higher than in any other during or since the war, and now they want shorter hours, too.

Through all this the employer is between the devil and the deep blue sea: low prices and high wages. He can be and he is being squeezed and whenever he is squeezed out labor suffers—the consumer always pays.

There is no general gain to working people as a whole simply pushing up wages, for they are the greatest consumers and when prices go up, as they must, from all these high wages, their benefit cancels out.

IN 5 BRIEF YEARS RADIO HAS BECOME LEADING INDUSTRY

By GENERAL J. G. HARBORD
President Radio Corporation of America

The growth of the radio industry has been so sound that nobody any longer thinks of it as being young. It has not only taken its rank as an old-established industry, but has become one of the leading industries of this country. Broadcasting has become an indispensable part of American life and a radio set a necessity of the modern home. Even those intimately connected with radio find it difficult to remember that only five short years ago broadcasting was an experiment and the listening public a few enthusiastic amateurs. The evolution of radio from a fad into a luxury and then a necessity has developed an annual business of more than half a billion dollars, and the industry as a whole employs more than 300,000 persons in its factories, broadcasting stations, offices and stores.

GENERAL J. G. HARBORD

In the same brief time the undesirable elements that are always attracted by a new discovery, whether it be a new science, a new country or a new gold field, have been eliminated. Certainly the time has arrived when a receiving set bearing the label of an established manufacturer can be purchased from a reliable dealer with the knowledge that full value is being received for the dollar expended.

This does not mean that the radio industry has reached its full growth, nor that its development period is ended. The growth will be as large in the future as in the past, and many new fields will feel the magic touch of radio, as, for example, the motion picture industry. The future development will not be considered as spectacular, because the word "impossible" has still to be associated with radio. There is no doubt that the service rendered by the industry will continue to become more reliable and better.

Foundation of the Industry

The radio industry, with the exception of radio telegraphy, rests on the common foundation of broadcasting. During this last year much progress has been made. Stations have been erected for the purpose of serving the sparsely settled communities. The transmitting power of many stations has been increased. The country can now be said to be fairly well blanketed.

Negro Attackers To Face Girls In Murder-Assault

(International News Service)

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 18. — Two negroes, one captured in Cecil county, Md., and the other in this city, after he had been named by the wife of a third negro, now being pursued by a posse near Chesapeake Bay, as the slayer of Walter "Budd" Harden, will be faced today by the two girls who were attacked after the youth lost his life in defending them.

One of the negroes, Wilson Biddle, 27, of Jersey City, N. J., and the wife of Walter Webb, who escaped a Maryland posse and bloodhounds after being cornered in a cornfield near Earville, were spirited away from the jail at Elkton, Md., shortly after midnight. They were taken in automobiles over the back roads and whisked through this city before dawn as a precaution against any mob violence, which it is said has been threatened. They were taken to a jail in Delaware county, the location of which is being kept a secret and where Amos Hughes, the negro accused by Webb's wife, is also lodged.

Defense Counsel Studies Evidence In Daugherty Case

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. — With court adjourned until Monday in the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian charged with conspiracy in connection with the return of wartime seized alien assets, defense counsel were occupied today in studying the mass of "documentary evidence" submitted by the government.

The prosecution is attempting to show by checks, government expense vouchers, hotel registry entries and official correspondence the alleged link between the defendants and John T. King, late Connecticut politician who was paid $441,000 by Richard Merton, German financier, for putting through the $7,000,000 claim for the Society Suisse to recover the seized property of the American Metals Company.

Musical Comedy Put On Screen

Eddie Cantor's Famous "Kid Boots" Comedy Is Now In Motion Pictures

ROMANCE RIPENS WITH REJECTIONS

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—Not all the romances of Hollywood blossom before a camera.

Acting as casting director for her father J. Stuart Blackton, pioneer producer, Marion Constance Blackton vetoed the selection of Gardner James for a part in a picture. James was so perturbed about his sudden rejection that he traced responsibility. Introducing himself to Miss Blackton, he made a personal protest.

And then the fun began. Despite an eloquent appeal, James was refused the role, but will be married to Miss Blackton as soon as he finishes a production for Inspiration Pictures.

Work on "Tillie, the Toiler," Marion Davies' next picture, will be started within the next few days, Irving Thalberg, production executive at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, announced today.

Hobart Henley, the director of "The Auction Block," "His Secretary," and "A Certain Young Man," will megaphone Miss Davies thru "Tillies" labor troubles.

Realism in art can be carried to excess. During the filming of "Down the Stretch," A Universal race story, at the Riverside track, Ward Crane acted as bookmaker and used real money.

The sporting citizens of Riverside, pressed into service as a race track throng, entered into the atmosphere so whole-heartedly that they took the race and book-making seriously. They placed bets and collected their winnings, forgetting the clicking cameras. Crane found himself short when the time came for an accounting to the property man.

The first musical comedy to be transplanted in its entirety from the stage to the screen is "Kid Boots," which Eddie Cantor has just completed for Paramount. Although it was difficult to "translate" the stage hokum, Cantor declared himself satisfied. Clara Bow, the pert red-head, plays opposite Cantor.

Novels, plays, short stories, songs, poems and even pictures (paintings) have been made the subject of film stories but "Kid Boots," is the first musical comedy to be filmed.

Samuel Goldwyn, the veteran motion picture producer, increased to $500,000 his insurance policy on Vilma Banky, the beautiful Hungarian actress who played opposite Valentino in the late "sheik's" last picture. Miss Banky's increased screen value and her narrow escape from death when trampled by a horse during the filming of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" were responsible for Goldwyn's action, it was said.

Henry East, trainer of dogs for the "movies," declares his greatest problem is fleas. His intelligent animals are carefully cleaned before appearing on the set, but sometimes a voracious insect will ruin feet of film by making a heroic dog turn his attention from the noble work of saving a heroine into the pressing and intimate business of scratching himself.

"Hank," one of East's cleverest canine actors, is starring with Alec B. Francis in "The Return of Peter Grimm."

Christian Scout Troop Prepare For Court Of Honor At Session Friday Evening

Troop 15 Boy Scouts of America held their weekly meeting last evening at the First Christian Church with 20 scouts present. Scoutmaster Jos. Riley was in charge.

Plans were made for the Court of Honor which will be held in October. Instructions in First Aid were given by Senior Patrol Leaders Ben Nessle to the following scouts. Second Class Scouts Vance Glenn and Elliott Francis. First Class Robert Calahan.

Instructions were given in Semaphore and Wig Way Signalling by Junior Assistant Scoutmaster George McCracken to the following Scouts, Carl Custer, Albert Hamond, Howard McCune, David McKissick, Junior Brown, Trevor Williams, and James Robinson.

The next meeting will be held on Friday September 23 at 7:30 in the basement of the First Christian Church.

Third Set Of Tennis Matches Is Played

Score Is Same In Each Of The Three Sets Played In Y. W. Tourney

Miss Rubie Niemi and Mrs. Aileen Stone played off the final set in their tennis match in the Y. W. C. A. Tennis Touranment, Friday evening on the Carnegie playground court. The first two sets of their match were played off Tuesday but darkness prevented the third set.

The match was won by Mrs. Stone. The contestants were very evenly matched, and the score in the games was most interesting.

The first set was won by Mrs. Stone, score 6-4. Second set, won by Miss Niemi, score 6-4. The final set was won by Mrs. Stone, score being 6-4. The game Friday evening was thrilling throughout. Miss Niemi played a much better game than on Tuesday and made some very worth while returns as did Mrs. Stone. Mrs. Stone had a harder and speedier serve than Miss Niemi.

Freshmen Guests At Slippery Rock

(Special To The News)

SLIPPERY ROCK, Sept. 18.—The freshmen of Slippery Rock State Normal School made their first appearance at the social affairs of the school when they were entertained in the school gym as the guests of the dean of Women, Miss Lillian Johnson and the Y. W. C. A. at a get acquainted party. The event was quite a success both from the standpoint of getting acquainted and from the standpoint of entertainment.

The first social event of the school year at Slippery Rock State Normal School was the faculty recital which was given in the chapel of the school on Thursday evening, September 16. The program varied and well balanced. It was met by a heavy applause from the students.

Federal Prisoners Removed To Erie

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Sept. 18. — Thirteen federal prisoners, including Harry L. Stevens, former dry agent who is charged with impersonating a federal officer, today were to be removed to Erie, where their cases are scheduled for trial during the September term of federal court.

The prisoners, who had been held in Allegheny county jail, were ordered transferred by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, here

THE TINGE OF FALL SAYS TO CLEAN HOUSE AND CLEAN CLOTHES

Just about this time of the year when the calendar says that fall is here and the cool mornings and crisp evenings show the calendar is right, the thoughts of the housewives is to having fall housecleaning done. And coincident with fall house cleaning comes the time when rugs, oriental and Persian, as well as the Wiltons and Axminsters, the curtains, the hangings and the drapes, all should be cleaned. And the ideal method of cleaning is the Smith Master Cleaning way. Rugs are dusted and shampooed and their colors restored and they have that new appearance and stay clean so much longer after Master Cleaning.

Fur lined, fur trimmed and fur garments are cleaned the master cleaning way. The relining and the repairing of fur garments is a specialty at Smith's. Valuable furs are given thorough and safe cleaning and to insure further safety to you, every article is insured at Smith's.

Before putting your summer clothes away have them thoroughly Master cleaned. They will be bright and fresh when you take them out next summer. Do not put them away with the dust and dirt in them. To do so is injurious to the fine fabrics and colors.

Fall clothing should be cleaned before being worn. Send your clothing at once, and have it all Master cleaned and start the fall season with clean and fresh clothing that gives you that dressed up feeling and new look.

There is a difference in Smith's Master Cleaned clothes. They are thoroughly cleaned and have no gasoline odor that is obnoxious. Only the purest and best cleaning solvents recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry are used. And the dirt and sediment as it is washed out of the clothes is washed away by a continuous flow of clean solvent that cleans and refreshes every garment.

Our service men go everywhere and they will gladly stop if you will simply call 885. Every garment is insured.

WOMEN HEAR URGE TO VOTE

Attorney Wylie McCaslin Points Out Voting Duty At W. C. T. U. Convention

Attorney Wylie McCaslin of this city was the principal speaker at the afternoon session of the forty-second annual convention of Lawrence County Woman's Christian Temperance Union held Thursday all day in the Central Presbyterian church.

Urges All To Vote

Attorney McCaslin's address was enthusiastically received. His subject was, "Our Present Political Situation." Mr. McCaslin stressed the importance of voting at every election, now that women had the right of franchise which was a right belonging to them, it was their duty to see that the proper persons are elected to office. For every right there is a corresponding duty. The speaker said that he had more respect for the man or woman who went to the polls and voted wrong than for the voter who did not vote at all. If we stand for certain things we should vote for them. Then our duty is done as a citizen.

Mr. McCaslin urged the women not to be discouraged because a certain class of people opposed the attitude taken by the W. C. T. U. In all lines of human progress there have been many defeats. They should not hope to accomplish the principles which they stand for in too short a time.

Government is becoming more complex every year, especially in the large cities where the population is increasing. It is the duty of every citizen to vote intelligently at every primary and election. There are many model citizens who from indifference and carelessness do not take one day out of the entire year to register, who do not apparently care to make our country a better place to live in, he said.

Memorial Service

A memorial service was conducted for the members of the W. C. T. U. who have passed away during the year. Miss Walker read the following names of members who have died from the various Unions: East Brook, Mrs. Mary Jane McCreary; Mary Talbert Union, Mrs. Ida Hull, Mrs. Katherine Wing; Frances Willard, Mrs. Sarah Johnson, Mrs. H. A. J. Brown, Miss Stella Patterson; Plaingrove, Mrs. Hattie Donnelly. Strike Of Chicago Beauty Shop Girls Next Month, Threat

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Warefare, verbal and otherwise, has broken out in the beauty shops. It is a conflict over salaries and working conditions, on the surface, but underneath it is a struggle of the labor agitators to get firm control of the business.

W. S. Leidieg, president of the Journeyman's Barber' Union, with which most of the girls in beauty shops are affiliated, said today:

"Many of the girls are not receiving a living wage, some of the salaries running as low as $12 and $15 a week. For 12 hours' duty on Saturdays, girls receive $5. The proprietors are charging about double for marcels and permanent waves."

It is announced that unless a comprise is reached, 50 beauty shop girls would go on strike October 1.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18, 1926.—September 18 is expected to be the central date of a general wave of below normal temperatures that will cover the continent; I do not expect this cool wave in south and cold wave in north to be of record breaking disposition nor to carry killing frosts very far south in great central valleys; most damage from these below normal temperatures will be due to the lateness of some crops and the need for warm, dry weather in both corn and cotton belts at this time; greatest departures below normal temperatures during this period are expected on central and northern Pacific slope and in northeast sections. A storm wave of rather severe intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on September 20; this storm wave is expected to gain force as it moves eastward in the transcontinental path, culminating in most severe force on 22 and 23 and moving well down into southern great central valleys; while this is the proverbial equinoctial storm period, storms of this period are not expected to be of the very dangerous type; principal effects expected from this storm wave will be moderate to heavy precipitation during and following storm center and severe cool wave south and cold wave north following storm center; the wave of below normal temperatures that is expected to follow this storm center will be the most damaging of the season to date; precipitation of this period will be general, average above normal, do more harm than good.

Foreign Crops and Markets, a government publication, sets forth the following as present conditions and forecasts of 1927 wheat crop: 14% increase in U. S. acreage for 1927 crop as indicated by farmers present intention to sow; no material change in other world wheat countries for 1927 acreage; increased world demand; with average yields, no material change from present year world demand, supply and price level; 1927 world carryover to be about same as 1926, which in turn was the smallest of recent years and but a few million less than 1925.

The general opinion of forecasters of note, over the world, is that 1927 will be a year of very severe and unseasonable cold waves; while such forecasts are of little value to the public, not localizing the expected results, and it would be foolhardy to expect the entire globe to experience these great and unusual extremes, the fact that all are fairly well agreed that average world temperatures will be much below normal and that unseasonable cold waves and frosts will be experienced, should be given considerable thought.

I expect the latter part of the coming winter to average cold and severe in large sections of North America; that the most severe periods of the coming winter will occur in the last half and that winter as a whole will average below normal temperatures over nearly half of the continent; that large sections of North America will be visited by later spring and much earlier fall frosts than usual; that latter part of summer of 1927 will average great extremes of heat and cold; that the most severe weather of 1927 will occur during the first three months but that the most unseasonable extremes will occur during the last five months of the calendar year. These unusual weather features will be localized through these weekly letters about one month in advance, as usual.

Stole Cash From Under Her Pillow

MEADVILLE, Sept. 18.—A thief who forced his way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mosbacher, North Main street, secured $110 which was part of the money under a pillow in the bed room occupied by Mrs. Mosbacher.

Mrs. Mosbacher was awakened by the intruder, but before she could scream he had leveled a revolver at her. In his haste to escape the theif dropped a $10 bill.

NEW YORK—Capt. J. A. However, Captain Murdock hastened to say, the prince's good looks and his genial personality put him in the position of being able to no sartorial evil and his idlest whimsies were, as a result, eagerly copied by young bloods all over the world.

Child Chokes To Death While On Way To Hospital

Little One Drinks From Can Of Kerosene While Playing On Floor At Home

Betty Naomi, ten months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Moore of Enon Valley, choked to death yesterday while being rushed to Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, in an attempt to save her life.

The little one was playing on the floor of her home, and in some manner secured a can of kerosene oil, and it is believed drank a considerable quantity. Some foreign substance in the oil is believed to have lodged in the child's throat.

Dr. C. B. Moore, of New Galilee, was summoned and did everything he could, but the child grew worse. He then started with her to Mercy hospital but she died enroute.

Bandit Wanted In Detroit Robbery Is Seriously Wounded

Pittsburgh Officer Brings Down Much Hunted Bandit With Bullet

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18.—While a man described by police as Anthony Baumgratz, 24, lay in a Pittsburgh hospital in a critical condition from bullet wounds, word was awaited from Detroit today to verify his identification as the last active member of the Mitchell gang, hunted throughout the middle west.

Baumgratz, for whose capture Detroit citizens were said to have offered a reward of $1,000, was stopped by a patrolman's bullets when he attempted to escape the officer in a speeding car.

According to police, the shooting of Baumgratz was the final chapter in the history of a gang whose operations had been traced throughout the middle west.

Robert McGowan, also believed to have been a member of the Mitchell gang, was killed a year ago while fleeing from authorities and Howard Mitchell, leader of the band, is serving a 30-year sentence in Michigan state prison for a hold-up, for which Baumgratz was wanted in Detroit.

GERMAN PAPERS WITH-HOLD VIEWS ON CONFERENCE

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—German newspapers were extremely sparing of comment today on the conversations now in progress between Foreign Minister Briand of France and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany with regard to the withdrawal of troops from Germany.

The attitude taken by the press is that it is too early to comment, that the time for talk will come when "deeds follow words".

Boy Scouts Have Excellent Meeting

Scout Meetings Resume Friday Evening—Other News Of The Seventh Ward

Twenty-five members of the Kiwanis Boy Scout troop No. 4 were present at the first meeting of the fall held in the Mahoning school gymnasium Friday evening. The meeting was in charge of Scoutmaster Milford and assistants, J. H. Gwin and C. H. Martin.

During the evening Scoutmaster Milford gave a most interesting talk telling of his experiences of the summer while in camp and hiking. In connection with his talk he showed the boys souvenirs which proved of most interest. Some of the souvenirs were a Montana Agate stone, a selt arrow head and Indian skinning knife from Nebraska; flint from Missouri; agates from the petrified forests of Montana, also some petrified wood found in this city. As a demonstration Mr. Milford started a fire with the flint.

Also during the evening 13 scouts registered and four patrol leaders were elected. Leaders elected were Paul Wilson, Eugene Wray, Blaine Farver and Frederic Wettich.

The next meeting of the troop will be next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock daylight savings time in the school.

BEFORE HER BABY CAME

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Adkins, Texas.—"Before my baby came I was so weak I had to stay in bed most of the time until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother-in-law, who is a midwife, told me it was all foolishness for me to stay in bed. She told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it would help me. She handed me one of your little books and I read it and was interested in it. I went to a drug store that night and got a bottle of your wonderful medicine. I took it until the baby was born and was able to be up and do my work. Baby is 4½ months old now and weighs 14 pounds. I have plenty of milk for her and she gains steadily. I recommend it. I am willing to answer letters and will do anything I can for any woman, for I know how I suffered."—Mrs. A. H. TSCHIRHART, R. No. 2, Box 39, Adkins, Texas.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use by women for over fifty years. It is a vegetable tonic made from roots and herbs and is sold by all druggists.

Ewing Park Troop Establishes Patrols

Good Attendance At Troop Meeting —Plan Fall Activities For Scouts

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 18.—Ewing Park started their Scout activities at a meeting in the Fire Hall Friday evening with a large attendance. After the usual routine, opening and closing the business session, the troop was divided into three groups according to the Scout rank.

Rapid-fire tests were given by F. D. Poister, assistant Scout executive. The meeting opened with a general discussion in regard to activities for this troop the coming season, in order that it promote Scout work in this particular troop. Suggestions were brought forth that inter-patrol contests might be of real interest.

Scoutmaster Knallay established permanent patrols with the following officers: Flying Eagle patrol, Robert Griffith patrol leader and John Hancher assistant. Wolf patrol, Arthur Moore patrol leader and Burton Rossman assistant. Buffalo patrol: "Red" Norton patrol leader and Elwin Richards assistant.

The contemporary leader for the Crow patrol is Scout James McCowan. Officers for this patrol will be elected in the near future. Leonard Maxwell has been named scribe, John Hancher bugler. Other buglers are Ross Geddes, Dan Myers and Leighton Stratton.

Gardner

There was a very severe electrical storm in Gardner Wednesday evening. There was a tremendous crash when the lightning struck the trolley wire and a large ball of fire ran along the wire and fell to the ground. A number of persons felt a slight shock but no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gillespie and children, Ruthana and Barbara, and Louise McMillin called at the Schumaker home Sunday afternoon.

Master Kenneth Robb left Gardner with his grandmother, Mrs. Robb, las Friday and will spend the winter with his grandparents as their home is very near to the school which Kenneth will attend in Butler, Pa.

J. W. Fombelle, of East New Castle, made a business trip to Pittsburgh last Thursday.

Miss Isabel Zehner, a teacher in the Senior high school, attended a corn roast at Frisco on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Alborn, of Gardner, entertained the Knights and Dames of Malta from New Castle and vicinity at a corn and weiner roast on Thursday evening. There were more than seventy persons present and the guests report a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Comstock motored to East Brook Sunday to call on their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Bowden and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. King, of Shenango Stop, have as their guests for a few days their daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Milliken of Crawford avenue, and Betty Jean.

Mrs. T. J. Robison, from near Portersville, is spending a few days with the families of her son, L. A. Robison, and her daughter, Mrs. Frazier, of Gardner.

Norris Boyd and Miss Jennie Jackson, of Ellwood City, called on friends in Gardner last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bessie M. Noble, librarian at Ben Franklin Junior high school, and Miss Koontz, a teacher in North street school, were recent callers in Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. King, of Shenango Stop, had as their guests last Sunday Mrs. King's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Pfeifer and sons Otto and Ralph, and granddaughter Margaret, all of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sherger, of Gardner, enjoyed a visit last Sunday from their uncle, August Doehre, of Carrick, and his son Henry, of MacDonald. Also Mr. and Mrs. John Leipold and daughter Ethel.

Miss Ora Zehner, of Miami, Fla., who has spent several weeks with her parents on the Ellwood highway, enjoyed a visit with some of her former schoolmates in Butler, Pa., recently.

FRIGHT—AND NO FRIEND.

"Eeeeeee! Take care! Not one step nearer or I shall bite your nose!"

Pat, wild with joy at his release from the hated box, danced and pranced and kicked up his heels. But this sharp squeal so close to his ear startled the dog to a standstill. What had become of friendly Mr. Rat? In that fellow's place, reared upon his hind legs, stood a fierce little creature, whose eyes gleamed with rage and whose lips were drawn back across long, sharp teeth.

Pat, however, had seen those teeth before and only for a second was he fooled. Then he knew that it was not Mr. Rat himself who had disappeared, but only Mr. Rat's friendliness. Pat was bewildered.

"Why, what," he began, and was going to ask what the trouble was, but Ratty, much excited over something, would not allow the dog to finish.

"Never did have the good sense a rat should have!" snarled he. "Always did let my heart get the better of my head. Felt sorry for you and helped you out of that box. Now I shall have to pay for my foolishness. Serves me right! Ought to have known better than to trust a dog! But don't think you are going to get off scot free, my fine fellow!"

Ratty lurched forward, and poor Pat, thinking the rat was about to spring at him, backed away. From a safe distance Pat barked his protest.

"Why shouldn't I get off scot free?" demanded the dog. "You were kind to me only a few moments ago, sure, and why are you so cross now? Whatever have I done to you?"

"Nothing, but cheese and crackers! Who knows when you may? I have to be prepared!"

"Prepared for what?" More puzzled was growing Pat.

"For a good shaking!" squeaked the rat. "Once in your grip you could make the teeth rattle in my head. But you're not going to get me in your grip if I can help it. If you do 'twill be at the cost of a nipped nose!"

This so surprised Pat that right then and there he sat down on his haunches.

"Well, upon my word, you must think I'm a fine sort of fellow!" barked he. "After all you've done for me, is it so basely ungrateful you're after thinking I'd be? You don't know the Irish! Trust me, old fellow, do! Queer, you'll be thinking it, but I give you my word I'll never so long as I live do harm to a rat for the sake of yourself. Come, Ratty, what are you saying to it—let's be pals!"

ELLWOOD CITY TAKES THIRD GAME OF SERIES 3-0

Jamison Applies Kalsomine Brush

Jamison - Steen Engage In Hurling Duel, With Ellwood Man Holding Edge

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Ellwood City took the third game of the "little world's series" for the Lawrence county championship on Friday night at Centennial field by handing the New Castle O. & P. League team a handsome application of whitewash to the tune of 3 to 0. Mark Jamison, on the knoll for the County Leaguers, was invincible in the pinches, while on the other hand, Ellwood City took advantage of the seven hits they secured off Steen to turn them into runs. The fourth game of the series is being played in Ellwood this afternoon.

Ellwood Shows Class

Connie Wardman's boys, after muffing everything that came their way down in Ellwood City the other night and literally making a farce out of the second game, showed a complete reversal of form here last evening and looked the part of real champions. The "Tubers" played errorless ball in the field, and at bat they hit when hits meant runs, and for that reason alone they secured the victory. The under dogs turned last night and snapped up everything that the New Castle boys had to offer in the way of palatable food.

Steen On Mound

Manager "Bill" Steen took it upon himself to pitch the locals to victory last night in the third affair and Bill came within an ace of doing so at that, the old timer had a straight fast ball working good and his strikeout record shows eight batters as victims, while Jamison had five to his credit. Steeen allowed but seven hits but they came at the right time for Ellwood and the wrong time for New Castle. The O. & P. leaguers found Jamison for eight hits but they were wasted.

Ellwood City played heads-up baseball in the third game and two occasions turned in fast double plays, this being just another reason why New Castle didn't win.

The visitors drew first blood in the opening round of the fight, by chasing over two runs before the unsuspecting local aggregation had time to catch their breath. M. Sanders flied out to Ross. F. Sanders scratched a hit through second, and advanced to second. Brown singled to right and F. Sanders tallied. Cunningham poked a grounder at Ross, and Ross threw wild at the plate to catch Brown with the result that the runner scored.

Ellwood City scored their third and final in the sixth inning. F. Sanders fanned, Brown beat out a hit to Ross at first base then Ross tossed wild to Steen who covered the bag on the hit, Brown going to second, Cunningham whiffed the zone for three times and resumed his seat on the bench, Volpe doubled to center and Brown scored, Byak's liner was to hot for Crabfelder to handle, and it looked as if the visitors would uncover some more runs, but Hudson acted like a gentleman and fanned to end the inning.

Nine Goose-eggs

New Castle's efforts in the nine innings resulted in broad goose-eggs. The locals had plenty of opportunity to score at times, but fast fielding by the Ellwoodians kept the New Castle boys from approaching the vicinity of home-plate. In only one inning the fifth did New Castle secure more than one hit from Jamison, but at that they couldn't score.

Grabfelder, Hoffman and Robertson played good ball for the locals, while the playing of F. Sanders, Byak, and Volpe featured for Ellwood City. Jamison had a busy time of it last night handling no less than six chances.

Brown the star short-stop of the Ellwood City team was the leading stick artist in the third game with three safeties, while McCullough and Reeder with two hits apiece led the New Castle boys at bat.

Pennant Races In Both Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Cardinals again lead the National League this morning by one game, having overwhelmed the Phillies for the fourth successive time while the Reds were losing to the Giants. St. Louis and Cincinnati each have eight more games to play.

Pittsburgh dropped completely out of the race by losing another game to Brooklyn.

By making it three out of four from the Yanks, Cleveland cut New York's lead to three and one-half games. The Yanks must now win seven of their ten remaining games to clinch the pennant. If they win the last two games of the Cleveland series, however, they will need only three victories to clinch the flag.

Tagging All Bases

(International News Service)

Frank Frisch hit a homer in the tenth which gave the Giants a 5 to 4 victory over the Reds, knocking Cincinnati out of first place. Frisch also singled with the bases full in the eighth when the Giants shellefluque off the mound.

The St. Louis steam roller bowled over the Phillies again, 10 to 1. Bottomley's homer with two on base in the first sewed up the game.

Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn showed a flash of his old form in beating Pittsburgh 3 to 1. Hill held the dodgers to four hits but could not locate the plate at critical moments.

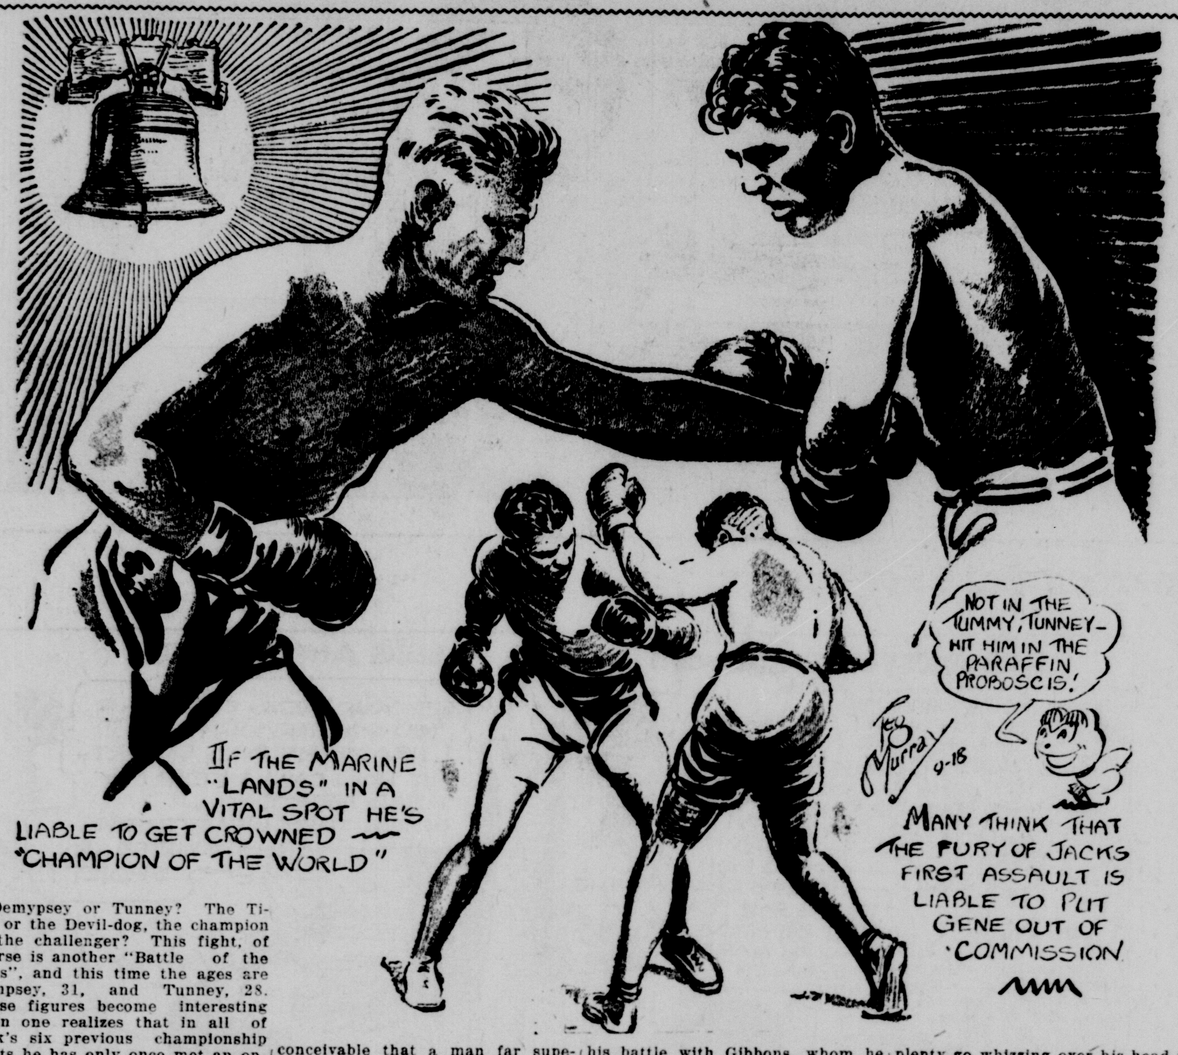
Cleveland, dying with both boots on, made it three straight from the Yanks and moved up to within striking distance of first place by winning a 5 to 1 battle. Shaute held the Yanks to five hits while Hoyt was unable to stand the pace.

Washington advanced to within half a game of third place, nosing out Detroit in the tenth, 5 to 4. The Tigers booted the game away with four errors.

The White Sox clinched their hold on fifth place as Ted Lyons defeated the Red Sox, 3 to 2, for his 18th victory of the season.

Can Gene Ring the Bell?

BY FEG MURRAY



Demypsey or Tunney? The Tiger or the Devil-dog, the champion or the challenger? This fight, of course is another "Battle of the Ages", and this time the ages are Dempsey, 31, and Tunney, 28. Those figures become interesting when one realizes that in all of Jack's six previous championship fights he has only once met an opponent younger than himself.

Willard, Miske, Brennan, Carpentier and Gibbons all were born before Dempsey, and it was not until he met Luis Angel Firpo that he faced a younger opponent in a really big bout. And what that "Wild Bull of the Pampas" nearly did to the champion is ring history. Now, in his next fight, Jack meets a finely conditioned warrior, three years younger than he is and it is quite conceivable that a man far superior to Firpo in intelligence and ring skill, may carry on where the South American left off and put Dempsey down and out for keeps. It's a cinch that Tunney won't "get the works" as many claim the simple Argentinean got.

The champion looks great in training, there's no denying that. But remember, please, that after being out of the ring for two years he was not nearly his old self in his battle with Gibbons, whom he couldn't even knock down. And now, after being without a fight for three more years, he's going to have an even harder time beating the man who knocked out Gibbons.

Jeffries looked pretty good in training at Reno. But he was a "mere shell of his former self" when the battle with Johnson got under way. Shells are nothing to Tunney, for the ex-marine heard plenty go whizzing over his head in France. Shell or no shell, Jack's got to go some to shock Gene, in my estimation.

Feg Murray Says—

The British immigration official who asked to see Gertrude Ederle's passport when she landed, was as smart as the w. k. lady who, on her first yachting trip, was alarmed when she heard the captain's order, "Let down the top sheet and spanker".

Kirkwood Lowers Golf Course Record To 72 On Friday

By HARRY K. BELL

Although it was the first time that he had ever played on the course of the New Castle Field Club, and the turf was damp and soggy in places owing to the recent wet weather conditions, Joe Kirkwood, golf champion of Australia and outstanding luminary in the golf firmament of this country, since arriving here five years ago, broke the record of the course in making the eighteen holes Friday afternoon in a scheduled exhibition foursome in 72, one stroke less than the previous record and one over par. The previous course record was 73, held by Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional.

In making this excellent showing Kirkwood played in good form, displayed unusual and equal skill in the use of the driver, the mashie, the niblick, brassie, midiron and other clubs. He displayed a grace and an ease of action in play that was in many instances little short of the extraordinary, that pleased the gallery of several hundred men and women enthusiasts that followed the members of the foursome from the number one tee to the finish.

Local Players Do Well

Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional; Dr. J. R. Cooper, 1925 club champion, and W. M. Nunn, 1926 champion, the local participants in the foursome, had somewhat to do with the interest in the event, and their efforts were at times of such a nature as to entitle them to generous applause, as they, too, shone forth as golfers of marked ability.

The local players did not show their real and customary form until the last nine holes. In the first nine holes Captain Smith was steady and frequently showed an ability to outdrive Kirkwood, but his ball refused in several instances to perform consistently, making his score several strokes over par, while Kirkwood came through with 37, or one stroke over par. The captain, however, in the final nine holes, was in rare form and equaled Kirkwood in making the nine holes in par, or 35.

Nunn and Cooper were not up to their accustomed form in the first nine holes, although the former played two holes in par and Cooper five.

In the last nine holes the present and last year's champion recovered form and went along in fine shape, exhibiting ability to make long drives, excellent approaches and good putts, and coming within a few strokes of par.

Kirkwood landed on greens within a few feet of the cup in several instances and really had some unfortunate shots at seven holes, where his ball rimmed the cups instead of dropping in, preventing him from reaching or bettering the par of the course, which is 71. He had two birdies to his credit, making the No. 8 hole in four strokes and the No. 13 hole in two, or one stroke less than par in each instance. Captain Smith also had a birdie to his credit at the No. 13 hole.

Drive Well

In the drives, on the longer holes, Captain Smith and Kirkwood displayed unusual ability, making 225 to 275 yards with perfect ease. They also displayed rare ability in getting out of the rough and over and past the hazards of the course.

At the conclusion of the foursome Kirkwood displayed his ability as the greatest trick shot golfer of the present day, first from the fairway of the No. 9 hole, then on the green of the hole and finally in bunker shots from a natural hazard at that point.

Kirkwood displayed his knowledge of the game with all types of clubs and performed any shot that was requested by the crowd, the members of which were thrilled by his exhibition of nearly an hour's duration.

Placement shots from memory, that is, without looking at the ball, in sending the ball to the green, were made with ease and accuracy that astounded all, as were shots curving the balls to the right, then to the left and vice versa, also for great distances, shorter distances, great heights, low levels, etc.

With the assistance of certain spectators Kirkwood put on some amusing trick shots, including the driving of a ball suspended at the end of a string, a ball teed on the toe of a shoe and on a fine watch.

At the green his demonstration of putting was little short of miraculous, including the jumping of balls over other balls at the edge of the cup, placing them in the cup around other balls—in fact, an exhibition that would have done credit to a billiard player.

His final, and probably most clever demonstration, was that of a bunker shot from the edge of a ditch, placing the ball on the green from this difficult position on the green and hitting the ball with his back to the green.

The foursome started promptly at 2:30 o'clock, with George F. Winter, president of the Field Club, introducing the players of the afternoon at the No. one tee.

Play, hole by hole, follows:

No. 1. 400 Yards—Par 4

Nunn started off first, driving his ball 220 yards. Captain Smith made 225 yards. Cooper and Kirkwood also made excellent yardage. Kirkwood, Smith and Cooper landed on the green in their next attempt. Nunn goes over in his attempt. Kirkwood almost putts the ball in the cup. Smith and Kirkwood halve the hole, each getting a four. Cooper and Nunn were less fortunate and took more strokes.

No. 2. 150 Yards—Par 3

All four players make good drives but Cooper secures the edge and lands in good position on the green. Cooper putts the ball into the cup on the third stroke and makes it in par. The others require four strokes.

No. 3. 330 Yards—Par 4

Kirkwood, Nunn and Smith make fine drives in the start-off. All get over the big ravine in good shape. Nunn and Cooper land on

Altoona Auto Racers Ready

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 18.—Barring last-minute unfavorable weather, the annual 250-mile automobile race, postponed from Labor Day, will be run off here this afternoon, with the cream of America's racing talent competing for $350,000 prize money and points toward the 1926 championship.

Eighteen drivers qualified for the event. They are: Eddie Hearne and Harlan Fengler, in Locomobile Junior Eights; Peter Kreis, Dave Lewis, Leon Duray and Earl Cooper, the "four horsemen", in front-wheel drive Millers; the Duesenberg team of Pete Paolo, Ralph Hepburn, Dave Evans and Bob McDonough; Harry Hartz, Frank Elliott, Norman Batten, Phil Shafer, Frank Lockhart, Dr. W. W. Shattuc, Bob McDougal and Bennie Hill in straight Millers.

An exhibition air derby was to precede the race, which started at 2:30 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

New Wilmington To Meet Union

Game To Be Played On Union High Field On October 2, It Is Announced

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—Matt Gilliland, student manager of the local high school football team, announced Friday that arrangements had been completed for a game with Union high to be played on the Union high field October 2.

When these two teams met last fall on the Ben Franklin field in the preliminary to the Westminster-Allegheny game, a real contest resulted. After a bitter contest the college town lads emerged the winner by a 12-0 count.

Coach Wiggins has been driving his squad hard in preparation for what promises to be a tough season. The schedule calls for the first game September 25 when Grove City high is met at Grove City.

Borotra Eliminates Vincent Richards

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—With Vincent Richards, America's last hope, eliminated by Jean Borotra, two French tennis stars will be the finalists this afternoon in the 45th renewal of the national championship at Forest Hills.

Borotra and Jean Rene Lacoste will contend for the title, which has been the exclusive property of William T. Tilden, II, of Philadelphia, ever since the end of the World War. Both had five set battles before they could conquer, but each in turn proved the better stayer and emerged victor in the semi-finals yesterday.

Loughran Picks Dempsey To Defeat Gene Tunney

BY GEORGE BARRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 18.—"Just about the gladdest thought I have these days", Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, remarked today, "is that I do not have to meet up with Jack Dempsey in a real battle on the 23rd. Of course, I know there's going to be a nice cash reward for Gene Tunney when he does it, but when I think about what Dempsey deals out when he's just fooling around with big gloves I get to wondering if Gene's getting any sort of bargain".

Loughran came to Dempsey's camp a week ago to trade swipes with the champion, the very same Loughran who took on Tunney a couple of years ago and dealt Gene quite a spanking. And after various outings with Dempsey, during which the champion broke loose with real violence only once, Loughran a keen, intelligent youngster, says:

"That man is a murderous puncher and the greatest ring general I ever met. He's tricky and really remarkable on defense without ever getting credit for it. He seems to be taking punches, yet the real truth is that he slips them over his head, without the slightest damage to himself.

"It's discouraging to fight Dempsey", Loughran continued. "Any ordinary man who is hit solidly usually backs away and you get the satisfaction of knowing you've stung him and perhaps have him on the down grade. But hit Dempsey and he fights only harder and faster.

"I can't see a chance for Tunney. He will surprise me if he gets as far as four full rounds. I know that Tunney is good on defense, he's no cheap opponent, no soft mark for anybody, but when he meets Dempsey he is tackling a superman. Tunney can't beat Dempsey in a slugging match. His only chance would seem to lie in using his legs and in clinching and holding. Yet Dempsey is absolutely murderous in the clinches".

Dempsey planned to resume boxing this afternoon. The day of rest, Friday, was devoted to bag punching and a run on the road, also some hot applications were applied to his "shiner" which now has been so bleached out that it is but a memory.

Westminster To Open Season Next Friday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—How will the grid team line up in the opening game with Duquesne university at Pittsburgh on September 24? This is the question perplexing Westminster college's student body and Westminsterites in general. However, even Head Coach Dwight "Dyke" Beede refuses to answer the question and his numerous changes in the personnel of the so-called varsity eleven during a practice session convinces one that everything is not yet settled.

With a squad numbering close to 40, it is obvious that competition for berths is of the hottest kind. Several men who were thought to have had no chance at all a week ago have surprised with their work since being given a chance to perform in roles played by men now on the injured list.

It will do no harm to conjecture as to the makeup of the team which will march onto the field at Pittsburgh. The duty of calling signals will fall to either "Rusty" Coles, a veteran from last year, or Jim McQuiston, another member of last year's squad but who failed to enter the circle of lettermen. During the past week, Coles has been in charge with McQuiston on the sidelines with a bad knee. Coles is easily the fattest man on the squad. One the other hand McQuiston can punt and pass with exceptional ability.

It looks as though Hostettler, a freshman, will get the call for the fullback position with Bowen and Hall at the halves. However, Paul Campbell, a product of Westinghouse high, Pittsburgh, is waging a game fight for a halfback position and may get the call.

Crowell or Del Smith will play one terminal with the veteran Kelly at the other. Sweet, a 246-pounder looks good at a tackle with Ayres, a member of last year's squad, playing the other. Captain Montgomery will doubtless get the call at guard with Henderson, a rangy newcomer, on the other side of the line. Joe Smith will play center.

Two Class Leagues For High Schools Of City This Fall

The high school class league schedule of games for the different football teams involved was announced today by William Klee the director of physical education at the senior high school.

The teams have been divided as they were last year according to their weight and rank into two leagues one to be known as the Senior and the other as the Junior league.

The Senior league is to be made up of the Seniors, the Juniors, and the Sophmores of the senior high school and Ben Franklin Junior High. The teams composing the Junior league are Mahoningtown Junior High, North Street Junior High, and the Ben Franklin Reserves.

All games are to be played at the Franklin Stadium and the season will be officially opened on October 4 with the Senior and the Sophomores as opponents.

The league was a great success last year although the continual rain put the field into bad condition and if one can judge from the talk at the several schools connected with the league, this years schedule will be better than ever.

The Ben Franklin team has as usual taken the lead in the beginning of training and the teams of the Senior high had better snap into it or they will get the same kind of treatment from the Franklin aggregation that they have received in the past and that has been a trouncing.

The Senior high teams are somewhat handicapped however on account of the lack of a coach and the necessary equipment. The equipment part can usually be taken care of but as for the problem of choosing or even getting a coach is a very great one. It is hoped that some of the members of the faculty that have had experience on the gridiron will come to the fore with an offer of assistance so that the Senior high teams can be welded together for their games.

In the Junior league North Street boasts of having the strongest team in years and they will no doubt lead Mahoningtown and Franklin Reserves a merry chase for the secondary championship.

The schedule as it was announced is as follows:

Inter Class Football Schedule 1926

Monday Oct. 4— Seniors vs Sophomores.
Friday Oct. 8—Juniors vs Ben Franklin.
Monday Oct. 11—Mahoningtown vs. North Street.
Friday Oct. 15—Seniors vs Ben Franklin.
Monday Oct. 18—Sophomores vs Juniors.
Friday Oct. 22—North Street vs Ben Franklin 2nd.
Monday Oct. 25—Sophomores vs Ben Franklin.
Friday Oct. 29—Juniors vs Seniors.
Monday Nov. 1—Mahoningtown vs Ben Franklin 2nd.

Presbyterians Deadlock Series

Central Presbyterians Defeat Methodists, 2 To 1—Series Tied Up

The Central Presbyterian team went into a deadlock with the First Methodists in the Church League series on Friday night by nosing out the latter aggregation 2 to 1, in a game that was stopped in the sixth inning on account of darkness. The game was played on the Croton field.

The Methodists gained the first game of the series at Centennial field on Wednesday night by a score of 3 to 1, but the Presbyterians were not to be denied victory last night.

The Presbyterians drew first blood in the opening frame by getting to Leonard for enough hits to produce a lone tally, the Methodists were held scoreless for the first two innings but broke out in the third inning with a rash of base knocking that produced a tally.

Manager Weiss brought victory to the Presbyterian team by crashing out a double in the sixth inning scoring Battley who had singled to start the inning.

Melder occupied the knoll for the Presbyterians and came through with a five-hit game, while the Presbyterians found the offering of Johnny Leonard for thirteen safe swats. Melder fanned four and walked two, while Leonard fanned one and walked one.

Patterson, the Presbyterian short stop made three fine chances of hard liners that robbed the Methodists of hits, while Brooks played a sensational game for the losers in the field.

Wilson with three hits including a double was the leading hitter for the winners, while Battley, and Weiss had two safe swats apiece. For the Methodists Lockley was the best bet.

High Gridders To Open Season

With ideal weather prevailing today the New Castle and Mars High football teams are battling out on Ben Franklin Field, in the start of the 1926 grid season here. The game got under way shortly after 2:30 o'clock with several thousand fans on hand.

All the last minute details relative to the playing of the game were ironed out by Faculty Manager Gardner and Student Manager Britt Hoag on Friday night. The field is in perfect condition and a fast game is anticipated.

No. 4. 380 Yards—Par 4

The four players made good drives up the beautiful fairway. Smith outdistances all with a drive of 250 yards. The others are close behind him. Kirkwood is in the rough at the edge of the fairway, but with a fine mashie shot of 180 yards lands on the green. Cooper and Nunn land on the edge of the green. Smith just fails in making a birdie with a niblick shot. Cooper and Kirkwood make it in par. Smith and Nunn take one more.

No. 5—360 Yards, Par 5.

One of the hardest holes of the course, and this section of the country, being known as "a dog leg blind hole", with the green in the deep ravine and across a run, and with unusual natural hazards and rarely made in par.

Cooper dubbed his drive and went into the rough. Kirkwood made a long drive of the hole, going 275 yards. Nunn drove 150 yards, while Captain Smith outdrove all, going fully 300 yards. Kirkwood was on in three and putted twice for the cup. Smith and Kirkwood made it in par, while Cooper and Nunn were good for a six.

No. 6—380 Yards, Par 6.

Kirkwood makes a bangup drive of 275 yards. Smith, Kirkwood and Nunn make a nice approach. Kirkwood's ball lands within a few feet of the cup. Cooper makes a nice putt with Kirkwood doing a better one. Kirkwood along made this hole in par with the others trailing in with higher scores.

No. 7—185 Yards, Par 3.

Cooper and Kirkwood land on the green with ease, Cooper getting within two feet of the pin. Smith and Nunn have a little farther to go but are in easy distance of the hole. Cooper and Nunn finish up in par, with Kirkwood and Smith trailing with fours.

No. 8—485 Yards, Par 5.

Kirkwood makes a long drive. He reaches and rims the cup and finishes with a birdie to his credit, making the hole in one less than par. Cooper and Nunn reach the edge of the green in three but take two to complete the hole. Smith also takes five.

No. 9—335 Yards, Par 4.

Dr. Cooper hooks up and goes but a short distance into the rough. A nice shot puts him out of the rough. Kirkwood, Nunn and Smith finished in par with Cooper trailing with a five. The first nine holes completed with Kirkwood one over par, or 37.

No. 10—420 Yards, Par 4.

Probably the most difficult hole in the entire course, with two hazards. Nunn and Smith have the advantage and make it in par, Cooper and Kirkwood doing five.

No. 11—350 Yards, Par 4.

Kirkwood makes an exceptionally fine drive. All the members of the foursome going in fine shape, Kirkwood and his partner going just a little better than the others. Kirkwood and Cooper make it in par. Smith and Nunn off one stroke.

No. 12—335 Yards, Par 4.

Good form showed by all players. Kirkwood, Smith and Nunn make the hole in par. Cooper unfortunate and completes it in five.

No. 13—135 Yards, Par 3.

Shortest hole of course. Kirkwood lands within three feet of the pin in one. Smith is at the upper edge in one, Nunn and Cooper at less advantageous points. Kirkwood holes ball on second stroke, Smith also does the same, repeating his performance of last year against Hagen. Both get a birdie. Cooper and Nunn finish in par.

No. 14.—320 Yards, Par 4.

Good golf is shown by all four players. They appear to be getting better as they near the end. Kirkwood lands on the green within six feet of the pin without any trouble. Par is the score for all.

No. 15—400 Yards, Par 4.

Nunn meets with misfortune in dubbing the ball and landing in the rough but a few feet from the tee. The others get away in good shape. Kirkwood and Smith finish in par, Cooper makes it in five and Nunn in six.

No. 16—420 Yards, Par 4.

Kirkwood adds a little comedy to the afternoon's game much to the amusement of the gallery, when as his mate drives off, he does the same almost simultaneously. He lands a little to one side but it does not hinder him in making par. The others also finish in par.

No. 17—300 Yards, Par 4.

A tall tree forms a barrier in making this hole, that it does to some people. It appeared to mean nothing to Kirkwood, who shot high and far over the tree, but landed in the rough at the foot of an embankment and with a smaller tree between him and the green. But trees mean nothing to him and he landed in the green by placing the ball there over the second tree. Kirkwood, Smith and Nunn make it in par. Cooper was one behind.

No. 18—380 Yards, Par 4.

Beautiful drives featured play for this hole with Captain Smith and Kirkwood performing in great shape. Cooper, Kirkwood and Smith finish in four. Nunn had to take six.

The score of the respective players follows:

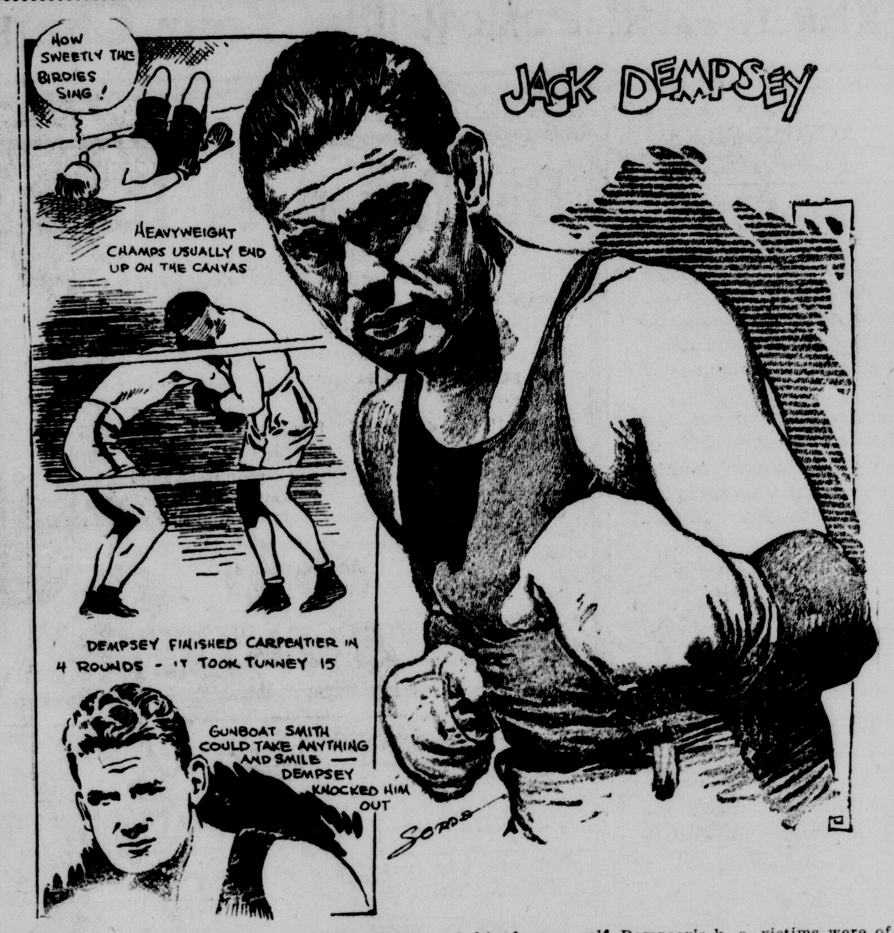
It's To Be A Heavyweight Bout

And Gene, Who Hasn't Fought Many, Meets the Champion



By NORMAN E. BROWN

Whether or not Gene Tunney cares to make his coming meeting with Jack Dempsey a test of the power of mind over matter, the fact remains that when the two men enter the ring the ensuing moments will be given over to what should be more or less the usual run of heavyweight championship fights—the efforts of a young and hopeful challenger to dethrone the champion.

As recited before, it is tradition that heavyweight kings are dethroned generally through the effective results obtained with a horseshoe in the gloves, so to speak. In other words, ability to knock the king flatter than the highways around Jefferson, O.

It is to be expected then that the winner of the coming bout will be the man who can be on the producing end of the knockout punch.

All right.

Dempsey climbed to his battle with Jess Willard and since held the title by striding over a row of unconscious heavyweights, large, small, fast, slow, clever, dumb, crafty, courageous and confident.

Here is a list of the better known opponents who were bowled over by Dempsey:

Dempsey's Main Victims via the K. O. Route

Opponent	Round
Jim Flynn	1
Bill Brennan	6
Arthur Pelkey	1
Porky Flynn	1
Fred Fulton	1
Battling Levinsky	3
Porky Flynn	1
Carl Morris	1
Gunboat Smith	2
Jess Willard	3
Billy Miske	3
Bill Brennan	12
Georges Carpentier	4
Luis Firpo	2

Dempsey knocked out Bill Brennan in six rounds early in his career—when Dempsey was younger and stronger and still experienced. Bill was tough, a hard hitter and fast.

Battling Levinsky had no wallop but he was one of the cleverest boxers of the day.

Gunboat Smith ranked as one of the hardest men in the heavyweight ranks to beat back. He can take anything and smile. Dempsey knocked him out.

Billy Miske was a clever boxer but couldn't escape Dempsey's punches.

Jess Willard was the biggest heavyweight the game has known and one of the deadliest hitters.

Carpentier goes down in history as the craftiest ring general and one of the hardest hitters in the game.

Firpo, a throwback to the prehistoric stone age, carried the wildest style ever seen in the ring game and one of the deadliest punches into the ring against Dempsey and fell short—woke up with the birds singing about his black wire hair.

Against this showing Tunney, we repeat, offers only a knockout victory over Gibbons and a technical one over Carpentier.

Opponent	Round
Charlie Weinert	4
Erminio Spalla	7
Georges Carpentier (technical)	15
Tommy Gibbons	12
Bartley Madden	3

Outside of the 12-round knockout victory over Gibbons this list of Tunney's gives him or his friends no reason to assert that he is within 27 1-2 miles of Dempsey as a hitter.

Carpentier was a burned out, decrepid shadow of his former self when Tunney succeeded in getting a technical knockout victory in 15 long rounds. Dempsey knocked out Carpentier three years previously in four rounds.

On the other hand, it must be admitted that the men listed among Dempsey's k. o. victims were of all ages, stages of experience and ring craft.

It requires, then, some delicate dissecting of the relative merits of these opponents, the conditions under which the bouts were fought, and the ultimate outcome to drive home the point that Tunney has a good chance to knock Dempsey out.

There is no logical argument for that belief.

Laborer Succumbs To Heart Attack

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Sept. 18.—The body of a man found by fellow workmen on a construction job today was indentified as that of Thomas Reilly, 45, laborer employed by the W. S. Morrison construction Company. New Brighton.

Heart disease was believed to have caused his death.

Jones Leads "Nocks" With Fine Average

Charles "Bub" Jones, star center fielder of the Neshannocks, led his team in batting this year with an average of .388 it was announced today by officials of the club, in a summary of the season's activity.

Jones was at bat 147 times, had 57 hits, scored 28 runs, and his extra base hitting shows seven doubles, five triples and nary a home run. Gerald Earl was second high man on the "Nocks" team with an average of .355, while the other .300 hitters included Murphy with a mark of .331, Coates with .331, and Travers with .312 in ten games.

It is reported that Jones will be given a try-out by one of the Middle Atlantic league teams in 1927.

Mackey was the leading pitcher on the Neshannock team this year according to the figures which show that he pitched in 21 games was credited with 15 victories and charged with 3 defeats; Van Eman won 5 and lost 2; Coates won 1 and lost 2; Rodenbaugh won 5 and lost 7, and Dean leads the list with 1 victory and no defeats in one game pitched. Following are the averages of the Nesannock team for the season of 1926:—

Tunney Optimistic As Big Bout Nears

International News Service Staff Correspondent

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—Optimism ran high in Gene Tunney's camp today as a result of the challenger's excellent showing in his work yesterday. Gene, whose work on Thursday was alarmingly poor, was a changed man. He worked better than he has at any time since he began training.

He had speed and pep. He had strength and power in his punches and in his arms. Poor Jimmy Delaney took a bad battering from him and was bleeding from the nose and mouth after a half minute of action. Jim took many a straight left in his face and had to stand up under terrific right crosses.

Tunney frequently hooked his left to the body and then instantly flashed his right to the jaw. Gene does this well, and he is going to bother Dempsey with it. At close quarters Tunney pumped rights and lefts into the body viciously.

Billy Vidabeck took a hammering, too, both about the body and head. He boxed two rounds. As did Delaney.

Tunney will work out again today, tomorrow and Monday. Bud Gorman ought to be here to work with him today. Osk Till has been sent away from the camp.

Power is one reason for Pontiac Six popularity

Powered by the largest six-cylinder engine used in any car costing less than $1000, the Pontiac Six exhibits a performance range entirely new in its field.

From 20% to 40% greater piston displacement than other sixes of comparable price. Power to soar up hills. Power to flash brilliantly ahead in traffic. Power to lug smoothly and steadily through mud and sand. More power than any other six at its price—and a permanent source of power too—

—for the Pontiac Six engine has a 46 lb. crankshaft, long-wearing semi-steel pistons, heavy I-beam section connecting rods, full-pressure oiling and bronze-backed interchangeable crankshaft bearings.

Beauty, comfort, economy and roadability—in all these qualities the Pontiac Six represents a decisive departure among low-priced sixes. Yet, on the basis of power in relation to wheelbase, weight and price, it ranks as the one outstanding engineering triumph of the day.

Pontiac Six, Sedan or Coupe, $825. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six—$1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

The Lincoln-Douglas Debates—1858.

IN 1858, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS, CHALLENGED HIS DEMOCRATIC OPPONENT, STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, TO A SERIES OF DEBATES ON THE RESPECTIVE MERITS OF POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY IN THE TERRITORIES AND CONTROL OF SLAVERY BY CONGRESS.

DOUGLAS ACCEPTED THE CHALLENGE AND THE SEVEN DEBATES THAT FOLLOWED AROUSED NATION-WIDE INTEREST. CROWDS OF PEOPLE FLOCKED TO HEAR THE VERBAL STRUGGLE OVER THESE TWO GREAT DOCTRINES AND EVERYWHERE THE ARGUMENTS OF LINCOLN AND DOUGLAS WERE READ IN THE NEWSPAPERS.

AT FREEPORT, LINCOLN FORCED DOUGLAS TO DECLARE THAT "POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY" GAVE A TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE THE POWER TO MAKE LAWS AGAINST SLAVERY IN SPITE OF THE DRED SCOTT DECISION. THIS STATEMENT ANGERED THE SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS AND IN 1860 THEY REJECTED DOUGLAS AS A CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

DOUGLAS WAS RE-ELECTED TO THE SENATE BY A NARROW MAJORITY OF 8 VOTES, BUT THIS DISCUSSION HELPED TO SPLIT THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND MADE IT POSSIBLE FOR THE REPUBLICANS TO ELECT LINCOLN TO THE PRESIDENCY IN 1860.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The railroad stocks, under the lead of the socalled Van Sweringen Nickel Plate group, were the leaders in a sharp rally in stock prices in the short session of the stock market today.

Reports that the minority committee of the Chesapeake and Ohio road were meeting with good success in their efforts to secure a 10 to 12 per cent dividend guaranty for their stock in the nickel plate consolidation, resulted in heavy buying interest for the stock, which rushed up 12 points to 171½. Nickel Plate advanced 6 points to above 188, while Standard Rails like New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern railroad and Pere Marquette, recovered from 2 to 4 points of their recent losses.

With the buoyant movement in the rails as a stimulus, many of the industrial stocks were marked up at the expense of the bearish traders. United States Steel and General Motors were in the fore-front of this fallying movement, though various industrial and specialty stocks sold up a point or more in active trading.

Suit Cases Full Of Liquor Are Evidence In Case

W. A. Rowan, Charged With Transporting Liquor, On Trial At Court

W. A. Rowan, charged with transporting liquor, was placed on trial before Judge James A. McLaughry at court this morning. Two suit cases containing liquor were brought into court as evidence.

County Detective George Kennedy testified that on the evening of July 3 he and another officer were returning from Youngstown on a Baltimore and Ohio train. He saw Rowan with the suitcases on the train. When Rowan got off at the Seventh ward station Kennedy followed and arrested Rowan as he was taking the suit cases to a taxi which was waiting at the station.

Special District Attorney Charles R. Davis is representing the commonwealth and Attorney A. Martin Graham the defense.

New High Record In Car Loadings

Growing Volume Of Domestic Trade Is Indicated By Week's Record

MONEY MARKET IS BIG FACTOR

By W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Stock market sentiment was largely controlled this week by developments and anticipated developments in the money market.

Continuance of the 5 per cent call loan rate until the latter part of this week and the growing conviction that federal reserve bank rediscount rates will be pushed upward in the near future placed a handicap in the pathway of advancing stock prices and professional trade took advantage of these factors to offer stocks at lower prices.

No action was taken on the rediscount rate by the reserve bank directors this week, but the weekly reports of the various banks of the system point strongly to the possibility of an increase in the rate in the near future. Reserve ratio of the whole system declined from 74.3 per cent to 71.6 per cent of reserves, while the New York bank reported a decline of 74.8 from 79.2. Boston from 81.9 to 74.7, Philadelphia 75.9 to 71.7, Chicago 76.6 to 73.7.

Another new high record in freight car loadings emphasized the growing volume of domestic trade, confirming the forecasts and official reports of industrial trade leaders since mid-summer. There was no important development in trade circles, although the trend in commodity prices was firmer and the turnover of wholesale and retail commodities was on the increase. Crude oil production showed the first evidence of a decline since the latter part of June and gasoline consumption continued unusually heavy.

Outside of the recognized market leaders in the motor, industrial and specialty groups, the market was dull and featureless with the volume of trading below the average of the last few weeks. Professional and pool support of the moving picture stocks made them the excitable speculative features of the week but their market course was punctuated with sharp dips as well as advances, marking them "dangerous" for the so-called outside trader.

General Motors, United States Steel, American Smelting and other high priced stocks assumed the constructive leadership of the market in mid-week, and under their direction the tone of the whole market improved. But bearish professionals persistently offered all stocks on the rallies, and most of the well known industrials closed the week at lower prices than at last Friday's closing.

The rails were inactive and dull, though prices held firmly. Copper stocks were well bought, oils were reactionary after a firm opening, sugars and tobaccos retired to the background and equipment shares, with the exception of Pullman, displayed a reactionary tone.

Cheer Football Team At High

Assembly Period Devoted To Boosting For Athletic Success

SEVERAL SPEECHES AROUSE STUDENTS

Homage was paid to the football team of New Castle High School at impressive chapel services held at the local institution Friday and if one could judge from the spirit shown by the student body it was one of the most successful that has been held in the history of the school.

After the devotional period Principal Frank L. Orth turned over the program to Ralph Gardner the faculty manager of athletics who introduced the speakers.

The first was Captain Harry Robinson and of course like all good football players Harry showed the students that he also was a public speaker of note. Harry did not say much though but he did ask the student body to be at the game Saturday as it was necessary to have their support in order to have a winning team.

Merit Hoag, the student manager of athletics gave the outline of this year's schedule as it would be played and also remarked that several refreshments booths would be erected at the stadium for the benefit for the fans and just as all things that refer to eating this made a big hit for this has always been a weak point of the football games for some people for they are always grinding their teeth when a tight situation appears and they probably figure that having something in there to grind would not be a bad idea.

Coach Bridenbaugh and Robert Millison were the remaining persons on the program and Bridie gave every one a feeling of satisfaction when he remarked that he had a fairly good team for it is seldom that he thinks they are that good at least that is what he generally says but in the final analysis no one knows just what Bridie is thinking and the best thing to do it to go out to the games and judge for yourself.

The cheerleaderes namely Sherwood Johns, Clarence Bratchie, and Bob McKensie led the entire student in some of the well known cheers and the first assembly of the year was dismissed.

Golf Is Fast Becoming Popular U. S. Sport Declares Joe Kirkwood

Joe Kirkwood, champion golfer of Australia, while at the Field Club Friday afternoon, expressed to a representative of The News, some of his views concerning the ancient game, which is becoming one of the more popular sports of the country.

According to Kirkwood, the game is becoming the pastime of greater numbers of people every year, not only in America but in practically every country of the world, it being possible to play the game, if a follower of the sport, in practically any country in the world.

It is gaining in favor as a sport, according to Kirkwood, because of its healthful exercise and because, on the golf course, there appears to prevail a type of free masonry among the players, which enables them to get closer together than in any other way.

Among other things Mr. Kirkwood said was "Previous to coming to this country five years ago, I had the impression from what I had read, that everybody here played baseball, because it was the favorite sport. I was surprised that in reality but a small percentage of the population actually play the game, the greater percentage spending time in watching it rather than taking an active part.

"In England, cricket is the national pastime. But the people play it. They don't care to sit and watch it. Now when I came to this country, five years ago, golft was not so greatly in favor. It was apparently the sport of those, who had plenty of time. At that time, if you walked down the street in knickers, the majority of people turned aroundd, looked at you and probably laughed. Today it is different. Many of the people are wearing them, whether they play golf or not.

"Municipal golf courses have placed the game within the reach of all. They have popularized the game and the ordinary man may now indulge in a game that means recreation, under the utmost healthful conditions and they are actually turning out some of the leading players of the day. Another thing that is bringing it to the fore is the fact that the young people are becoming interested, having found that it is not an old man's game as formerly thought and that it is interesting beyond the average game or sport.

"I am, I believe, the only one at the present time, going about the country, giving exhibitions such as this here today and I am doing so because I find that the American people crave variety and I am able to furnish the same by a demonstration of the possibilties of golf."

Mr. Kirkwood has been playing the game intensively for the past fifteen years. He has given up tournament work and gone into the proposition of giving exhibitions. He plays on an average of six exhibition matches a week and is always in good form. He probably hits twice as many balls as any golfer in the country. He hits at least 250 every day, fifty per cent being for full shots.

He came here from Philadelphia. He has been in the Philadelphia and New York district for several weeks giving exhibitions. He went from here to Indiana Harbor.

College Pranks At Westminster

WHO'S WHO EVENT OF THIS EVENING

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—School is on at Westminster college. This fact has been very obvious during the past 48 hours.

The bulk of the activities has been other than those listed on the curriculum for the first few days of school and they have brought entertainment to many.

Thursday evening the freshmen were marched to prominent places in the vicinity of the campus by sophomores and given an opportunity to exhibit their respective abilities.

At the same time the sophomore lassies were royally entertaining their young sisters, the freshmen. At the Hillside, the girls' dorm, each of the second year girls drew the name of a freshman girl immediately after the evening meal. Then during the early evening hours, the sophomore women each took a freshman in tow and walked them around the campus, telling them of the traditions and customs of the institution and doing everything in their power to make them feel at home.

At the Friday chapel service, Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of the college, presided and took the opportunity to have each new member of the faculty formally presented to the students. The heads of the various departments made the introductory addresses.

The teachers introduced were: Miss Juanita Robinson, professor in modern languages; Miss Lois Doolittle, professor in modern languages; W. S. Vance, instructor in the department of English; Royal A. Gettmann, an instructor in public speaking and teacher in debate and argumentation; Rev. John Caughey, professor in Bible; Hunter D. Farrish, instructor in history; John Lawther, professor in phychology and education; James W. Coleman, physical director; Jack Hulme, swimming instructor, and A. A. McDonald, graduate manager of athletics.

Saturday evening the annual "Who's Who" party will be held in the college gymnasium under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. This party affords the opportunity for freshmen to become acquainted with other undergraduates and members of the faculty in addition to many alumni.

Dr. Wallace will occupy the pulpit at the first Sunday evening chapel service the coming Sabbath.

Body Of Man Is Found In Woods

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 18.—Thomas Reilly, aged 45, an employe of the W. S. Morrison Contracting Company of New Brighton, living near South Heights, was found dead by fellow employes in some woods near the camp early this morning. Coroner Henry C. McCarter has been notified and it is thought that he will find the cause of death to be apoplexy. No relatives of the deceased man are known and the body is at Darroch's mortuary, Woodlawn, awaiting someone to claim it.

Rev. Bob Ingersol At City Mission

Will Be In Charge Of Services On Sunday And Every Evening Next Week

The services during the past week have been very interesting to those who attended the City Mission, and they have enjoyed the ministry of Rev. Ingersoll of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mr. Ingersoll will be in charge of the service Sunday evening. He will render special solos and bring the gospel message from the text Isaiah 45:22, Look unto Me and be ye saved; all the ends of the earth for I am God, and there is none else.

Those who have not had the privilege during the past week of hearing Mr. Ingersoll, will be glad to know that he will preach again Sunday evening and every evening this coming week.

Special solo numbers will be rendered by Mrs. W. P. Felch at the beginning of the service Sunday evening, and Mr. Ingersoll will render special music at the close of the service.

The ladies of the Mothers' circle of the City Mission are making plans for the opening of the usual mission sewing school which will be held as usual on Saturday afternoon. The opening date for these classes will be announced later.

Accident Victims Return To Homes

The Burton family included Ola Mae and Jean Burton, P. W. Burton, Elmer C Burton and daughter, Elinor Ann Burton; Mrs. Harvey Weible of Sharon, and Mrs. William McKain, mother of Mrs. Emma Burton, who were on their way to Youngstown Wednesday night when the accident occurred.

ABE MARTIN On Home Life

"Yes, we expect t' git married jest as soon as we kin find a woman t' run our home," we heard a girl say recently. Th' ole, original understandin' between a feller an' his bride used t' be that he'd make th' livin' if she'd run th' house. That's how th' expression, "The woman in th' home," got started. But th' home is th' last place we'd expect t' find a woman t'day. She's more liable t' be in politics, or in th' divorce court, or in th' English channel, or at some downtown club, or loafin' on th' mezzanine floor o' some hotel, or shoppin'. It's gittin' so a husband's affairs if he's any sort of a husband at all, are controlled by his wife's activities. If he hain't bein' dragged somewheres agin his will, or stickin' at home t' watch th' children, he's tryin' t' git th' loose ends of his business in shape. Husbands are gittin' t' neglect ther work more'n more. They worry all day about where they'll have to' go in th' evenin', they worry about ther children bein' alone an' playin' in th' street, an' they're allus wonderin' where ther wives are. "I'm allus so glad when my wife's folks visit us. I like t' see my home lighted up an' hear th' rattle o' dishes." I hear a feller say. Art Small closed his drug store th' other day t' go home an' hang his overcoat in th' sun. "I close down ever' now an' then durin' th' moth season," he says. "Th' cost o' bein' married has fer more than trebled 'specially if you've got kids" remarked Elmer Swank recently. "As soon as kids are big enough t' dress 'emselves they're sent off t' some boardin' school so ther mother kin run. I've found out that wives don't thrive if they're penned up." We all remember when so-called "select schools" fer boys an' girls used t' be few an' widely scattered, but since women have been emancipated thousan's of 'em have sprung up almost overnight. It's gittin' so women rebel agin bein' tied down long enough t' water a few little innocent gold fish while windin' a clock, raisin' a fern pinchin' off dried petunia buds, gatherin' up th' Sunday paper, changin' a canary, lettin' a meter reader in th' house, or hangin' out an ice card, are little incidentals about th' home that have long since come t' be regarded as slavish drudgery' gallin' an' hateful t' th' modern home maker. "Indeed, I'll not hang th' ice card out. It wouldn' be no time till th' whole ice card responsibility would be shifted t' my shoulders" said Mrs. Lafe Bud t' her husband one mornin'. But I'll say this fer women—some o' them'll wash dogs even if they won't wash ther own hair. Keepin' our homes in use an' lighted up, o' course is a problem, but as regards raisin' children th' boardin' schools an' colleges seem t' have that matter purty well in hand. Th' surprisin' divorce o' th' week owin' t' th' prominence o' the two families' wuz th' Mamie an' Lester Kite split up cause Lester wuz afraid t' go in his house when nobuddy wuz there.

The Franklin Road grade crossing of the Bessemer Railroad has claimed another victim in the person of Phillip Alexander 19, of this community injured there Thursday morning.

Mr. Alexander is improving is the report at the hospital today where he was taken for treatment of the compound fracture of his right leg which resulted. Like many other autoists injured at this crossing Alexander did not see that it was occupied by a freight into which he drove due to the heavy fog that overhung the valley there after the rain. The crossing is at the foot of a very steep hill and is customarily approached at a good speed. Alexander is one of four people that have been injured there during the year. Three were killed at this crossing several years ago. The accidents have been at night and due to the heavy fog.

United Brethren Churches Will Support Fisher

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 18. — Members of the Allegheny conference of United Brethren today were on record as supporting the candidacies of John S. Fisher, of Indiana, for governor, and William B. Wilson for United States senator, following action of the conference in passing resolutions calling upon members of the denomination to vote for the two candidates.

Park avenue United Brethern church, here, was chosen to entertain the conference at its 1927 meeting, to be held here.

With much of the routine work of the conference out of the way, delegates today looked forward to the announcement of appointments of the new year to be made public today or tomorrow.

Install Drinking Fountains At News

One Located In Lobby Will Be Available For Use By News Patrons

Among the latest improvements at the up-to-date and modern office and plant of The New Castle News, is the installation of a number of drinking fountains, with the water kept at a desirable cool temperature by the Frigidaire system.

One of the fountains is located in the mechanical department, and one is in the main first floor lobby of The News building, where it will be available for the public having business in The News office.

The pedestal for his fountain in the main lobby is a fine piece of work, and was made at the plant of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Company of this city.

The fountains were installed as the result of arrangements with O. A. Knapp, in charge of the Frigidaire service in this locality, and are the first of the kind to be put in operation in New Castle.

Through the operation of these fountains there is always available at The News, a supply of good cool drinking water, in sanitary fountains, and the installation of these fountains is a modern convenience that is much appreciated by the employes of the plant, and will doubtless prove an appreciable convenience to many patrons of The News in the future.

Proposed Paris Flight Postponed

(International News Service)

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 18—The proposed flight of the Sikorsky biplane from here to Paris has been postponed until Monday at the earliest, and it probably will not be made before next Tuesday.

"Weather reports indicate very unfavorable weather for the next three days", Captain Rene Fonck, chief pilot, explained.

TWO TRY TO BRIBE SHERIFF IN MURDER CASE, IS CHARGED

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18. — Robert Simmons and Joseph O'Brien, Patton youths, today went on trial jointly on charges filed in connection with the death of Mary Elizabeth Bogan, 19, step-sister of Simmons, during an automobile ride on the night of June 7.

Frank Coutereaux, 19, also of Patton, today stood convicted of manslaughter in connection with the girl's death, by verdict of a jury in President Judge John E. Evans' court here.

The three youths were arrested when they returned from the automobile ride with the girl's body.

Couteraux' defense at his trial was that the girl had leaped from their car, suffering fatal injuries.

Trial of Simmons and O'brien opened immediately after the verdict was returned against Coutereaux, and was postponed until today.

Sharon Car Line To Be Abandoned

Trolley Service To Be Discontinued On October 8 By Company

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18.—The Sharon and New Castle Railway Co., running between New Castle and the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line will discontinue operating on and after October 8, 1926, an order to this effect being handed down Friday by Judge Schoonmaker.

The court order was granted on petition of Rufus Moses, receiver of the Sharon and New Castle Railway Co. The receiver stated that the line could not operate at a profit. He averred that the Ohio public utilities commission agreed to the discontinuance. The court ordered that the receivership be continued until further orders.
